Expansion plans move ahead for Seneca's King Campus

By Mark Pavilons

The Seneca College King Campus expansion project is moving full steam ahead.

It involves the design and construction of new academic and extracurricular facilities that will allow Seneca to increase the range of programs offered and provide space for an additional 1,450 students. Once complete, Seneca's King Campus will provide teaching and learning opportunities for more than 5,000 full-time students.

"I've got a shovel," said an enthusiastic King Mayor Steve Pellegrini.

The project has been three years in the making and it comes as good news for the municipality. Seneca is the largest single employer in King Township and the economic benefit will be huge.

Seneca is also a great community partner, Pellegrini observed, allowing use of their soccer fields. The college is well integrated into the community.

The mayor said it's a great institution that needs facilities that match it.

This is one of the largest revitalization and expansion projects in Seneca's history.

It was featured in last week's provincial budget as one of the key postsecondary expansion projects in Ontario. Despite the fact Ontarians are gearing up for a June 12 election, the college and Infrastructure Ontario have jointly issued a request for qualifications (RFQ) to pre-qualify companies to design, build and finance

Grandilli requests resolution to prevent sign pollution

By Angela Gismondi

Councillor Peter Grandilli is tired of seeing signs littering the corner of King Road and Highway 27 in Nobleton and he is going to do something about it.

"I do have a problem with these signs," said Grandilli who introduced the matter under the new business section of the meeting recently.

He said the signs look junky and make it hard for people to walk on the sidewalk.

"Some people have no respect for anyone," stated the Nobleton councillor. "They place these signs in the middle of the sidewalk. I don't think they should be there and unfortunately there is not much I can do about it except what I would like to do ..."

Grandilli asked for council's consideration to send a resolution to the Region of York to amend their sign bylaw to prohibit signs at certain regional intersections. Because this is a regional bylaw regulating regional intersection signage, the resolution has to be sent to the Region of York if and when it is passed by council.

"That probably would eliminate most of my problems at this corner," said Grandilli.

Councillor Cleve Mortelliti said there have been similar complaints in King City. However, Mortelliti said he wanted to ensure signs for upcoming community events are permitted at King's major intersections.

According to Township clerk Kathryn Smyth, the regional bylaw currently only prohibits signs at the corner of King Road and Keele Street in King City. She added community event signs are seen as exempt.

Mayor Steve Pellegrini pointed out that if council was going to ask staff to look at the intersection at King Road and Highway 27, they may as well examine all maior intersections along King Road up to and including Bathurst Street.

"Now it's a bigger discussion," said Pellegrini.

Councillor Debbie Schaefer asked that those in violation of the sign bylaw be contacted and told not to place their signs there anymore. Smyth responded letters will go out to the parties who are posting signage where it is not permitted.

Committee moved a recommendation that staff report back with pros and cons of prohibiting signage at regional intersections along King Road. That report, along with a draft resolution will be coming back at the next council meeting.

Ice storm cleanup continues in King

By Angela Gismondi

The Township of King is taking steps to tackle the damage caused by the December ice storm.

Reports on the matter were presented to King council by the engineering and public works department at the April 28 committee of the whole meeting.

Council awarded two contracts - one for the supply of tree trimming, tree removal and stump removal services to Arbor Tech Tree Care Inc. and the other to Wm Weller Tree Services for curbside pickup of tree debris, chipping and disposal services. Cleanup, removal and chipping began May 1.

Residents are asked to place the tree limbs near the curb if they want them picked up and chipped.

For the tree trimming and removal services, the Township piggy-backed on the conditions set out in the Town of Newmarket's tender documents. The documents had provisions for other municipalities to piggy-back subject to the approval of the vendor and the municipality. The Town of Newmarket received seven tenders and decided to go with Arbor Tech Tree Care Inc. because they had the lowest regular rate of $108 per hour including the crew and truck charge, an overtime rate of $125 and a stump removal rate of $3.80/centimeter diameter. The contract is for three years with the possibility of two one-year extensions.

Wm Weller Tree Services was the lowest bidder for curbside tree debris pickup and disposal services with bids in the amount of $89.25 per hour for both east and west of Highway 400 with a two-crew minimum. The contract is for two months.

