Enbridge assists King Fire & Emergency Services

Enbridge Gas Inc. is helping King Fire & Emergency Services purchase firefighting training materials, through Project Assist - a program that supplements existing training for Ontario volunteer and composite fire departments in the communities where Enbridge operates.

"At Enbridge Gas, safety is our priority. We're proud to support Ontario firefighters who share our commitment to keeping our communities safe," said Steve McGivery, director, GTA East Operations, Enbridge Gas Inc.

This year's $100,000 donation from Enbridge Gas will be shared by 20 Ontario fire departments, including King Fire & Emergency Services. Funds will be used to purchase educational materials for firefighters to enhance life-saving techniques.

Since the launch of Project Assist in 2012, 174 grants have been provided to Ontario fire departments for additional firefighter training.

"Project Assist improves access to training materials for municipal fire departments," said Jon Pegg, Ontario Fire Marshal and Chief, Emergency Management. "Firefighting can be dangerous and unpredictable, and these training materials positively contribute to the health and safety of firefighters and the broader community."

"To be one of the municipal fire services selected this year, we consider this a great honour," said Fire Chief James Wall. "At King Fire & Emergency Services, we pride ourselves on our quality training programs. All of these programs require quality training materials which enhance the overall learning experience. From that experience we take it to the streets and put this training to work. Funding programs like this from Enbridge Gas Inc. permit us to continue on with what we do best ... providing well-trained customer oriented firefighters who truly care about the community that they

"We have a fabulous fire department in King Township and I know these training materials will be put to great use,' said King Mayor Steve Pellegrini. "On behalf of council and me, thank-you Enbridge Gas Inc. for your continued support of the men and women who proudly protect the community that we call home ... the Township of King!"

Under the direction of Fire Chief James Wall, King Fire & Emergency Services protects an area of approximately 333 square kilometers and a population of 28,000 residents. Serviced by three fire stations and a complement of 150 dedicated volunteer firefighters, King Fire & Emergency Services provides public education, fire prevention, code enforcement, fire suppression, medical aid response, and fire/rescue services.

Province boosts municipalities, retains current model

By Mark Pavilons

The uncertainty over the fate of Ontario's municipal governments is now over. The Province has decided to retain the status quo, and direct dedicated funds to regional governments that will drive efficiencies and strengthen local service delivery.

Ontario is providing up to $143 million to municipalities to help them lower costs and improve services for local residents over the long term. Funding will be available to all 444 municipalities so they can find smarter, more efficient ways to operate and focus spending on vital programs and services for Ontarians.

King Mayor Steve Pellegrini said York municipalities have always worked collaboratively to find efficiencies. Now that the uncertainty is over, "we can get down to business."

The news was a welcomed announcement and was a topic of discussion at the Northern Six (N6) municipalities of York Region Mayors and Chief Administrative Officers (CAOs) meeting. Each year, the N6 mayors and CAOs meet to discuss cost-saving initiatives and programs that could be of benefit to all six municipalities in the coming year.

Throughout the province's review, the special advisors conducting the feedback interviews expressed great interest in the N6 partnerships. By working together, the N6 exemplifies the benefits that a cohesive approach to shared service delivery can create for residents. It is these cross-municipal initiatives that make amalgamation unnecessary.

"I'm pleased that the provincial government took the time to consult with the numerous stakeholders who would have been impacted by potential amalgamation," said Mayor Steve Pellegrini. "In King Township, we believe our municipality is best positioned to provide high-quality programs and services to its residents and businesses. We're happy that the province has recognized that a top-down approach to governance isn't always the best approach, especially when it comes to municipalities like King Township. We will continue to look for ways to partner with our N6 neighbours in order to deliver programs and services in a cost-effective manner."

The N6 partnership, which has been successfully operating since 2005, has worked on a number of award winning, and cost effective programs such as a shared waste collection program, which is now in its second 10-year term and has helped the N6 save over $11 million. In addition, the N6 partnered on the Fire Master Plan and Collaboration and Innovation Report, which identifies collaborative cost-sharing and innovative partnership ideas. In 2011, the N6 conducted joint procurement of an insurance provider and retainer of an insurance adjuster resulting in approximately $750,000 in premium savings, during the first year of the project.

Not only do the N6 municipalities create cost-saving measures for residents, they also work together to leverage best practices, share ideas and information across the municipalities.

future opportunities to further the N6 partnership and prioritize savings for taxpayers and municipal efficiencies.

Wayne Emmerson, York Region chairman and CEO, noted the current two-tier structure is the most effective means to deliver critical services to communities.

"I am pleased with the provincial announcement to help make Ontario municipalities stronger. They have listened to our feedback and committed to having governance, service-delivery and decision making of municipalities left in the hands of local governments.

"York Region is proud to have a strong culture of continuous improvement. We deliver high-quality programs and services to our residents while continually striving to provide the best value to the taxpayer.

"Strengthening regional government is a priority for York Regional council. I applaud the Ontario government for committing additional funds to help government leverage further efficiencies. As part of our commitment to innovation, we look forward to working with our provincial partners to further explore ways to optimize service delivery and reduce costs, while at the same time ensuring we continue to build thriving communities for our residents, businesses and visitors."

"Municipalities are the level of government closest to the people, but every community is different – one size doesn't fit all," said Steve Clark, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing. "This investment in communities will Moving forward, the N6 is looking at support municipal transformation efforts to make sure they are delivering efficient, effective and modern services that best meet the unique needs of their residents."

"A newspaper is the center of a community, it's one of the tent poles of the community, and that's not going to be replaced by websites and blogs."

~ Michael Connelly

Reality sometimes sucks, that's just the way it is

How often have you used the saying "that's just how it is?"

It has always been the "sign of the times" for us human beings.

The other day my son made a rather unsettling realization; for him anyway. He asked about our adult routines, noting we get up, go to work, come home, make dinner, go to bed, get up and start the process all over again. "Being an adult sucks," he said with some dismay.

I suppose it does.

