Family distraught over shooting of family dog

By Mark Pavilons

A King City family has been devastated by the apparent intentional shooting of their family dog.

Derrick Simonis and his family were "wrecks" over this horrible tragedy, that occurred some time on Feb. 25. The family lives on a 100-acre farm on Jane Street, near King Hills Lane.

Simonis said he found his five-and-a-half-year-old German shepherd Dutchess behind the barn that afternoon and brought her to the vet where she was put down. She had enough strength to make it home for some last goodbyes.

Simonis said she was shot with a .22-calibre firearm, likely a small rifle. He has his suspicions and he confronted a resident who denied it. Simonis said he followed the blood trail.

He met with York Regional Police, who are investigating.

According to York Regional Constable Laura Nicolle, criminal investigators are looking for witnesses in this case of animal cruelty.

When officers arrived at the Simonis property Feb. 25 at 4:30 p.m., they determined the dog was shot after it wandered off the owner's property.

York Regional Police are working with the Ontario SPCA on this ongoing investigation. They're asking any witnesses or anyone with information to contact them at 1-866-876-5423, ext. 7141 or call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS.

Terms of reference for museum board

By Mark Pavilons

King's Community Museum Board took another step closer to reality, with the creation of terms of reference.

King councillors recently received a report on those guiding principles, from Chris Fasciano, parks, recreation and culture director, and King Museum curator Kathleen Fry.

Staff and the current board have been working on the draft terms for the past three months. Board members were given the opportunity to discuss the makeup and direction of the new community board.

From here, they will gather feedback from decision-makes, stakeholders, community groups and the general public, before the document is finalized.

Once completed, it will establish the guiding principles for the museum board which is charged with developing the museum, its ongoing programs and future direction.

"A newly developed Terms of Reference will become a tool that will support, recognize and celebrate our thriving volunteer community by empowering the board to explore opportunities and projects to enhance the museum," the report states. It will also help celebrate King's cultural identity and further enhance King's arts, culture and heritage.

The Township took over responsibility of the Museum from the King Township Historical Society back in 2001. A board of management was established and staff hired.

A new strategic business plan for the museum was created last year and outlined six goals deemed essential to the future success of the museum. New terms of reference were required to offer assistance to a new community board.

The purpose of the new board is to focus on supporting the development of the strategic plan, its goals and vision and assist with marketing and fundraising.

Once these terms are approved by council, the museum board will no longer be appointed by council and they will act more autonomously.

Editorial, Letters & Opinion

"Public opinion shapes our destinies and guides the progress of human affairs"

~ Frank B. Kellogg

It's vital for parents to read food labels

Know what you're putting in your body.

That may seem like common sense, but how often do we read the labels of each and every packaged product we buy?

Ontario has introduced legislation that requires calories now be posted on menus.

This, the government contends, will make it easier for families to make informed and healthy food choices when eating out.

The Making Healthier Choices Act, if passed, would make Ontario the first province to require food service premises to post calories on menus.

The proposed legislation was developed following consultations with the food industry, health sector and parents. Specific measures in the legislation include:

· Requiring calories for food and beverages, including alcohol, to be posted on menus and menu boards in restaurants, convenience stores, grocery stores and other food service premises with 20 or more locations in Ontario.

· Requiring food service operators to post a contextual statement that would help to educate patrons about their daily caloric requirements.

• Authorizing public health inspectors to enforce menu labelling requirements.

This initiative builds on other steps Ontario is taking to help families live healthier, including the Healthy Kids Community Challenge - a province-wide initiative encouraging community leaders along with private and public sector partners to come together and develop initiatives to help kids stay healthy and active.

Making it easier for Ontario families to choose healthy foods is a key component of the Healthy Kids Strategy and

Mark Pavilons

Care.

According to the government, up to 60 per cent of large chain restaurants with more than 20 locations in Ontario already provide nutritional information voluntarily to their customers (upon demand, on websites or in store).

Approximately 95 per cent of Ontarians support requiring fast food restaurants to list nutrition information on their menus.

Canada has had food labelling regulations for more than 20 years.

While informing people of fat and calories may help them be more aware, allergy information on labels can save someone's life.

In recent years, labels have contained supports Ontario's Action Plan for Health vitally important allergy information.

Letter to the Editor Plans for 2014 Kettleby Fair are moving ahead

As a parent of a child with a life-threatening peanut allergy, such information is not only a bonus, it's vital.

We often call restaurants, or visit their websites, to obtain allergy and nutritional information. Fortunately, more and more places are posting this information.

It can be an ordeal when we go out as a family. We have to check, double check, and often ask to speak to a manager to ensure what we serve our child is safe.

When first diagnosed with the allergy, we had to undertake a total household cleanse, removing any and all products that contained peanuts or even "may contain." You'd be surprised just how many items that involves.

Most dessert products "may contain" such as cereals, breads, chocolate bars, cookies, ice cream, pastries and the like. Would you think there are nuts in baby wipes, shampoo or lip balm? Did you know that shea butter is derived from a tree nut?

People with tree nut allergies tend to suffer from them for their entire life. It's estimated that 91% of children allergic to tree nuts never overcome their allergy. Besides digestive problems, allergic reactions include asthma, hives, atopic dermatitis and anaphylactic shock.