According to the reports, staff determined that the 2014 budget is insufficient to cover the expected additional costs which resulted from the December ice storm. Staff is expected to report further once the additional costs are known following the curbside cleanup program. The provincial government has committed to providing one-third funding assistance to municipalities affected by the ice storm. Staff are recording all costs associated with the ice storm clean up separately from regular maintenance activities.

The residual costs of the related ice storm cleanup work will be covered as part of the unallocated Corporate Initiatives source of funding.

Seneca expansion a huge bonus to both students, King Township the first phase of the campus expansion.

"This project will allow Seneca to continue to meet the needs of our students while expanding the programs we offer at this key location in northern York Region," said David Agnew, president of Seneca College.

Responding to the growing demand for post-secondary education, the first phase will revitalize the campus by modernizing current facilities and building more space for students while expanding the college's programming in health and community services, pathways and natural environment and sustainability.

The number of full-time students at King Campus will grow by 1,450 to a total of more than 5,000. The project includes:

- A new academic building with approximately 25 new classrooms, computer labs, specialty labs for training health care practitioners, library, learning commons and student study space.

- A new student centre including a multi-purpose athletic and recreation space with a gymnasium, fitness centre, informal study areas and event spaces, partially funded by the Seneca Student Federation and the Student Athletic Association.

- Upgrades to Garriock Hall - the main existing academic building - and to existing site services.

Animal health, social services, policing and public safety, nursing and recreational studies are among the programs offered at King Campus, the former Eaton family estate, located on 282 hectares (700 acres) that include a lake, forested areas and fields within the Oak Ridges Moraine. Stewardship of these natural areas will continue to be a priority for the college.

In June 2011 the province announced an investment of $43 million to support the project. The college, the Seneca Student Federation, and the Student Athletic Association are also contributing to the project.

With campuses across the GTA, Seneca offers degrees, diplomas and certificates renowned for their quality and respected by employers. Combining the highest academic standards with practical, hands-on learning, expert teaching faculty and the latest technology ensures Seneca graduates are career-ready.

Candidates anxious to hit the campaign trail

By Mark Pavilons

Ontario voters will be heading to the polls to elect Ontario's 41st Parliament on Thursday, June 12.

After NDP leader Andrea Horwath refused to support the Liberal budget, the stage was set for this spring's election.

"The Liberal budget is a mad dash to escape scandal by promising the moon and the stars," said Horwath. "It is time for a government that stands up for middle class families. It is time for a government that respects people's tax dollars. It is time for a government that makes sense."

The Liberals introduced a budget containing more than 70 new promises in a desperate bid to keep their sinking government afloat in the midst of a criminal investigation into the gas plants scandal and cover up.

"This government has no plan to get the basics right, like creating jobs, lowering hydro rates, and making life more affordable," said Horwath.

The budget comes after the Liberals failed to deliver results on a series of promises made in the previous year's budget, including reducing auto insurance rates, cutting home care wait times, and setting up a Financial Accountability Office.

"The same government that couldn't fulfill three promises over the last year is making more than 70 new promises this year. How can Kathleen Wynne build a ship, when she hasn't managed to build a raft?" asked Horwath.

The Liberal budget, her party contended, contained a new round of no-strings attached giveaways for corporations, and includes no plan to get sky-rocketing hydro rates under control or create jobs by rewarding job creators.

Dr. Helen Jaczek, MPP for Oak Ridges-Markham, said their budget received a good response at the breakfast held Friday morning. As the events unfolded, it may for an "interesting day."

The budget received some positive reception, along with kudos from labour leader Sid Ryan and the teachers' federation.

She said she was puzzled as to why Horwath defeated the budget.

This election will cost millions, and may very well result in another minority government.

Oak Ridges-Markham, she noted, is the largest riding in Canada by population and she's ready to go door-to-door.

Jaczek said the Liberals did some good work in committee, despite the minority government. Partisan ideas were put aside and all the parties worked together on several initiatives. They recently put the finishing touches on a report concerning the ORNGE debacle, something that will never see the light of day. It was due out May 5.

Jaczek contends that Premier Kathleen Wynne is a person who believes in consensus, but she was stymied at every turn.

"There was the potential to make the minority government work," she said.

As the term progressed, however, the atmosphere in the House had "become toxic."