For those of us who are at the mercy of the system, this scenario plays out daily across a large part of the civilized world. In the western world, we're victims to the big wheel, the rat race, and chasing the dollar. There's very little leeway when you're chasing the dream, saving to pay bills, building equity to inch forward, all on a gently sloping upward curve.

Some think this is a new development in human evolution, but it has dominat- sick and died, and for many, leaving this ed our species for literally thousands of

And that's just the way it is.

We have certain rights and freedoms and all of these come with limits, and rules within a strict system. We work, either for ourselves or for others. We pay taxes, earn a credit rating, apply for mortgages, lines of credit, car loans. We collect reward miles and points. But ever get out of this cycle. We are consummate consumers.

It's designed to churn out consumers, an endless horde of shoppers, online addicts, tech junkies and fossil-fuel burners. Why? Because that's good for the economy, the multi-nationals, governments and the powers that be. It's grease for the wheel.

My son also asked some fundamental economic questions. He wanted to know why the government takes so much off our pay cheques. To pay for all the services they deliver, I told him. Why are we taxed to death on all of our purchases? To pay for all the services the government delivers, I said. Can't they get the money somewhere else? he wondered. Well, the working masses are the best source of income for this endless need.

We may yet witness the end of it all the ultimate collapse of the capitalist system. Some European and South American countries and governments make no mistake, we're too far gone to have gone bankrupt and tried to start over. Others are on the brink.

It goes back to when our ancestors Ages and right through the industrial revolution. Average citizens were considered fodder for the grist mill, the mice who generated the wheel power for the rich to get richer without getting ceeded, their reward was staying alive that we humans have enjoyed our lives for another week. If they failed, they got a bit more, and embraced the concept of Premeditated theft of go kart On Thanksgiving Monday, sometime in mid-afternoon, at least a couple of people, probably teenaged boys, went for a walk in the King City area. They came upon what they thought was an empty house. They went into that house and looked around, leaving things shifted around but nothing obviously damaged or missing. They also found and moved an old racing kart. This is not a kiddy toy or slow clunky rental, but an adult-size racing machine. There were two black seats, heavy moulded plastic, nearby that were also moved.

Letter to the Editor

The kids probably didn't realize that their activities were discovered later that day. The police were called, and they arrived and examined the location. Unfortunately, there was no easy way to secure the kart frame to make it safe from further activity. The house was padlocked, with No Trespassing signs put up in prominent locations.

All was the same until the next Saturday, Oct. 19 morning or early afternoon. Someone, again at least two or possibly three people, returned and removed the kart frame as well as one of the black kart seats. Again the police arrived, and explained that the first incident, on Thanksgiving, was literally breaking and entering. The removal of the kart was theft, with the value of what was taken at least $400. This is not just kids having fun; it is pre-planned criminal activity.

Removing the heavy kart frame required a lot of effort, and probably the use of a car or truck to transport it. This means that at least one of the people involved would be at least 16 years old, and should be old enough to know better.

The stolen kart is a WASP brand frame, heavy shaped and welded metal tubing. It includes steering, rear axle, brakes, wheels, and tires, a full rolling chassis, but not including an engine. The seat is contoured black plastic with the 3 letters FKL moulded into the seat back, about 6 inches high.

If your family or neighbours or friends are now very happy and excited over their new "find," be aware that two crimes were committed to make them happy, and the police are aware of what has occurred.

If you have any information to help solve these crimes, and prevent any more events like these, please contact Crimestoppers, or the York Regional Police at 1-888-876-5423 and refer to File # 19-362466. Private e-mails may also be sent to blueberries@bell.net.

The property, a part of King City, is secluded, private but not isolated. Neighbours are aware of what occurs there, and are more vigilant after what has recently happened. The owners hope that the thieves will realize that their actions, and the fun of going into places they do not belong and taking what is not theirs, are not worth the potential damage to their own futures.

Give us your feedback and help us create a SLOWER, SAFER KING

- The Township of King is commencing a traffic calming project.
- Our goal is a slower, safer King.
- King is seeking community input on traffic calming throughout the township
- The focus of this program is on school zones and residential streets at locations where excessive speeding is prevalent, particularly in neighbourhoods with high numbers of cyclists and/or pedestrians share the road. It is not about reducing congestion, reducing trucks or eliminating cut-through traffic.
- Traffic calming is creating a safer roadside environment by reducing speeds and encouraging responsible driver behavior.
- Council has prioritized traffic calming and we need your help to identify hotspots and to provide tangible solutions and feedback.
- The information you provide will help shape and guide a new traffic calming policy for King Township.
- We have created several opportunities for feedback and we welcome your input to help shape our community vision of a slower, safer KING.
- Visit speaking.king.ca to learn more about traffic calming, take a survey and use a map feature to place pins where you think traffic calming measures would be most effective. You also get to choose which type of traffic calming measures you would like to see installed.

Commentary

The election's over; let's get to work!

By David Suzuki

The election may be over, but there's no time to be complacent. Canadians voters – and many people too young to vote – demanded that politicians take climate disruption seriously. The parties and candidates listened and, for the first time, climate became a top election issue. Now we have to make sure they all come together to keep their promises and step up their ambitions.

We must hold elected representatives from every party to account, to avoid the usual scenario where parties and leaders concentrate on what will benefit them most before the next election rather than making serious attempts to curtail a problem that spells catastrophe over a longer period if we don't act quickly and decisively. It's an inherent weakness in our political systems. Many politicians just want to be seen to be doing something, as long as it doesn't hurt their re-election chances, rather than demonstrating their commitments in ways that might not show immediate returns.

We don't have time for political posturing or ego-fuelled divisions. Scientists have warned we have little more than a decade, if that, to bring emissions down to a point where they don't keep the planet heating for years to

Although every major party campaigned with a climate plan, none went far enough. Even if the new government were to adopt the best ideas from other parties, the flaws in our economic and political systems could prevent us from bringing about necessary change. One flaw is the aforementioned election-cycle stasis. In part, that's what keeps politicians and governments holding onto the status quo, fearing the bold, transformative policies the country and world so desperately need in this time of climate crisis.