Among the wide variety of tree nuts, the most common offenders include cashews, walnuts and almonds. Because people are rarely allergic to just one kind of tree nut, it's advised that you just steer clear of all of them.

A person may experience an allergic reaction to tree nuts even if they don't ingest them. Merely touching or using a topical product that contains them can be dangerous.

Kyleigh used a soap at school one day that contained shea butter and her hands were like balloons when we picked her up

We've had to rid our place of certain dog foods, soaps, sunscreens and bird seed. Pet food doesn't fall under the same regulations, so it's really important to check those out.

At first, our youngest child felt sad and scared about her allergy. She has to always carry an EpiPen and has been taught how to use it. We have to make sure whenever she's in a strange environment for the first time, that others know about her allergy and know about her EpiPen.

We have to ask every household she enters whether they have nuts, or have eaten nuts recently.

Kim accompanies her to most every birthday party, picnic or social gathering to keep a watchful eye over our precious cargo.

Soon, more bar codes will allow those of us with a smart phone to scan the item and get all of this information immediately.

Schools can be dangerous places for kids with allergies. Even though most schools today are nut-free, they can always find their way into kids' lunches. Some parents just don't get it.

I praise the government for insisting that food labels contain all the correct information. While cutting back on calories is one thing, making sure every potential allergen is accounted for a must.

On behalf of the Kettleby Fair committee of the Kettleby Village Association, I am happy to announce that plans are going forward to hold the 38th edition of Kettleby Fair this Sept. 6.

The present committee members are very keen to organize yet another fair. You have to agree that they are not easily discouraged!

Our model will be one of "weather permitting." In the event of weather being an issue, will issue a decision to cancel the Fair not later than Thursday, Sept. 4 at 5 p.m. This call will, of course, be determined by a combination of the weather that week (which dictates the conditions of the grounds) and the forecast for Friday and Saturday. Accessibility to the fairgrounds in Tyrwhitt Park is the critical issue.

It is our intention to make a contract available notifying all participants of this policy so there is no confusion. In addition, we will place "Fair Cancelled" signs over the larger signs in the area as soon as possible, while removing the smaller signs. And of course the website will also reflect the change in plan.

The chances of a third rainout are not mitigated by the fact we have had two rainouts in a row, so it is prudent to plan for the worst while expecting the best.

We hope the past two years of weather will not deter our marketplace participants, food vendors, volunteer groups and entertainers from joining in the fun of staging the 38th edition. Many have assured us that outdoor fair vendors and entertainers are a hardy, good natured bunch who spend the entire season calculating the risk of weather. And our intention of advance cancellation has been met with positive response on the sampling we have already done.

Stewardship takes centre stage at sustainability session

By Chris McGowan

Stewardship groups from across King came together Feb. 23, to talk about their projects and programs.

Information sessions like this one are being held over the winter months to help people understand about sustainable lands.

King Councillor Debbie Schaefer kicked off the session by suggesting, "there is a need for volunteers with all stewardship groups because we all treasure the natural heritage we have in King, but in order to treasure it, they need to understand it, and then how do you go about looking after something that is a treasure."

This point was the true deliverable for the session.

Sustainable King has a budget of $20,000 that will be used to support initiatives by the citizens of King to move King to a point of sustainability.

There were eight guest speakers at this session - Greg Losos, from Toronto Regional Conservation Authority (TRCA); raine Land Trust said: "We need eyes Mark Stabb from the Nature Conservancy of Canada; Judy Gilchrist from the Oak Ridges Moraine Land Trust; Brittany Ballagh from the Lake Simcoe Region Conservation Authority; Nigel Hussey and Bill Wilson from the Cold Creek Stewardship Committee; Mike Williams from Ducks Unlimited and Mary Asselstine from the Dufferin Marsh Committee.

Nominate volunteers who help make King better

By Mark Pavilons

A community is as great and strong as its willingness to serve. Volunteers make up the very fabric that is King Township.

It's one of the biggest annual community events in King and it's something that's near and dear to councillors and Mayor Steve Pellegrini.

"King is greatest community because of our volunteers past and present. Period," said Mayor Pellegrini.

"They are the ones who fund raised and built our many facilities and our volunteers provide many services that truly add to our quality of life.

"Whether it is the Easter Egg Hunt, one of the many fairs and events, or the incredible programs be it sports, arts, guiding and so many, many more, it is the volunteers who make it happen.

"I thank each and everyone who has helped to make our Township a better place by volunteering. Not only do you better our lives but I guarantee that you will have fun and meet fabulous people.

Please lend a hand and volunteer there are so many options available. If you are interested we do have a site on our Township website for volunteering."

The public is encouraged to nominate special people in their community in several categories.

The Citizen of the Year Award recognizes outstanding contributions to the community. For citizens or organizations, there are Special Recognition Awards.

You can nominate an individual for a Lifetime Achievement honour for many years of dedicated service. There's a Senior Citizen Award of Merit for those 65 and older and a Youth Award of Merit for those 21 or younger.

Nominations for volunteer awards must be submitted on the form from the clerks department, and received by the Township no latter than Friday, March 14 at 4:30 p.m. You can get a copy of the form at the Township office in King City, or on the website, www.king.ca.