York-Simcoe MPP Julia Munro is lacing up her shoes and ready to hit the campaign trail.

The post-budget days were filled with some drama and Munro said Horwath did not let the PCs know in advance her intentions.

She's pleased to be heading into an election. The PCs have a plan and they want to move on it, she said. Also, the Liberals have painted a rather "scary picture" in their proposed budget with no clear direction.

She doesn't take anything for granted regarding her chances in the election, but noted many people are ready for change. From opening up hydro bills to those struggling to make a living, change is needed.

Munro said she's heard of a great deal of frustration by small business owners who are burdened by restrictions, regulations and red tape. She encountered many local business owners at the recent Bradford home show who said they couldn't wait for an election.

For many, the impacts of Liberal measures have hit home in a negative way.

Candidate Lorelea Carruthers announced that Lyn McLeod, former leader of the Ontario Liberal Party, and Mike Brown, former Speaker of the Legislature, will co-chair her campaign to be York-Simcoe's MPP.

"I'm honoured to welcome Lyn McLeod and Mike Brown to the team," said Lorelea Carruthers, speaking to a sold-out fundraiser at the Holland Marsh Winery in King. "Their combined experience and passion for public service are exemplary, and I appreciate their guidance. If the opposition forces an election this spring, we will be ready to win."

Lyn McLeod, who served as Ontario Liberal leader in the 1990s, was the first female leader of a major Ontario political party.

"I'm very happy to join Lorelea's team and support her campaign to make daily life easier. Like Lorelea, I began my political career as school trustee, and so I know we both appreciate how important it is that we continue to invest in our students' success."

Former Speaker Mike Brown remarked: "I am impressed by Lorelea's hard work and articulate advocacy for her community. She has a strong combination of local experience and a track record getting results across the province. She will make a terrific member of the Legislature."

Lorelea Carruthers is a three-term school trustee from East Gwillimbury, currently serving as co-chair of the York

Catholic and York public transportation consortium. A long-time budget chair for the school board, Lorelea served two terms as vice-president of all public school boards in Ontario. She also sits on East Gwillimbury's Environmental Advisory Committee.

Editorial, Letters & Opinion

"Public opinion shapes our destinies and guides the progress of human affairs"

~ Frank B. Kellogg

Making sure we maintain a sense of community

When strangers start acting like neighbours ... communities are reinvented.
- Ralph Nader

Our sense of community has changed over the decades. Our lives are quite hectic these days and we have to contend with many stresses.

When times are tough, or at least a little complex, we need the comfort of friends and neighbours.

The sad fact today in some areas is that few really know their neighbours.

What has happened to make it so? Ok, few of us have either lived or experienced the "Leave it to Beaver" scenario, where everyone knew their neighbours and care for their well being.

Growing up in Etobicoke I remember a friendly, safe community where a kid could ride his bike all day long and not come home until dark. We arrived home when we were dirty, tired and hungry - the sign of a good day.

Yes, neighbours looked out for one another and even if you didn't know them by name, you knew something about them. People waved, said "hello" and came to the door from time to time.

Moving from Etobicoke to small town Ontario, the sense of closeness never left us, but we moved to a rural area north of Bolton, so our neighbours were spread out. Without a bike, a kid wasn't going anywhere. And the gravel roads took their toll on our two-wheeled conveyances.

But house warming parties were still commonplace, and I remember people showing up at the door with food on many occasions.

Once we became mobile with driver's licences, the world was our oyster, yet we didn't venture very far from home.

I imagine that places like Nobleton, Schomberg and King City have retained much of their "small town" feel and spirit. It's something you can't really put your finger on, but it's a sense of belonging, of paying attention, of caring.

So while our urban counterparts may make jest of us in this part of the GTA, we know the true secret.

Call us "hicks" or "country bumpkins" we don't mind. In fact, many of us wear it like a badge of honour on our Sunday suits as we go to church with our friends and neighbours. If being a "hick" means knowing the server at the coffee shop, so be it. If being a "bumpkin" means gathering at the ballpark on a Saturday afternoon, that's okay.

Some in our neck of the woods can't wait to get out of Dodge and explore the big city. I'm sure most of us have done that. While the hustle and bustle of cities like Toronto and New York have their appeal, give me fresh air and rolling hills any day.