Although every day we fail to take decisive action makes it that much harder to address global heating, the benefits of doing so still far exceed keeping the planet livable for humans and other species - although that alone should be enough. Some have argued bizarrely that protecting the very things that keep us alive and healthy is not economically viable. They elevate a recent, human-constructed system created under considerably different conditions than today's above the natural systems that provide all we need to live, from air to water to food.

That in itself shows our economic systems are failing us and should be altered to fit today's reality. But even under current economics, doing all we can to slow and halt catastrophic heating will pay many dividends. A recent study in Science by an international group of scientists concludes, "Over the next few decades, acting to reduce climate change is expected to cost much less than the damage otherwise inflicted by climate change on people, infrastructure and ecosystems."

A report released around the same time by the Global Commission on Adaptation, representing leaders in business, science and politics, echoes that. It focuses on adaptation to the now-unavoidable consequences of climate disruption but doesn't dismiss the need to prevent the crisis from worsening.

"Adaptation is not an alternative to a redoubled effort to stop climate change, but an essential complement to it. Failing to lead and act on adaptation will result in a huge economic and human toll, causing widespread increases in poverty and severely undermining long-term global economic prospects," according to "Adapt Now: A Global Call for Leadership on Climate Resilience."

Researchers conclude that "investing $1.8 trillion globally in five areas from 2020 to 2030 could generate $7.1 trillion in total net benefits." Those areas are "early warning systems, climate-resilient infrastructure, improved dryland agriculture crop production, global mangrove protection, and investments in making water resources more resilient."

We need to do everything to slow and eventually halt the climate crisis and to adapt to the consequences our stalling has already set in motion. The voters of today have spoken, and those who will soon be old enough to vote couldn't be clearer: We need all political representatives to cast aside their differences and work together to solve this challenge. An election is just the start.

New minority government will prove challenging

By Mark Pavilons

Victory may be fleeting for the federal Liberals who are facing a tough time as they form a minority government in Ottawa.

Traditionally in Canada, minority governments have a relatively short lifespan, averaging one year, 140 days. The last Liberal minority government was under Paul Martin in 2004-2006.

Subsequently, Stephen Harper led Canada through two consecutive minority governments from 2006-08 and again 2008-2011, before gaining a majority in 2011.

It's likely Canadians will once again be going back to the polls in roughly two years. At this point, there's no firm commitment from other parties on forming a coalition with the Liberals.

King-Vaughan MPP Stephen Lecce was in former prime minister Stephen Harper's inner circle in his third and final term of office. Lecce served as director of media relations and chief spokesperson to Harper, and was responsible for enhancing cross-government communications.

King-Vaughan Liberal MP Deb Schulte said she's optimistic the minority government can work, noting there have been some successful ones in Canadian history. The Liberals will draw from all of the opposition parties to move their agenda forward. There's no real advantage to forming an official coalition, she said.

She's confident that consensus can be reached. She pointed to her work on the federal environment committee which included all parties. They worked well together and passed recommendations by reaching compromises.

Schulte said she likes to work that, but admits it will be a "very different term ahead."

Schulte hopes the government will listen to the ideas and recommendations of the other parties, since some of them have merit.

"I'm always optimistic," she said. "Who wants another election?"

The first, key step is to approve and pass the federal budget. And "that means working together. We want to deliver for Canadians."

A minority government exists when the governing party does not hold a majority of seats in the House of Commons (or provincial legislature) but is still able to command the confidence of the House.

Because seats are distributed more evenly among the parties in minority Parliaments, opposition parties have greater opportunity to block legislation from passing. Typically, a minority government negotiates with other parties and adjusts its policies to get the majority of votes needed to pass legislation.

There have been informal coalition governments where two or more parties combine forces and share Cabinet posts. No formal coalition government (except 1917-21) has ever existed.

confidence of the House in order to continue to govern. According to House of Commons procedure, "the Prime Minister and the Cabinet are able to exercise authority only with the consent and approval ('confidence') of a majority of the Members of the House of Commons."

Not all votes Parliaments amount tion.

The government must maintain the to confidence. However, votes that do carry the weight of confidence include those related to the Speech from the Throne, money bills (budgets) and specific confidence votes.

> If the government loses the confidence of the House, the prime minister will typically ask the Governor General to dissolve Parliament and call an elec-

York Catholic board achieves highest graduation rate

The York Catholic District School Board (YCDSB) is extremely pleased to announce that it has the highest in Ontario with 94.7 per cent of graduates achieving their Ontario Secondary School Diploma (OSSD) within four years of starting Grade 9.

Graduation rates are one of 10 that the Ministry of Education uses to measure school board progress. The four-year and five-year graduation rate is calculated as the percentage of students.

Notably, YCDSB also had the second highest in 2019; 96.5 per cent of graduates achieved their OSSD within five years of starting Grade 9. Both of these rates are up from the previous year - the four-year grad rate increased 0.8 per cent and the five-year grad rate increased 0.6 per cent.

"Outstanding graduation rates like these are the result of many factors," said Dominic Mazzotta, chair of the board of trustees. "Student perseverance and hard work, along with staff support and ongoing parent involvement are keys to success."

"At York Catholic we believe that student success is enabled when programs and services are designed to meet student needs," said Ab Falconi, director of education. "Thank you to all the hardworking, dedicated YCDSB staff who do so much to provide a fully-rounded, faith-based education to our students."

For students to earn an OSSD, they must:

- Earn a minimum of 30 credits, including 18 compulsory credits and 12 optional credits.
 - Meet the provincial secondary school literacy requirement.
 - Complete 40 hours of community involvement activities.

Looking outside the box when managing wealth

By Kinjal Dagli Shah

Peter Konidis and Jeff MacDonald, both portfolio managers and partners of MK Total Wealth management at TD Wealth, came together to host a seminar at McMichael Art Gallery in Vaughan. Through the course of the evening, the duo shared their holistic approach to managing their high net worth clients' wealth.

More than 30 people listened in rapt attention as Konidis and MacDonald presented effective methods of wealth planning.