Villanova students hold Oscar night at Richview Manor on Sunday, March 2. The red carpet and live entertainment made it a grand evening indeed.

By Chris McGowan

Richview is a retirement living complex but the design and décor is reminiscent of a luxury hotel or condo. They have evening, cocktails and hors d'oeuvres approximately 90 senior residents with room for more that receive either independent or assisted living accommodation.

Students from Villanova College volunteer at Richview every Friday for two hours in a program that is called "Adopt a senior," and on Oscar night, Melissa Peruzza and Rachael Schachtler interviewed residents and other participants on the red carpet.

Resident Irene Miller was dressed for the evening in a long gown and shawl and happily participated in a red carpet interview by Peruzza. Other students from St. Mary's school in Nobleton participating in the evening were Jenna and Sam Gulizia and Stephanie Micel. Judging by the smiles on their faces they seemed to enjoy the evening as much as the seniors.

The entertainment portion of the evening was provided by students from Musaic School of Music located in Vaughan. They acted out skits and sang songs from movies of the past, such as "Grease." Anna Walpole, the Life Enrichment It was Oscar night at Richview Manor General Manager, said the students from Musaic practiced for weeks prior to the evening and it showed with an array of different costumes and catchy, upbeat > songs. After the entertainment portion of the were served and then the residents went to watch the Oscars on a large screen TV in the auditorium just off the grand entrance in the home.

> Richview has held Oscar night for the last three years and was suggested by one of the original residents Berit Plunkett. "I love the Oscars" she said, as she gladly took her seat in the front row to watch the entertainment.

> Joseph Gulizia, the president and CEO of Richview Manor said: "We want to create a positive way for the residents to live" and it is clear that is what they are doing.

> Richview Manor is one of the groups of assisted living homes owned by Universalcare.

NOTICE OF COMMENCEMENT TMIG KING TOWNSHIP WATER/WASTEWATER AND STORMWATER MASTER PLANS

INTRODUCTION D What are these Master Plans all about?

The Township of King has initiated a review and analysis of water, wastewater, and stormwater services in King City. Nobleton and Schomberg which will result in Water/Wastewater and Stormwater Master Plans to support projected growth scenarios outlined in the Growth Plans in place for each community (King City, Nobleton, Schomberg), and to ensure systems are adequate for the existing communities.

These studies will support the Township 9 Official Plan and the individual Community Plans. The studies will consider all lands designated for development, plus an allowance to accommodate intensification within the existing development limits as established by York Region and the provincial Growth Plan (Places to Grow)

MASTER PLAN CLASS ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT D A formal Ministry of the Environment Process

These studies are being conducted in accordance with the requirements of Phases 1 and 2 of the Municipal Class Environmental Assessment, which is an approved process under the Environmental Assessment Act

The MPCEA process includes public and review agency consultation, an assessment of the problem and opportunities, an evaluation of alternative solutions, an assessment of potential effects on the environment, and identification of reasonable measures to mitigate the adverse effects. The preferred solution(s) will be determined based on engineering requirements, environmental considerations (natural, social, economic), public input and information gathered during the studies

ATTEND A PUBLIC CONSULTATION CENTRE D Help us plan for the future!

Public consultation is a key component of the MPCEA process. We would like to invite you, your friends, and your neighbours to participate in the Public Consultation Centres (PCCs) to inform these studies. At the PCCs, you will be able to learn about our approach and our findings, ask us questions, and share your thoughts and opinions. Your input will help ensure there is adequate water, wastewater and stormwater infrastructure in place for your community that can also support mandated growth in King Township. Your participation in PCCs is important to us.

Imagine thirty to forty years ago if you were told that lasers would replace scalpels in surgery or that robotic instruments would build cars; you may not have believed it. By the same token, would you believe that chiropractic treatments could be performed using a special hand-held instrument developed by NASA scientists, all while you were sitting in an upright position without any turning or twisting movements?

Advances in computers and engineering technologies been able to have uniquely blend with chiropractic in order to both analyze and treat and pin-point areas a way that was never before realized.

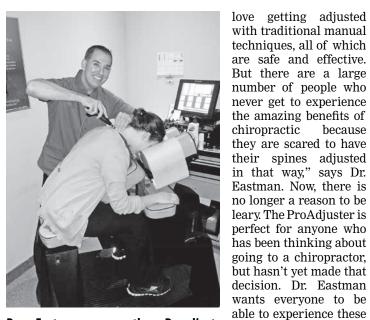

According to Dr. Sean

Eastman, "This new form of computerized treatment is so gentle and effective, that it amazes even the most skeptical patients. It's called the ProAdjuster and is the latest, stateof-the-art technology in existence today, and the only one in the north Richmond Hill area

The ProAdjuster can safely and gently analyze and treat the spine and other joints to remove the nerve impingement that is often the cause of pains in the lower back, neck, shoulder, and elsewhere in the body. It also works on a variety of muscular conditions to loosen tight muscles with ease and comfort. Many patients say that it's like getting a mini-massage.

It can also help increase the amount of motion in almost any joint. Even patients with knee, hip, and foot problems such as plantar fasciitis are being helped. It is also covered by insurance companies since this is a chiropractic treatment and does not cost you anything additional.

