Enjoy the bounty at the Holland Marsh Soupfest

What could be better on a cool day in early fall than a piping hot bowl of soup, or better yet, samples of various soups, made from locally grown, locally harvested fresh produce?

This year marks the 10th annual Holland Marsh Soupfest. Presented by the Holland Marsh Growers Association, The Town of Bradford West Gwillimbury and the Township of King, the Holland Marsh Soupfest is a farm to table festival that showcases the Holland Marsh as one of the top vegetable producers in Ontario.

As always, attendees get a chance to sip and savour delicious soups prepared by some of the finest chefs, and home chefs from around the province. Last year Soupfest attendees were able to sample 26 different soups! In addition to sampling soup, attendees can vote for their favourite soup makers to help them win the coveted people's choice award!

The Holland Marsh Soupfest isn't only about soup. Enjoy the day browsing through 20 different vendors; pick up fresh produce from the farmers market, and listen to live music featuring 'The Strange Potatoes.' And don't forget about the Kids Zone!

Join the hundreds of other soup lovers on Saturday, Sept. 29 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. (or until soup runs out). Soupfest is hosted in the hamlet of Ansnorveldt (18997 Dufferin Street), right in the Marsh.