My eldest daughter recently returned from a school trip to New York City, visiting the sights and sounds of that huge metropolis. Being interested in performing arts, she loved Broadway. For a teen, I imagine it's quite the magnet.

Maybe an appreciation of suburban living comes with age and a family.

In our first townhouse our little neighbourhood was quite close-knit.

Since we were on a self-contained court, we regularly gathered at neighbours' homes or on the street for impromptu gatherings. We watched out for one another's children and pets. We told our neighbours their car windows were open when rain was coming.

We always made it a point of trying to be friendly with the neighbours on both sides of our subdivision and we did the same in our current home. Neighbours have come and gone.

Yet, it doesn't matter who's out walking their dog, jogging or cycling by, I always make it a point of smiling and saying "hi." It's the neighbourly thing to do.

Of course, our lives are busy at times, almost too much so. Almost every night of the week there are Brownies, sports, school commitments, homework sessions, birthday parties and part-time jobs. There is a seemingly endless to-do list and errands pile up faster than they can be addressed.

I think I spend more time doing, preparing and cleaning than enjoying.

When it comes to neighbours, we see them more in the summer, and smell the neighbourhood BBQs. We hear kids splashing in backyard pools and see our neighbours doing lawn chores. Again, there is always something to tend to, to improve, perfect and maintain.

Since I lack green thumbs of any kind, I have to rely on others for advice and options. Everyone has an opinion.

There's still a certain amount of keeping up the Joneses, but I think most of it centres around just keeping the property decent and in keeping with the community.

This winter did take its toll - we lost a downspout and several slabs of stone came loose from our front steps. A small bush may never recover.

I love emerging from winter and stretching my legs in the summer sun. Some may be a little blinded by my colourful attire, but it's my way of celebrating summer. In my spare time, I simply love being in a constant state of "vacation mode."

I missed a family vacation last year and never took any time off. This year, while a trip is out of the question, I'm doing my best to find a cottage for the family at a reasonable price. We used to vacation at the Delawana Inn until it closed. This resort, too, had a sense of belonging, of community.

Humans are social animals, whether we admit it or not. We need contact, whether it's a wave, smile or "can I take your order?"

Just as we dedicate ourselves to raising our families and working hard, we should also work hard to forging bonds and being part of our neighbourhoods.

It's a win-win scenario.

June Election

Mayor stresses the need to work together

By Mark Pavilons

With a provincial election in the offing, the bottom line is politicians of all stripes have to learn to work together for the benefit of the constituents.

That message came from King Mayor Steve Pellegrini, who said he hopes the election will put to rest some of the constant bickering among MPPs and the unsettled nature of the minority Liberal government.

However, he's skeptical about a majority government.

"At the end of the day, everyone has to learn to work together," he said. "You have a job to do; do the best you can."

Ontarians will go through another election, we'll spend a substantial amount of money in the process, but "you have to do what's right for the people."

Pellegrini noted King has been well served by both MPPs - Dr. Helena Jaczek (Liberal) and Julia Munro (PC). They've both been helpful and cordial working on behalf of the residents.

Ash borer threatening trees in King, York

By Mark Pavilons

Ash trees in and around York region are in immediate danger from the Emerald Ash Borer (EAB). The infestation has killed millions of ash trees across North America.

According to King Mayor Steve Pellegri, our municipality has removed 12 trees in our parks so far because of the bug.

The invasive EAB is a dark green, metallic-looking beetle whose larvae feed on wood under the bark of ash trees, creating S-shaped tunnels and result in the death of the tree within two to five years. The signs of infestation, which may not be visible until the tree is too damaged to be saved, include yellowing or dying leaves at the top of the tree, cracked bark, stem shoots and D-shaped holes on the bark.

Ash trees not yet infested with EAB will succumb to the insect if insecticide treatments are not administered every two years. The York Region Emerald Ash Borer Management Plan includes removing and replacing ash trees on Regional roads and protecting some healthy trees with insecticide. Residents are asked to help slow the spread of EAB and other insects whose larvae travel in firewood by buying and burning firewood locally.