Dr. Eastman says that "The secret to the Pro-Adjuster lies in its advanced piezoelictric sensor that is able to detect the slightest amount of restriction in a joint and then deliver an extremely precise adjustment." He says that "Even though traditional forms of adjusting also work, people are drawn to this new technique because of how gentle it is and does not involve any twisting, especially in the neck. Changing weather patterns across the globe have impacted our food supply, and if we don't take more than a passing interest, we're in for a harsh awakening.

Local food experts are sounding the alarm bells that if consumers don't take note, they will not only be paying exorbitant prices for imported products, but we may one day find ourselves in big trouble. duce food you need water. You also need

The worst drought in California's history will result in an estimated loss of $5 billion in production and indirect eco- much of our produce through the winnomic impacts.

It will also inflate the prices of imported products in Canadian grocery stores later this year.

Canadians are paying record high prices for their produce. What's wrong with relying on imports?

and King Councillor Avia Eek, the pro- outside of Canada.

duce industry is a global market. We have numerous trading partners outside of Canada, either because of availability of the produce or the fact it's just cheaper for the big chain stores to acquire it outside of our country. This is due to lower production costs, labour, different rules and regulations regarding crop protection.

Eek observed that in order to prohealthy soil.

California provides Canadians with ter months. Canadians can enjoy homegrown carrots, onions, cabbage, apples, turnip, potatoes, rutabagas, beets, parsnips, root celery, and starting around March, tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers. But things like lettuce, cauliflower. broccoli, grapes, other tender fruits and According to Holland Marsh farmer veggies come from our trading partners

If they have a weather event that wipes out their crop, or experience a drought or too much precipitation that impacts their food production negatively, we are impacted because at certain times of the year, we rely heavily on imports to feed us.

"There is plenty of Canadian produce, but people are used to a variety of food throughout the winter," Eek observed. "Think back to when you were growing up - in our house we ate seasonally.

"Truth be told, we do not pay nearly enough for the food we eat - the prices we pay, do not reflect the true cost of food production in this country."

Buying locally serves a couple of purposes, she pointed out. It helps keep our own farmers viable and able to continue to grow and expand their farm operations to meet the needs of our growing population. It's expensive to farm when you consider land purchase, equipment purchase, labour costs, cost to keep up with rules and regulations for food safety, environment. human rights.

And, buying local gives us food security. "Imagine if the borders were shut down, and no imports were able to reach us. Wars have been won or lost based on food availability!"

Jamie Reaume, executive director of the Holland Marsh Growers' Association, said the age of cheap California produce has come to an end. And consumers need to be aware of this.

China has lost eight million acres of farmland to contaminated soil.

Climate shifts are taking place all over the world, and having devastating impacts on our food supply. Reaume noted Brazil, too, has suffered from a record lack of water. "There's no coming back from that one," he observed.

"We continue to ignore these (occurrences) at our own peril," he stressed.

The bottom line is consumers don't want to give up their non-seasonal food choices. They want to eat things like oranges, strawberries and kiwis yearround. In the consumer-driven marketplace, demand wins out, as long as consumers are willing to pay.

Sustainability or self-sufficiency, is key and we have better opportunities here in Canada today. But the reality is we live in high-cost society. Reaume pointed out Canadians have never known hunger. He recently met with a delegation from Nigeria, which is going through hardship trying to find methods to feed 170 million people. Does accessing local food supply help? Absolutely, Reaume said, but it takes time to change our decades-old mind set. We've allowed a handful of companies dictate how we eat, but we have to start looking at the home front and our own national resources. Jason Verkaik, of the Marsh-based Carron Farms, said we have to have relationships with other countries in a bal- 508-5860 ext, 227 or hpatten@chats.on.ca.

ance through an integrated system. In season, local growers can supply grocery stores with Canadian grown produce. But we rely tremendously on imports, too. The only way the system will ultimate work and flourish is with a solid base at home.

Verkaik said Canada and the U.S. share an estimated $10 billion in trade of produce per year. While we export roughly $3 billion, the majority is still imported directly or indirectly from the U.S.

"These are staggering numbers," he said. If we rely 100% on imports, we're in big trouble, he said.

We need a solid national base if for no other reason than to sustain ourselves.

"We have to really encourage and promote local farmers as much as possible," Verkaik said.

The continued health of our agricultural sector is key to our own sustainability.

King bylaw staff kept busy with occurrences

By Mark Pavilons

King Township's small bylaw enforcement staff are kept busy on a daily basis. The bylaw enforcement activities were presented to King council recently, in a report by Clerk Kathryn Smyth.

She noted bylaw enforcement is carried out in every community across King and residents rely on this service. She stressed that each incident requires time, attention and resources to achieve compliance.

There were 496 occurrences last year, down from the 622 in 2012. As well, officers dished out 196 parking tickets in 2013, also down from the 305 written in 2012.

Parking tickets dominated the occurrences, followed by 137 property standards issues. Another 71 site alteration cases were handled.

Smyth noted the reason parking tickets dropped was a change in enforcement at the King City GO station parking lot.

Site alteration occurrences deal with the dumping of fill or construction activities taking place without proper permits.