"Unlike traditional investment advisors who have a single approach to managing wealth, our team looks outside the box when managing wealth. At the seminar we reviewed our Privately Managed Investment Platform that uses strict disciplines to outperform the market while very importantly reducing the overall risk and volatility of the portfolios we manage," said

Konidis. "We discussed how we use behavioural finance and economics during our client discovery process in order to determine what if any financial blind spots one might have that would interfere in making good decisions when it comes to investments and finance."

Two additional speakers, who work closely with the team and clients, were also present at the event. A TD will and estate lawyer reviewed the importance of executing proper wills and power of attorneys. "He reviewed the mistakes people make when preparing these important documents and summarized recommendations based on his many years of experience in the legal profession," explained MacDonald.

A TD Estate Planning Advisor spoke to the attendees about how individuals can effectively use insurance strategies either personally or corporately to not only maximize the value of their estate and lower taxes upon death, but also

The government is working in partnership with municipalities to ensure that taxpayers' dollars are respected. Earlier this year, the government conducted a review of Ontario's eight regional governments and Simcoe County. Over 8,500 submissions were received and the Special Advisors, Michael Fenn and Ken Seiling, attended nine in-person sessions and listened to ideas from individuals and organizations on how to improve their local governments.

Throughout this extensive review, the government heard that local communities should decide what is best for them in terms of governance, decision-making and service delivery. After careful consideration of the feedback we heard through the course of the review, our government stands firm in its commitment to partnering with municipalities without pursuing a top-down approach. The Province will provide municipalities with the resources to support local decision-making.

"We are committed to helping and empowering municipalities to become more efficient and effective, so they can make every dollar count," said Clark. "This investment supports the province's commitment to reduce the cost of government, while maintaining quality services the people of Ontario expect from all levels of government."

The government is extending two application-based funding streams: one for small and rural municipalities, and one for large urban governments.

The 2020 Ontario Municipal Partnership Fund will have the same structure as this year and provide a total of $500 million to 389 municipalities across the province. Ontario will also launch a consultation with municipalities about whether to align the municipal and provincial fiscal year.

The government is proposing to eliminate duplication by combining the provincial and municipal voters lists, giving Elections Ontario the responsibility of managing the updated list and taking the burden off of municipalities.

Country Day School presents 'Screenagers Next Chapter'

Visit King's Country Day School to screen time. for a free screening of Screenagers Next Chapter: Uncovering Skills for Stress Resilience on Thursday, Nov. 28 at 7 p.m. in the school's Paul C. Duckett Theatre. The film is 69 minutes in length and there will be an opportunity to discuss and share reactions following the screening.

Filmmaker and physician Dr. Delaney Ruston takes the conversation around screens and teens to the next level with Screenagers Next Chapter. The film examines the science behind teens' emotional challenges, the interplay of social media, and most importantly, what can be done in our schools and homes to help them build crucial skills to navigate stress, anxiety, and depression in our digital age.

Screenagers: Growing up in the Digital Age – Delaney Ruston's award-winning 2016 film – was the first feature documentary to explore the impact of screen technology on kids and offer parents and families proven solutions. Screened more than 8,000 times (and counting) to 4 million people in more than 70 countries, it has been featured on PBS NewsHour, the Today Show, Good Morning America, Dr. Oz, the New York Times, the Washington Post, and more. What started as a personal story grew into a national movement, helping millions of youth and their families find their way in a world with instant access

In Screenagers Next Chapter, we follow Delaney as she finds herself at a loss on how to help her own teens as they struggle with their emotional wellbeing. She sets out to understand these challenges in our current screen-filled society, and how we, as parents and educators, can empower teens to overcome mental health challenges and build emotional agility, communication savvy, and stress resilience.

We witness Delaney as she finds her way from ineffective parenting to much-improved strategies. We follow other personal stories of families from an array of backgrounds with a spectrum of emotional challenges. We also observe approaches in schools that provide strategies relevant beyond the classroom setting. Interwoven into the stories are surprising insights from brain researchers, psychologists, and thought leaders that reveal evidence-based ways to support mental wellness among our youth.

The impact of social media and other screen time is incorporated in all the topics raised in Screenagers Next Chapter, how it may be impacting our teens' mental health, and what we can do to help foster youth in the face of struggles.

Facts from the film include:

• Since 2011, there has been a 59% increase in teens reporting depressive symptoms.

• Scientific data shows that 2+ hours a day on social media correlates with a higher chance of having unhappy feelings.

· Teens say their main way of coping with stress is to turn to a screen - this is concerning for many reasons and we need to ensure they have other coping skills.

 Some schools are implementing innovative programs, such as wellness clubs, where teens teach their skills, like conflict resolution and relationship building.

· State of the art therapies, including mindfulness, exposure therapy, and behavior activation, are being used to successfully treat anxiety and depression and yet many teens and adults don't know that these proven interventions exist.

 Just like toddlers' brains are primed to learn languages, teenage brains are primed for learning skills to navigate complicated emo-

Screenagers Next Chapter shows many ways parents, counselors, and educators can help teens build crucial skills for navigating stress, anxiety, and depression.

Butterfly garden unveiled at Schomberg Community Farm

Weather was kind for the Schomberg Farm's Butterfly Garden sign unveiling, and the group who came to witness it, was small but significant.

Ruth McDonald and her family business, Old McDonald's Furniture Store and Appliance, back in 2014, made a sizeable donation, to the fundraising campaign for the necessary bridge. Their request was a future Butterfly Garden in Ruth's

In spring 2017 the bridge was installed and a "temporary" Butterfly Garden was created. After a successful grant application with the Lake Simcoe Region Conservatory Authority, native plants were purchased from several local suppliers, and other plants attractive to butterflies and edible herbs were donated. Soil delivery and planting commenced in the fall of 2018.