York Region has partnered with Local Enhancement and Appreciation of Forests (LEAF) to educate residents through the EAB Ambassador Program and to provide a subsidized backyard tree-planting service. York also supports tree planting programs for rural property owners delivered by the Lake Simcoe Region Conservation Authority and the Toronto and Region Conservation Authority.

There will be an Emerald Ash Borer information session and workshops to inform residents about EAB and how their properties may be affected. It will be held Tuesday, June 3 at the Nobleton arena from 7-9 p.m.

For more information on EAB in York Region, visit www.york.ca/EAB

Tens of millions of ash trees have been killed by the EAB in Canada and the eastern United States. It poses no risk to human health.

After being sighted in York Region in 2008, it can now be found throughout York Region and much of southern Ontario. The focus now is on managing the impact and slowing the spread of the insect.

This plan involves monitoring the spread and working with municipal, provincial and national partners; replacing dead or dying Region-owned ash trees on Regional roads with different species not susceptible to EAB.

The larvae of Emerald Ash Borer and other insects can travel in firewood, nursery stock and wood waste like cut-up branches and stumps.

Avoid moving firewood and wood

The Emerald Ash Borer may be a pretty bug, but it's proving to be quite harmful in Ontario.

waste to slow the spread of EAB and prevent the introduction of other invasive insects to new areas.

Dispose of ash wood waste at any of York Region's public waste drop-off depots.

If you have an ash tree on your property, contact an ISA certified arborist to assess your trees health and determine your options.

Report strange activity to police

By Mark Pavilons

Residents have a role to play in keeping their neighbourhoods safe. Residential break-ins are a constant source of irritation and concern. And Nobleton is no exception.

Councillor Peter Grandilli has received a few calls from residents noting their concerns about break-ins.

He urges residents to keep their eyes and ears open to help keep our community safe. Residents can also make sure their doors and vehicles are locked.

If you see anyone suspicious in your area, don't hesitate to call police. Police presence will act as a deterrent.

And York Regional Police have made reporting concerns a bit easier, with an expanded online program.

Residents can now make a report online at www.yrp.ca if you have concerns about repeated behaviour or activity in your community, including ongoing traffic violations at one particular intersection, inappropriate activity at public parks or plazas, graffiti at a local school or any ongoing activity that affects the enjoyment of your community.

To file a report you will be asked to provide some personal information such as your name and address, your gender and date of birth, as well as your phone number and email address. You may also have to disable your computer's pop-up blocking software before proceeding.

Once a submission is received by York Regional Police, the information will be reviewed by a police officer. The officer will review the complaint to ensure it meets their criteria and determine if there is a file already open for the same complaint. If a file is already open, any new information will be added and you will be informed. If no file exists, the officer will initiate a file and provide you with the file number. You will be updated regarding any action that has been taken within 15 days of receiving the complaint. If the report does not meet the criteria, you will be notified.

Please be aware that filing a false police report is a criminal offence.

"York Regional Police is dedicated to a co-ordinated and integrated approach to building stronger and safer communities," said Chief Eric Jolliffe. "The ability to report community concerns through our online reporting systems allows our citizens to be involved in the safety of their communities from the comfort of their homes and at their own convenience."

Veteran wrangler worked with Hollywood's best

By Mark Pavilons

Every piece of art and every framed photograph in John "Frenchie" Berger's Nobleton home has a story and some meaning behind it.

If only they could talk.

The veteran Hollywood horseman, stunt man and weapons master has worked with the best and taught the most infamous of big screen characters.

Berger grins from ear to ear as he recounts the most enjoyable moments of his life's journey. And there have been many, indeed.

But there were some tragic ones, too.

Known as the little boy from Marseille, he was somewhat of a hero in the town of Anterrieux during the Second World War. Just a boy, Berger was part of the French resistance and this area was the site of fierce fighting by some 3,000 members of the French Maquis, battling Nazi troops in June 1944. He was even captured and interrogated by the SS but released. He refused to leave his herd behind, and went from hamlet to hamlet delivering water to those in need.

While the experience left him with a hatred of warfare, it invariably shaped his life in some ways.

He went on to join the French airborne and spent time in Tunisia. During a stint in Vietnam he was injured and left after his tour was over.