Even though total complaints dropped last year, property related matters remain as the number-one concern. More than half of all occurrences involve site alteration, property standards and zoning.

Calls are linked to the seasons and the largest volumes are experienced April though August

"As the Township continues to grow in population, it is anticipated that there will be increased demand for service over time," Smyth noted.

The Township generates revenue through ticket fines and permit fees. The net revenue from all sources last year was $19,083.16. Sign permit revenues increased last year due to major commercial developments

Smyth anticipates that revenue will continue to climb in 2014.

Last year, staff started using King's Land Manager software, which allows better managing and information sharing of all occurrences.

A number of bylaws have undergone a review recently, the most notable being the sign bylaw and discharge of firearms bylaw. Others are still being discussed.

As calls increase, so too does the demand on staff time. Smyth said increased staff may be necessary down the road to handle the volume, which is being constantly monitored.

King's Solar Tomorrow offers cutting edge technology

By Mark Pavilons

It's the way of the future and the future is now

The technology is proven, and a King resident is on the cutting edge of solar thermal green energy.

John Swift has spent the last six years, and his own resources, developing his company, Solar Tomorrow and its products. The key is that Swift has one of the best technologies in the world and he's looking for Canadian projects to showcase his methods and add value to the community. In the end, Solar Tomorrow's technology will benefit us all and lessen our reliance on fossil fuels.

But therein lies the unique hurdle in green technology - our reliance on gas and oil and the powerful multinational conglomerates - somewhat stymie our progress. The fact is, Canada and Ontario are way behind their counterparts in the United States and Europe when it comes to alternative energy practices.

Solar thermal energy, Swift contends, should be mandatory in any building design. In fact, European countries like Germany are requiring new commercial construction to incorporate solar electrical or solar thermal technology. German solar power set a world solar record for electricity produced from solar PV systems recently. That country boasts roughly 1.4 million PV systems.

Solar Tomorrow's SRCC (Solar Rating & Certification Corporation) certification for its proprietary flat-plate glazed solar thermal collectors is the first of its kind in North America.

And it's so simple, it's almost a no-brainer. Solar Tomorrow's wall integrated or roof-mounted collectors achieve an efficiency of 80% (87% according to European standard EN 12975), thanks to an innovative design that improves heat transfer and flow characteristics.

Swift has come up with integrated solar panels within standard-sized glass spandrel panels – the kind used on almost every high rise, office tower or hotel. These collectors can be retrofitted into existing curtain wall structures without structural changes to the building and provide additional thermal and acoustic insulation. Replace standard window walls with his unique products and you can expect efficient heating, cooling and hot water sustainability almost immediately.

A mix of water and food grade glycol is pumped through the special glass panels and it's surprisingly easy to marry with existing heating/cooling systems, or install from scratch.

His products do not stick out in the landscape, but rather Solar Tomorrow's panels are attractive, light-weight, use common materials and blend in to any building's exterior or interior aesthetics.

John Swift, of Solar Tomorrow, shows off the ground-level solar thermal panels at the research greenhouse (above) and the rooftop panels at Chatham University in Pittsburgh (below).

mercial or industrial unit in Toronto and swap the windows," he said. "This design is what we need to provide in this market."

While rooftop PV units are becoming increasingly popular, Swift points to the massive glass and brick facades of most buildings as the obvious surface for solar thermal collectors. Further, studies show the majority of any building's energy needs are not electrical, but related to heating and cooling.

Swift and Solar Tomorrow have enjoyed repeated success south of the border.

Solar Tomorrow partnered with Chatham University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania to install building-integrated solar thermal collectors on Chatham's research greenhouse and roof-mounted collectors on the two highest-occupancy residence halls.

Solar Tomorrow's installation at Chatham's Shadyside campus in Pittsburgh is listed by the U.S. Department of Energy as the largest solar thermal project in Pennsylvania.

In October 2010, Solar Tomorrow completed the installation of solar collectors on Chatham's research greenhouse. The greenhouse solar thermal system was built primarily as a demonstration project, as well as to supplement space heating for the greenhouse and to collect performance data.

The collectors resemble a curtain-wall structure widely used in contemporary construction. As such, the collectors demon-

"You can go to any office building, com- strate their possible use for two distinct purposes: collecting thermal energy and providing building facade cladding.

The collectors are installed at the ground level to showcase the installation and system elements to students and visitors. Plaques describe the basics of the technology and provide information about the project, and a computer display next to the collectors shows live system data.

The school has been lauded for its innovation and receives regular visitors who want to get a first-hand glimpse into this technology. Chatham University is very pleased with the solar thermal projects and achieved rebuilding at the campus.

Through these projects, Swift has collected some three years worth of data, literally second by second. This research is invaluable

Swift also received support from Robert Boehm, Ph.D., P.E., professor of mechanical engineering and director of energy research center, University of Nevada, where Solar Tomorrow's innovative collectors were first tested in 2009.

While Swift is pleased with the response in the U.S., he wonders why his home province isn't as eager.

"Why aren't we using this free energy here?" he asks.

The desire and momentum may be there to pursue green energy, but the fact is Ontario is lagging behind.

Swift said he's often asked about the return on investment (ROI) on solar thermal. He's quick to ask about the ROI on luxury automobiles or even marble countertops for our kitchens.