Now, 12 months later, still a work in progress, as benches and arbours are on the wish list, organizers were pleased that the sign dedication was installed and unveiled Oct. 19. Mary Asselstine welcomed the group and Donna Parrish read a short tale of the planning and planting progress, of which she was the head vol-

Sir Walter Rolling: spotlight on a Canadian revolutionary

By Julia Galt

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau once stated that "Canada has succeeded- culturally, politically, economically - because of our diversity, not in spite of

Indeed, when you examine King Township, the flourishing home of inhabitants of all ethnicities, creeds, and identities, it's certainly easy to understand his sentiment. Canada has changed vastly along its twisting, turning, and often violent path to modern day. We have failed in some ways, but flourished in many, and centuries of struggles have brought us to one of the most proudly diverse periods in Canadian history.

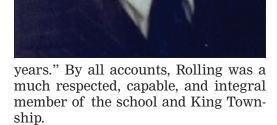

When examining King Township's role in this shift, no stronger spotlight lies upon anyone more than it does upon Sir Walter Rolling. Born in Laskay on May 31, 1873 to freed slave Benjamin Rolling and Sarah Elizabeth Britton, Rolling attended four different schools by the age of 24, a rarity in a time when even high school tuition was a staggering – at the time it was $4 per term. Near the end of his education, he supplemented his time off by teaching at King Township's Kinghorn School.

For his first year as a teacher in 1895, Rolling earned a paltry salary of $295. His second year saw him earning $310, and by 1916, his reputation as an exceptional teacher had him earning a much more comfortable $1,000 a year. At the time of his retirement on June 30, 1936, Rolling had been teaching at the same Kinghorn School for an incredible 41

Four of his students won prestigious oratory awards at the Toronto Normal School, and a 1932 article in the Toronto Star boasted him as "not having had a single failure in his classes for 30

Rolling's 40 years teaching at the Kinghorn School is a feat in itself, but what truly makes his success remarkable is that he did so as a black man in a time when both the Township and Ontario were overwhelmingly populated by white Anglo-Celtic Protestants.

Doris Willoughby, a former student of Rolling's, spoke to the King Weekly in 1995, saying: "If Mr. Rolling ever encountered racism, it didn't bother him. I don't think he ever thought much about it. If things hurt him, he didn't show it. We went all over with him and never ran into any problems."

Rolling's marriage to his second wife, the white schoolteacher Laura E. Clark, similarly did not seem to encounter any overt racist backlash. Rolling's popularity within the township culminated a year after his retirement from teaching on June 30, 1936, when a celebration was thrown in honour of this accomplishment. On June 19, 1937, a 3,000-strong group of former students, friends, and admirers gathered at Kinghorn School on what was to be known as "Walter Rolling Day," honouring the life he had given to the community.

Though records do not seem to indicate that Rolling experienced a significant level of racism throughout his life, context is certainly important when it comes to the extraordinary nature of his accomplishments.

Untario's Racial Discrimination Act, prohibiting discrimination based on ethnic, racial, or religious reasons, passed in 1944, one year after Rolling's death in 1943. Twenty years into his teaching career, newspapers published in the Canadian prairies were still predicting, and campaigning for, the exclusion of black immigrants to Canada. In America, the Thirteenth Amendment abolishing slavery was only brought into effect eight years prior to Rolling's birth. Throughout the entirety of his life, American Jim Crow laws additionally segregated black and white citizens. Walter Rolling's accomplishments are all the more impressive given the national restrictions placed upon Afro-Canadians and African-Americans of the time.

More information on Walter Rolling and other historical King Township residents, please visit the King Township Museum or the King Township Public Library.

Beth Underhill claims Canadian title at Royal Horse Show

Beth Underhill of Schomberg that I possibly can, and he gave me his claimed the Canadian Show Jumping Championship title on Saturday night, Nov. 2, at the Royal Horse Show, held as part of the 97th Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto.

The $125,000 Henry Equestrian Canadian Show Jumping Championship was held over two phases on Friday and Saturday nights. Having competed for $25,000 in prize money during the opening speed round on Friday, riders returned to the Coca-Cola Coliseum in reverse order of standing to tackle the $100,000 two-round finale. Canadian Olympian Amy Millar, 42, of Perth, had won Friday night's speed phase, giving her the advantage of being the final competitor on course in the opening round of Saturday's competition.

"It means the world to me," said Underhill, 57, of her victory. "I was watching the Mounties perform the Musical Ride earlier, and I was actually getting quite emotional. I felt so proud to be a Canadian. I said to myself in that moment, "Make tonight count." It really inspired me to do my best.

"With a horse as lovely as Count Me In, I always try to give him the best ride all yesterday and tonight," continued Underhill of the 12-year-old Hanoverian gelding (Count Grannus x Sherlock Holmes) owned by Sandy Lupton and Robert Caswell. "It was fantastic to compete in front of a sold-out crowd, and you really, really felt it. As a rider, you step into that ring and there's nothing like. It's why we do this. It was a wonderful start to the week."

For the second year in a row, Millar took the reserve Canadian Championship title. In 2017, she won her first Canadian Championship with Heros before finishing runner-up in 2018.

Sam Walker, 17, of Nobleton, finished third overall after jumping clear in both rounds on Saturday night riding Coralissa for owner MarBill Hill Farm. Millar's older brother, Jonathon Millar, 45, also of Perth, finished fourth in the final standings riding Daveau owned by the Millar family's Millar Brooke

Schomberg Cougars drop in PJHL ladder after losses

By Jake Courtepatte

A mid-season slump has recently marred the Schomberg Cougars, but don't count them out just yet: their numbers show otherwise.

The Provincial Junior Hockey league club locked into battle with a pair of teams also chasing the lead in the Carruthers division last week, falling in some high-scoring affairs with the Stavner Siskins and Orillia Terriers.

In a road effort against the division's second place team on Thursday, the Cougars found themselves battling down to the wire in a 3-3 tie after two periods, threatening a Siskins team that had won four of their last five contests.

Three straight goals from the home team in the final frame put the game out of reach, though Schomberg mounted what would have been a valiant comeback in notching two late goals to close out a 6-5 loss.

Matthew Wadge nabbed third star honours despite the loss, leading the Cougars with a pair of goals and adding an assist. Kory Lund, Spencer Ripley, and Trevor Dungey also found the back of the net.