It was an exciting time and his experi-

Nobleton's John "Frenchie" Berger has had a long and illustrious career in the movie business. He's worked with some of Hollywood's best, through his company Shooting with the Stars. His daughter Stephanie Lee (below) has worked alongside him for decades. Actor Joseph Gordon Levitt poses with John during the filming of the 2009 movie "Killshot," which also starred Mickey Rourke and Rosario Dawson.

ences with people in many countries have given him some valuable insights. Humans have been fighting for millennia and for some cultures conflict has been part of their heritage. "Change has to come from within," he observed.

He had originally hoped to land in the U.S., but restrictions on entry at the time led him to Canada and his first home of Winnipeg. He moved to Toronto in 1955.

His love of horses as a youngster led him to the Circle M Ranch in Kleinburg where he landed work and showed off his equestrian skills. Letting people know he was from France earned him the lifelong nickname "Frenchie."

He soon landed jobs as a horse wrangler, extra and stunt man in early westerns. He also helped launch an organization for stunt workers recognized by ACTRA.

As his skill and reputation grew, "Frenchie" Berger was working in film and TV productions all over the world.

Berger learned from the very best - famed stunt man Yakima Canutt, who worked closely with the legendary John Wayne. Canutt helped Wayne with his trademark swagger. He also taught Wayne to fall off a horse and the duo were known for creating realistic on-screen fighting techniques, some of which are still used today.

Canutt also trained Charlton Heston for Ben-Hur's chariot races.

Berger's expertise in firearms led him to another Hollywood career as a weapons master in countless films. He launched Shooting with the Stars prop company and he became a sought-after commodity.

Some of his credits include Police Academy, Ghostbusters, Robocop TV series, The Blues Brothers and more recently X-Men (2000), American Psycho (2000) and A History of Violence (2005).

Berger was proud to have worked with the likes of Lee Marvin, Charles Bronson, Carl Weathers and Angie Dickinson in the 1981 film Death Hunt. He also worked on a Second World War movie filmed in Cheltenham in nearby Caledon in 1970.

He trained actors, stunt workers and extras on the safe use of firearms. He altered weapons and modified them for specific uses. Blank-firing weapons were more common before the use of CGI. He's had to deactivate live military weapons. They used everything from rubber handguns to the airsoft models used by backyard plinkers today. During his career he had to simply roll up his sleeves, get to work to solve problems to make it work.

He said he really enjoyed the classic westerns, largely due to his love of horses. He spent more than 45 years in the industry and loved every minute of it.

"It's a business that draws you in. It's in your blood."

As he retired and winds down, he still gets calls for advice from producers and film companies. He's a walking encyclopedia of knowledge, and has a ton of anecdotes if you're up for a chat.

He wouldn't change anything and would "do it all over again" in a heartbeat.

Following in his footsteps is his daughter Stephanie Lee Berger, a weapons handler since 1999. She's worked on such films as Dawn of the Dead (2004), The Recruit with Al Pacino, 16 Blocks and The Tuxedo with Jackie Chan.

John has been married to Beverley Berger since 1972. Beverley is well known in Nobleton as a spokesperson for the Lions Club dog guide program.

The little boy from Marseille has definitely left his mark on the motion picture landscape.

Robots take over Nobleton Public School gym

By Jeff Doner

More than 200 students from 14 York Region schools packed the gym at Nobleton Public School for the 10th annual Lego Robotics Tournament recently.

Throughout the day, the students put their minds together in an attempt to come out on top of the challenges put in front of them.

Nobleton PS Grade 4 teacher John Tovey has been running the event for the past seven years and said it just keeps getting bigger and bigger.

"When it first started 10 years ago, there were two teams from two schools and it has just continued to grow and now we're up to this many kids," he said.

Each year Tovey and the organizers determine the challenges in advance, come up with the rules and then send out a package to the teams that enroll. The teams then get robot packages and start working on them in January to get ready for the tournament.

On the day of the tournament, schools head into the gym, get about 45 minutes to do a final adjustment and then put their robots to task.

This year the robots took part in a speed skating challenge to go with an Olympic theme, where teams raced other robots on a track, using laser beams to help them navigate properly.

Each team's robot competed in three races and one by one they were eliminated until a winner was crowned in each division.

Aside from the racing trophies and accolades, there were also prizes for top designs.

Tovey said the event brings out the best in students and gives them plenty of valuable learning experiences.