The government is still subsidizing gas and oil production, and while the political will is there to pursue green, he wishes the government would put its money where its mouth is.

He needs a project to showcase and prove his technology. He's not looking for grants or handouts. He wants projects to create value and grow his company.

He's already offered his expertise and products to King Township. It would be ideal for future municipal office at the former Holy Name school site on King Road just west of King City. If this system were incorporated in this building's eventual redesign, it would serve as a landmark, a centrepiece of green technology that would be the envy of every municipality in the GTA.

The applications are seemingly endless community centres, arenas, schools, condo buildings, commercial complexes, agricultural building and houses and even powering industrial processes.

Swift points to a massive, government-support project - the Drake Landing Solar Community (DLSC) in Okotoks, Alberta. It has successfully integrated Canadian energy efficient technologies with a renewable, unlimited solar energy. The first of its kind in North America, DLSC is heated by a district system designed to store abundant solar energy underground during the summer months and distribute the energy to each home for space heating needs during winter months. The system is unprecedentsults. Solar Tomorrow has just fabricated ed in North America, fulfilling 90% of each another shipment of collectors for another home's space heating requirements from solar energy and resulting in less dependency on limited fossil fuels.

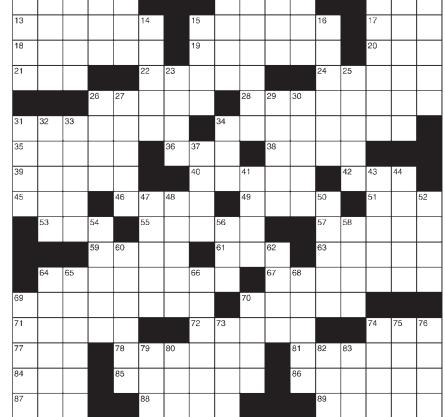

A similar operation can be built anywhere in Canada using much more efficient collectors manufactured by Solar Tomorrow, Swift points out.

King Township has a passion for sustainability and being a "green" role model.

Solar Tomorrow is ready to help.

Cougars ousted by top dogs Penetang Kings

By JEFF DONER

It wasn't the way they wanted to go out, but the Schomberg Cougars Junior C hockey club refused to go out with a whimper and instead went out with a bang in game six of their semi-final playoff series against Schomberg, scoring a power play goal at the Penetang Kings on Monday night.

Trailing the Kings three games to two heading into the game, the Cougars dug deep and gave it their all, but were ultimately eliminated after losing a heartbreaking 5-4 overtime loss after storming back in the third period.

The game started off well for the Cougars, as Declan Lampe scored just 24 seconds in to put his team up 1-0, which Christian Muenz drawing the assist.

'We came out hard just like we wanted Ewart. and we got that first goal really early and I think the excitement of scoring that first goal and all of a sudden we took our foot of the accelerator a little bit and gave up two goals," said head coach Jim Egerton after the game.

And the scoresheet doesn't lie. The Kings went on to score four straight goals and carried a 4-1 lead heading into the final 20 minutes of the game.

away," Egerton said. "Just put pucks to the net and see what happens."

The speech worked and the Cougars woke up and gave it their all for the third period in an attempt for a comeback.

JP Crescenzi led the charge for 2:48 from Kiefer McIntosh and Justin Formenton to make it 4-2.

Seconds later and again on the power play, John Gage poked home a puck off a rebound from right in close to pull the Cougars to within one goal.

Nicholas Chaykowsky was credited with the only assist on Gage's power play goal.

The Cougars continued to push feverishly for the tying marker and were buoyed by some huge timely saves by goalie Taylor

As the time ticked down, the Cougars kept pressing and eventually broke through with the tying goal, which sent the crowd into a frenzy.

Arran Mcdonald, who had missed a previous attempt at the tying goal earlier in the period, finally equalized with just over a minute left in the game sending the game into sudden death overtime.

With momentum clearly on the side of "Between the second and third period the home team, the Kings were looking we said, 'listen guys, we're a better team for a way to steal it back and did just that than this and we're not going to go out this nearly four minutes in by scoring the seway, we're going to go out and just pick ries winning goal to eliminate the Cougars from the Georgian Mid-Ontario Jr. C playoffs.

Formenton, who had another strong game for the Cougars both on the blueline and on the scoresheet, said his team rallied after the second period after a chat in the dressing room.

"We were all silent and a couple leaders on the team spoke up and that's what really got us fired up for the third," he said. "A couple power plays helped and then we were clicking nice and were able to get back into the game."

He added that it was a tough goal to five to hammer the Cougars 7-3. swallow after how they played leading up to that point.

"It was just a rebound. An overtime goal is not going to be a pretty goal and we knew that going into it, so we just tried to for us," he said. "To be the first team to get everything on the net, but they came do that all year definitely says something. down on us and potted one."

Previous Games

Earlier in the week, the Cougars showed some life in the series earning a rare road win in Penetang (the Cougars were the first team to beat the Kings on their own ice in regulation this season) and then followed that up with a 6-1 home win at the Trisan Centre on Thursday night.

But Penetang took life again in game

Earlier in the week, Gage chalked up the road win in Penetang as an important measuring stick for the young Cougar club.