Saturday's meeting with the Terriers in Orillia saw a clash of two of the league's top scoring squads, where Schomberg once again came up short of a tough comeback effort.

Orillia lit up Nico Fekete's net for 32 shots through the first two periods, managing to take a 6-0 lead in the process, before the Cougars outscored the home side 5-1 in the final period to lessen the damage.

The Terriers added a late empty netter for an 8-5 final, marking Schomberg's fifth loss in their last six games.

All is not lost, however, a strong start to the season has the Cougars sitting in fourth place in the eight-team Carruthers division, just six points back of the leading Alliston Hornets.

Scoring continues to be the shining light for the Schomberg squad this season: the Cougars are at 78 goals on the season, averaging over 4.5 per game, just one goal shy of the Siskins for most in the division.

It's a rare all-home game work week for the Cougars coming up, who will be looking to make up some ground against the bottom two basement-dwellers of the Carruthers division.

A meeting with the Midland Flyers (5-10-0-0) kicks off on Thursday at the Trisan Centre, facing a Flyers team with just one road win so far this season. Puck drop is set for 7:30 p.m.

Schomberg closes out the weekend in hosting the Huntsville Otters (4-9-0-0) in a Saturday match-up, who have also struggled away from home this year in picking up just two points.

For stats, schedules, and more information, visit www.jrccougars.poinstreaksites.com.

Junior Lions basketball roars to perfect season

By Jake Courtepatte

It was a season of firsts for the King City Lions junior girls basketball team. And what a turnaround.

Just one season after posting just one win in the York Region Athletic Association schedule, KCSS swept the league this year in going undefeated, a perfect 7-0 record.

They now get to enter the YRAA postseason as the number one seed in King City.

"The keys to success were playing as a team, where each player contributed with good sportsmanship and a desire to see the team win over individual goals," said the team's head coach, Rob

It was in late October against Cardinal Carter, the squad's fifth game of the season, that the streak came closest to snapping: down all game, an adjustment on defense was enough to bring the game back to even, before a last minute three-pointer squeaked out a 29 to 26 win.

came on Oct. 30 against Richmond Hill, this week division one: the first of its kind for where the Lions cemented their perfect season with a score of 39-32.

> "The pressure to win was there, but as always, we were able to talk and adjust each quarter, and never give up," said Aurich.

> All in all, the Lions managed 306 points over seven games for an average of over 43 per contest, including a whopping 65 in mid-October against St. Theresa of Lisieux.

> That set up a meeting with Maple High earlier this week following press time, the first battle of the year between the two squads.

The winner will move on to face ei-The historic final win for the school ther St. Robert or Huron Heights later

Atom AEs win Cup title

The King Rebellion Atom AE hockey team made the trek down the 403 to play in the annual Caledonia Thunder Challenge Cup, from Oct. 18 to 20, and they returned victorious with the Championship trophy in hand.

Along with first year head coach, Rene Rojas, and his coaching staff, Ryan O'Neill, Steve Smith, Steve Viola and Brian Robinson, the Rebels went undefeated in round robin play and rolled through the semis, to win the final game 6-0.

Goalie Henry Ross earned three shutouts along the way and the Rebels filled the back of the net a total of 44 times with only three goals against. It was an even more memorable weekend for Nohlan Watt, who registered his first career hat trick and Benson Muzychka who scored his first rep goal.

Overall it was a great team effort and the boys represented King Township

In addition to those mentioned, also on the team are Brady Fiacco, Sebastian Iacobelli, Peter Lakkotrypis, Massimo Mignosa, Nicholas Montemarano, Jack O'Neill, Ethan Robinson, Mateo Rojas, Colby Smith, Alexander Tarantino, Marco Viola and Reid Young.

The KCSS junior girls basketball team rode to a perfect season in the YRAA, the first of its kind for the Lions program.

Ladies light up the house

By Shellee Morning

The successful athlete understands too well that to have success means practice as well as making mistakes and learning from them.

Each week King curlers arrive at the rink in hopes of playing well for their team and for a successful game. The ladies of King are a fine example of this motto and of the quote by Winston Churchill; "Success is not final; failure is not fatal: It is the courage to continue that counts."

The Tuesday night ladies league has produced some very talented women with their sharp eye for angles and reading the ice for its curl. Any given week draws, doubles and triple take-outs are executed with integrity and precision delivery. This past week was of no exception for such teams of Bones, Davis, Morning, Gorsline, and Stronach. All to which played with a confidence of strength and the ability to score. Strategy along with capitalization all played a key part in the winning of the game. Although the score board was heavily lopsided on all accounts, the opposition remained optimistic keeping a positive attitude and the beliefs that next week can and will be a different game.

The top 5 teams are separated by a slim 3 points with Team Bones in the top spot. With just ½ point behind is Team Davis while Team Fraser is ½ point behind Davis. Sharing the 4th spot are Teams Morning and Gorsline tied at 2 points back.

Day Ladies League

The Thursday Ladies Day league is also a gifted group of women who can deliver the rock with brilliant weight control and a refined strategy of the rings. The league with a healthy roster of 8 teams, are neither intimidated nor fearful of the opposition. A spread of a 5 point difference divides the teams from top to bottom with team Betty Hampton in the lead by 2 points. Two broom strokes back is Team Diane Howard and Pat Kolb tied for 2nd place. 3rd place is held by Team Pat Dickson.

This week's match-ups were fairly even in the first few frames of the games, but by mid-way the winners seemed to have found the weight and spear-headed towards victory. In the haunted house of Hampton versus Gorsline, the scoreboard seen Skip Kathleen Gorsline and her squad of Ingrid Beck, Ginny Ross (spare) and Denny Starritt in the lead collecting singles for a 4-2 lead after 3.

Hampton and her rink of Cindy Perkins- Rode, Antoinette Rossi and spare Lloyd Bloom answered back with 3 in the 4th. Gorsline managed one in the 5th to tie but Hampton earned a deuce in the 6th for the lead once more. Gorsline was held to just a single in the 7th allowing Hampton the ghoulish win of 7-6.