James Binsfield wins gold in Para Alpine GS at Games

King City home boy, James Binsfeld, won gold again in the Para Alpine GS at Ontario Winter Games, Feb. 28 at Mt. St. Louis.

The male division included standing and sitting men. James, a hemiplegic from strokes, edged out Will Goessart, a three tracking leg amp, by .35 seconds. In third place was Andy VanGrunsven, a quadraplegic who is an amazing sit skier.

Teammates Mac and BJ Marcoux were unavailable as they are headed for Sochi for the Paralympics.

All of them will compete together at Nationals at the end of March at Whistler.

Egerton was also quick to point out that of this year's playoffs looking ahead.

been in situations like this before, it's tough mentally on them. We played one of gave them a little bit of a scare," he said.

Looking back on the season, Egerton said he is pleased with the way his team developed.

"I told the guys I was really proud of them coming to the rink tonight and wheth-"Their one line is hard to contain at any er we win or lose we're proud of what we've done being a team as young as we are and working as hard as we have all year long," he said. "Coming to work and practice, the guys were pretty dedicated.

"We went from going out four straight last year to going to game six in the second round this year, which doesn't sound like his young team will take lots of lessons out much, but to this organization it means a lot. It means we're moving forward. Hope-"We're very young compared to most fully next year we can get some of these teams. To be a young team that hasn't guys together and to hang around and the goal is to move some of these kids around to a higher level. I think if this team was to the top teams in Ontario and I think we stick around for a couple more years, we'll be the team to beat."

King Curling Club players prepare for action-packed playoffs

By Shellee Morning

"It's playoffs! And anything can happen" is a proclamation that has been said and heard many times before in the world of sport.

Twenty teams make up the Monday night Men's League and the battle for first place had been determined after regular season play.

Team Davis, who finished at the top in the Men's League, will try to defend their title again but chasers LaPlante and Frans will be applying the heat, as all are hungry for the championship title.

Winning the men's league division awards, the winners will have a chance to represent King Curling Club in next season's Zone 9 playdowns for the 2014 Dominion Curling Club Championships. So the stakes are high for the "men with brooms" and the curling is expected to be nothing less than superb.

Each team will need to stay focused on the game and read and learn what the ice is doing very quickly in the opening ends of their game, if they want to remain in the championship division.

Game one went according to plan for some, while others watched their dreams be quickly taken out.

Tean Frans, who after a very comfortable 6-0 lead after two ends, suddenly found themselves forced back into the game after Team Hampton collected a 6-ender in the 3rd. The sudden wakeup call for Skip John Frans, his son Allen, Matt Reesor and Jack Vincent not only pulled their eyelids open, but pulled out their A-game to eventually find victory in what could have been a tremendous first-round upset.

Team LaPlante easily claimed their first game over Team Gerrits and Team Davis found a way to beat Team Witherspoon. Four other top eight finishers were not so lucky.

Teams Boynton, Sheardown, Smith and Sidon, who were all positioned in the top half, were unable to triumph and have immediately landed in the consolation division.

The first of many surprises and shake-ups, as each week will have its own story to unfold. With the calibre of curling in the men's league, there is virtually no room for mistakes.

Other winners after game one included Teams Livingstone, Wright, Scott, MacDonald, T. Gerrits, Krauter and Groombridge.

So, "keep calm and curl on" as we say, and best of luck to all in your division playoff quest!

chili or a donation and there were roughly 25 different kinds of chili to choose from, including vegan, turkey and beef. At the end a winner was crowned from each category and one chili would take home the "People's Choice Award."

The proceeds from the event went to the King Township food bank, whose hard work distributed 2,008 food baskets throughout King over the holidays.

In total $460 was raised from the chili event, with the Knights of Columbus chipping in another $500, making a total of nearly $1,000 for the food bank.

Chili judges Michael Martell, pastor at Sacred Heart, and Carol Ann Trabert, president of the King Township Food Bank, tasted all the chilis and crowned Cindy DiCarlo as the beef chili champion, Janet Rodger for the turkey chili and Alma Feindell for the best vegetarian chili. Rev. Nicola Skinner of All Saints Church took home the People's Choice Award as the top chili of the evening.

King's Corners

King City United By Eleanor Fry

A big thank you to "Reverend" Wayne Lowdon for his leadership in worship. Among all his many callings, he can now add one more.

Our guest speaker was Lt. Col. (Ret.) Susan Beharriell, who is part of the King Township Sustainability Committee. King Township is blessed with so many trails, wetlands, and green spaces. It is our duty to preserve and protect these for our great and great, great grandchildren. What can we do ? Can we do more? There are so many different groups that we can choose 6 p.m? Enjoy an evening of delicious Irish to join. Can we create one more?

What if the churches of King joined together to form a "Sustainability through Faith?" We would concentrate on the beauty of this amazing world that God has presented to us and how He has urged us to care for it. The hymns we sang all related to the beauty of God's world - our world. Help us to maintain it, that it will be as beautiful 1,000 years from now.

Our guest organist once again treated us to a wonderful anthem "Open the Door of Your Heart." Oleg Samokhin is an amazing concert pianist/organist. We have been honoured to have him with us. Rosemary will return to us on Sunday.

Wednesday, March 5 was Ash Wednesspecial service with our Anglican neighbours at All Saints.

Friday, March 7 is World Day of Prayer. Each year a different country prepares the program. This year it is the Women of Egypt who are sharing the theme "Streams in the Desert." The total population is about 84.5 million. The majority beth Grove, King City. Stay after for cook-

Join us on Friday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church 13190 Keele St. N. 1:30 p.m. to learn more. The host church hopes to present some foods that might be eaten in the country that prepares the program. This is open to all men and women of the community. Join in for a time of learning and fellowship.

Have you marked your calendar for our Irish Dinner, coming, Friday, March 14 at stew, mashed spuds, freshly baked scones and breads, salad, Irish desserts, Irish dancers, Irish fiddle music and more. Ticket sales have been brisk, but don't wait to get yours - call our office 905-833-5181. There will be only a limited number at the door. Adults $15, children $6, family (2 adults, 2 children $35).

The Holy Chili Cook-off was a great success, with 26 entries. Imagine the challenge of picking a winner. Five prizes were awarded with our Alma winning for her vegetarian chili. About 110 persons attended with $460 going to the food bank, with an additional $500 added by the Knights of Columbus.

Reverend Evelyn will be back in the ofday, the first day of Lent. We shared this fice this week. Regular events will resume. Wednesdays Bible study in the chapel at 10 a.m., bell choir 6:45, vocal choir 8 p.m. Special congratulations to our local Olympic hero Alex Pietrangelo. He is indeed our King City golden boy.

World Day of Prayer in Nobleton

By John Arnott

In 1887 Mary Ellen James, an American Presbyterian, organized a day of prayer for home missions. Two years later a group of American Baptist women organized a similar event.

From this almost unnoticed beginning the idea of a world day of prayer began to grow and expand

In 1927 this event became known as the Women's World Day of Prayer. By the 1930s the world day of prayer observance had arrived in Canada and from here spread to Britain. In 1967 Roman Catholic women became a part of this observance.

Although basically Christian in concept, this event from its early years has focused on ecumenicism, appreciation of other cultures, respect for other beliefs and reconciliation. With World War II and its aftermath that focus gained much more importance and today the themes of the World Day of Prayer, as it is now known, strongly reflect this. While a few groups hold this event in September it is most widely observed across the globe on the first Friday in March.

Each year for some years now World Days of Prayer have highlighted women in different countries and the day's program is put together by the people of the country featured. The guest speaker may come that country or have a good knowledge of it. Christians of different denominations in a community take turns hosting the event.

In recent years an increasing number men have not only attended these services but have taken an active part in them.

On Friday. March 7 the Roman Catholic women of Nobleton will host our observance and welcome members of Nobleton's Anglican, Eastern Orthodox, Immanuel Reformed Orthodox, Presbyterian and United Church communities to take part in the service to be held in the new St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church on Highway 27 and Mactaggart Avenue at the northern end of the village.

This year's program has been prepared by the Christian women of Egypt with encouragement from their Moslem sisters. There are some 10 million Christians in Egypt mainly members of the ancient Coptic Church and direct descendants of the historical Ancient Egyptians. These Christians know to keep their Christianity alive and meaningful they must live their faith thus 99% of them attend church regularly.

All are invited to attend Nobleton's World Day of Prayer service this coming Friday, March 7 starting at 1:30 p.m. at St. Mary's and learn more about these remarkable people. cessibility.

All Saints By Nicola Skinner

Lent is here. At All Saints it is a time for spring cleaning the soul and also spring cleaning the house.

Every year we simultaneously prepare for Holy Week and the Rummage Sale at the same time! Perhaps this is a good thing, because there is something utterly liberating about clearing out your closets and learning to live with less clutter. We make more room to live and breathe. So too with the ancient practices of the church during Lent. We give something up (coffee, chocolate, beer, Brussel sprouts) and we make some room in our lives to live intentionally with God at the centre. We feel like chocolate and so we pray instead. We want our usual glass of wine (we are Anglicans after all) but instead we remember that if Christ could give up the lure of food, wealth and power, we too are capable of doing without. We get to clean ders of the night sky at an upour minds and our closets simultaneously, and so we are ready for the end of winter feeling lighter in body and soul.

Wednesdays during Lent are filled with opportunities for reflection. At 9:30 a.m. we will be walking though the Holy Land and investigating the last 24 hours of Jesus's life using a DVD and discussion series. Eucharist and meditation are offered in the chapel at 11 a.m. each week. At 7 p.m. we have "A Retreat in Everyday Life" using Ignatian prayer methods. All are welcome to join in. Drop by and check us out.

Forgiveness is a topic that many people struggle with. Why should we forgive? visit neweyesoldkies.com.

self? Does forgiving mean forgetting? We will be tackling some of these subjects during the sermons throughout Lent as we take a close look at forgiveness, which is at the heart of the Christian gospel.

All Saints' is an inclusive and welcoming Anglican church in the heart of King City. We strive to be a community of compassion and hope, following in the footsteps of Jesus. Service times are 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., with guided meditation at 9:15 a.m. We are located at 12935 Keele Street, King City. See www.allsaintskingcity.com. Please leave messages at 905-833-5432, and I will return your call.