Meanwhile Team Kolb was matched up with Team Howard on sheet 3. The back and forth contest generated a cobweb of great shot making by both teams along with a bit of laughter and fun throughout. Skip Pat Kolb led her team of (spare) Shellee Morning, Vivian De Faveri and Patti Scully in the early part of their game crafting some very effective freeze shots. Team Howard skipped by Irene Williams persevered with each rock delivered by her squad of Linda Bullock and (spares) Heidi Beck and Petra Sidon.

With the game tied half way through, both Skips were no longer spellbound with tying to find their draw weight finding the button and making the game interesting. The final few ends resulted in another back and forth exchange that eventually resulted in a 6-6 tie game.

Teams Ruksa and Dickson avoided being spooked by the howling spirits in their games sweeping towards their own spine-chilling victory.

Schomberg Lions Club

Please join us on Nov. 11 at the Trisan for our Remembrance Day Ceremony. It will begin at 10:30 a.m. followed by light refreshments.

Our 50/50 raffle draw tickets are on sale for $5 each from any Lion. Watch for us at Foodland. The draw will take place Dec. 10, and should have a winning pot of over $2,000. That's a nice way to pay off some Christmas bills and help your community at the same time.

Craft, Bake Sale

Schomberg United Church invites everyone to their annual Craft and Bake Sale and Tea Room on Saturday, Nov. 23 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., in the basement of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church, at 116 Church St in Schomberg.

There will be a multitude of crafters there, ranging from jewellery, handmade soaps, cards, candles, decorations, sewn, knit and preserved items to Avon reps, Norwex reps and estate jewellery.

You can pick up some tasty homemade baked items, a wonderful lunch and maybe start knocking some items off that growing Christmas list.

At 2 p.m. there will be a short hike. They ask that you meet in the parking lot behind the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church,on Main Street (just south of the old Community Hall). There will be a car pool from there to the hike.

St. Paul's Church

This Sunday, Nov. 10, Remembrance service, we welcome Adelle Lauchlan, who continues to lead us in worship for the month of November while Jeff is on a long-planned sabbatical. Adelle's series has been both encouraging and challenging.

This week, her 6th message in the series, is entitled, "Holy. Holy." based on 1 Peter 1.13-24. Don't hesitate to bring your kids; we're geared for younger ones, with opportunities for children aged 0 to 11 during worship (everybody else can enjoy the service!). Come and join us. You will be glad you did!

The Community Youth Group program aims to at provide a safe and caring environment where teens can have fun and know God. Our focus is on fun and developing a sense of camaraderie and care for each member of the group, while at the same time devoting some time each week to a Bible lesson or Bible life application. We like to switch up our content! Some weeks we will participate in sports nights and others will be focused on volunteering in the community. Regardless of the activity you are sure to find a welcoming community focused on living out our relationship with Jesus. Bring your friends along. Follow our Instagram account, "4:12. youth.group," to stay up to date on current events.

A2J (All to Jesus), our program for kids in Grades 3 to 6, meets the second and fourth Friday of the month at 7 to 9 p.m. If you have a child in this age group, come on and bring them out to hear the Bible stories, join in with songs, games, crafts and have lots of fun! Our 4:12 (from 2 Timothy 4:12) community youth group (for Grades 7-12 youth) begins meeting the same night and time. New participants are always welcome!

Operation Christmas Child. We at St. Paul's will be once again collecting shoeboxes for Samaritan's Purse. If you would like to participate and fill some shoeboxes, please contact the office and we will be more than happy to supply you with boxes. This can be a fun activity to do with your children as well. Operation Christmas Child is a hands-on way for Canadians to bless struggling children in the developing world by filling shoeboxes with toys, hygiene items, school supplies, and other items. We collect the boxes and distribute them in the name of Jesus Christ to children living in desperate situations. Stay tune for more information on the deadline that the packed boxes will be delivered. Check out www.samaritanspurse.ca/pack-a-shoebox to find out more.

We have LifeConnect Groups, which are smaller groups meeting to encourage and deepen our faith in each one's life journey. A Men's LifeConnect Group meets on Thursday morning at 10 a.m. at the church in Room 3. If you are available on a Thursday morning, why not consider joining our study? We will be covering a wide variety of topics. Keep an eye on this page for more information on LifeConnect Groups that will be starting.

The first and third Tuesday of the month we have a group of men and women that get together at 1 p.m. to do quilting. The second and fourth Tuesday of the month, the focus is on knitting. All handcrafted items are donated to various mission projects. Please join in if you enjoy handcrafts, or even would like to learn how!

We are blessed at St. Paul's to have diligent librarians that have worked for years on creating an amazing library, one that keeps expanding with new books, both fiction and non-fiction, as well as DVDs based on true life stories, and more. It is said that what goes into a mind comes out in a life. What you read, watch and listen to really matters! Please feel free to borrow from our church library which will certainly help stretch, grow and encourage you.

Jeff's messages are posted at www. passionatelyhis.com each week. They are also available for viewing on Facebook Live, on the church's Facebook page (@stpaulsnobleton) and its You-Tube page (search St. Paul's Church, Nobleton), and our website, stpaulsnobleton.ca. For more information about ANY of our activities or events, please contact the church office (905-859-0843) or visit stpaulsnobleton.ca.

CROSSWORD SOLUTION

The next Messy Church is on Tuesday, Nov. 19 from 5-7 p.m., with the theme of "I am the Light for the World." There will be a choice of activities from 5-6 p.m., with story time at 6, then dinner at 6:15 p.m.

On Monday, Nov. 25, we gather at 6 p.m. and eat at 6:30 p.m. to enjoy a Pot Luck Christmas Social. This is open to the whole Nobleton and area community and our sister church in Schomberg.

On Tuesday, Nov. 26, from 7 to 9 p.m., the Affirm Committee will meet. Everyone is welcome to attend to provide their input on how to be PIE, public, intentional, and explicit, in welcoming all to our churches.

Last Sunday was our 123rd anniversary. It was a glorious celebration with friends. The music was outstanding, with our Joyful Spirits, Andrea Bridges (Linda Olsen's granddaughter) playing guitar, Davina and Aubrey Winter singing a duet, Kara Winter and Stefani Pietts-Harris doing solos, and Fran Bones explaining about the quilting group and showing some of the quilts that they have created. Rev. Carol-Ann pointed out that everyone uses their talents, the greeters at the door, the people sitting in the pews, the helpers in the kitchen.

For more info, visit nobletonunitedchurch.com, our Facebook page, or call 905-859-3976. The church office is normally open on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Messages are picked up regularly. Nobleton United, 6076 King Rd., is north of the King Rd., about 6 buildings west of Hwy. 27. We have a big parking lot at the rear, an accessible ramp, chair lifts and accessible (gender neutral) washrooms. We warmly welcome everyone, old and young, tattooed or not, dressed up or not.

Anglican Parish By John Arnott

This past Sunday, Nov. 3 the Anglican Parish of Lloydtown (St. Alban's Anglican community in Nobleton, Christ Church, Kettleby, St. Mary Mag-dalene's, Schomberg), marked the Feast of All Saints when we give thanks for all those good people, Christians and non Christians known and those known only to God including friends, family members and saints who have died and whose souls are now in God's care.

This coming Sunday, Nov. 10 there will be only 1 service in the parish and that at Christ Church, Kettleby on Kettleby Rd. mid way between Keele and Jane Sts.

At this combined parish event we will mark Remembrance Day during the 10:30 a.m. Holy Communion service remembering all those who left home and safety to keep us free especially keeping in mind keep those who suffered grievous physical and mental injuries and the many who would never return home.

As Christians we will keep in our memory and prayers as well those on the other side of these terrible conflicts who suffered injury or death in doing their duty.

At the 11th hour of this Sunday in the 11th month we will, with bowed heads, give silent gratitude for a service that can never be repaid. The parish asks all to proudly wear poppies in remembrance.

All Saints Anglican Church By Patrick Gossage

Mexican Crafts on sale again - For many years All Saints has been supporting our two small sister Anglican Parishes in Mexico - El Calvario and La Bendita Virgin Maria In Cuernavaca largely through our sales of crafts sent us by an Anglican priest in Mexico, Rev. Gillion Ball. This regular Mexican Outreach table in the church was organized by our beloved Dawn Ballard who sadly died recently. Her new and old stock has now been re-organized and priced, and a table was finally set up again last Sunday. It will be up again in the church for Christmas gift shopping in December, and items will also be sold at our annual Christmas Country Market on Saturday, Dec. 7. A high-quality variety of knitted ware, jewellery including silver crosses and other necklaces and pendants, small animals and other figures, painted ceramic ware, exquisite tiny painted creche figures, earrings, woven bracelets and much more - all one-ofa-kind and hand made, will be for sale. All profits go to our sister churches.

Words to Live by on All Saints Sunday - Rev. Dr. Elizbeth, after reminding us of long departed Saints including St. Anthony who helps us find lost things, St. Augustine and the Irish St. Columba of Iona. She then named several long serving parishioners who she stated by their dedicated ministry for the parish in the service of Christ were also living Saints.

"The Saints (Holy ones) are those knit together in Christ's mystical body, the church," she said. "We become Saints when we are baptized into Christ, and become holy as well. Holy means set apart. At the offering of the wine and bread at the Eucharist we are told 'These are holy gits for a holy people."

She said then that every Christian is a Saint. We are united in faith. We must support each other's unique ministries and contributions. "We have to be reminded of our own Sainthood and pray that God grant us 'grace to follow your blessed Saints in all virtuous and Godly living' as the collect said. We have to extend God's holiness beyond these walls and fully embrace the new way and the new life," she concluded.

Horticulture By John Arnott

"Naked ladies" in my garden roam making themselves quite at home.

Certainly in my garden the last bulb to bloom into late October and one of the first to show in early spring is the colchicum autumnal possibly better known as autumn crocus. My show of these harbingers of fall and conversely of spring were in bloom before Thanksgiving and have just been felled along with those in my neighbours' gardens by the recent sharp frost.

The name colchicum, which is Latinized Greek, comes from Colchis an area of Georgia (in Europe) on the Black Sea and long associated with the 'gold fleece" of Jason and the Argonauts fame. It's here where the ancient Greek traders and travelers probably first saw these stately bulbs in bloom and thus gave them their name.

Including autumnale there are some 160 (some sources say only 70) species of colchicum all native to southeastern Europe and neighbouring southwestern Asia as well as coastal east Africa as far down as South Africa. All colchicums are toxic so should be kept out of the reach of small children and pets.

Colchicums autumnale are long lived perennials that send up narrow strap like rich green leaves some 5 in./12 cm. long about the same time daffodils bloom. Within a couple of weeks these will vellow and die right back to ground level and soon there'll be no trace of them. Then mid to late September leafless flower buds will push up where the leaves once were and soon open into lovely 6 in./15 cm. high goblet shaped lavender blooms accented by bright saffron coloured pollen bearing anthers in the centre of each cup. The innards unlike in most blooms grow up through the goblet from underground. The leafless flowers account for another intriguing name "naked ladies" as they have shed their green "dresses'

Thursday, November 7, 2019 - THE WEEKLY SENTINEL - 27 and now wear only lavender hats!

It's often difficult to find the flattened, ball shaped bulb like corms of c. autumnale in spring and they're often only available in our area in the fall in year 'round garden centres. If bulbs/ corms can still be found they should they should be planted now 3 to 4 in./8 to 10 cm. deep in sandy loam to average garden soil into which compost cattle manure has dug. They like full sun but will grow will in partial shade as mine do. Over time the bulbs will multiply forming a clump which can be divided to make smaller patches but avoid 1 bulb here, 1 bulb there and another somewhere else as they are much better viewed in a group.

In his beautifully illustrated book "Essential Bulbs," British gardener, horticulturalist, author and photographer Derek Fell calls colchicum autumnale one of these essentials. And he notes there are double c. autumnale available but they often flop in heavy rain. He stresses that the place where colchicums are planted should be carefully marked as once the leaves die back in spring otherwise there's no telling where they are!