"It's learning about technology," he said. "The kids that are learning how to program, there's a future in that and then designing and putting it together and mixing the two together is another completely different skill."

"Most of the robots here are out of the same kits and the kids have had the same amount of time. Some of them have figured out the intricacies of the programming itself and the difference between a first place finish and a twentieth place finish. Sometimes it's just a very minor adjustment, but they have figured it out. Problem solving is another huge thing."

Nobleton PS Grade 4 students Sarah Gisana and Allie Suomela were teamed up for the tournament and were beaming after their robot scored a second overall finish in their division.

"I had a lot of fun," Gisana said. "I liked building the robot, it was really fun and it was just fun to be on the team."

Suomela agreed: "It was nerve-racking when we were doing the final one because they were all really fast and we were like, so slow," she said. "But we learned that practice makes perfect and patience is important." Then Sarah jumped in, "and try your best and don't give up."

Business Women's Network launched in York Region

By Angela Gismondi

A group of local business women came together to learn, share and collaborate as the Business Women's Network of York Region (BWNRYR) held its official launch gala.

The networking event, which included guest speakers and hors d'oeuvres, was held April 23 at Oakview Terrace in Richmond Hill.

Elizabeth Johnston, president and co-founder of BWNRYR, explained the group was created by a group of entrepreneurs to support local business women. Johnston, along with co-founders Karin Theron and Candice Fletcher, created the organization to assist business women connect through networking.

"I want to give women more opportunities to work together since we do not appear to hang out on the golf courses as much," said Johnston in her address at the launch. "I would like to promote the Business Women's Network of York Region as a collaborating effect - helping, not competing, idea exchanging, working together for mutual success and growing both professionally as well as personally. I have chosen the catch phrase 'in cahoots' to represent what I want to do."

The BWNRYR is targeting women who would like to meet like-minded business women, make new social and business contacts, learn business development tools and stay current on local issues. Johnston has spoken to many business women and understands that they want a women-only meeting with flexible times, no strict start times and a 'Coles Notes' version of growth tools to fit their busy schedules.

"Sometimes women get pushed into business, it wasn't the plan but because of circumstances beyond your control, you need to rethink the nine to five job and working for someone else," said Johnston. "Those whose path wasn't set to do a business degree and then open a business need to be brought into the circle of understanding the 'ins and outs' of running a business. We would like to create opportunity for the education of young female entrepreneurs and assist them to grow professionally, create a program where current members sponsor new memberships for underprivileged business women with the plan to build up and help others."

The market needs the services of an organization that provides a system where people can utilize each other's expertise and where they can turn for assistance, Johnston explained.

"By sharing experiences, information, ideas, challenges and most importantly successes, the BWNRYR will address pressure points in business that women need help with and keep them informed of activities that are pertinent to running and operating a small business," said Johnston. "The market is for both successful and struggling business women, those who want to share their successes and those who would like to learn from others. We wanted to provide a system where people can utilize each other's expertise and be in cahoots with each other."

Johnston also said that helping others can have a huge impact on your own company.

"The Business Women's Network York Region would like to help take business women to the next level in business, whatever that means to each member as an individual," Johnston stated. "Be in business for yourself, not by yourself. Set high standards for yourself and inspire others to reach those standards, bring a friend or two on the journey to bridge the gap between home and work while developing business partnerships."

The BWNRYR has three events coming up - lunch at Pheasant Run in East Gwillimbury on Tuesday, May 27 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., breakfast at the Kingbridge Centre in King City on Tuesday, June 24 from 8 to 9:30 a.m. and a cocktail party at the Treefrog offices in Newmarket on Thursday, July 24 from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

CDS rugby girls in the thick of competition

By JEFF DONER

The senior girls rugby team at Country Day School has carved themselves out a solid reputation over the years and the 2014 squad is no different.

The team started their season off on a positive note last week by placing third overall at the Canadian Association of Independent Schools [CAIS] senior girls rugby tournament at Bishop's School in Lennoxville, Quebec.

"It was phenomenal," said head coach Dave Downer about the CAIS tournament. "We took a very strong game against Ashbury, which was the second place team, and we lost just by two tries, but the Bishop's was certainly the quality team this year. They were quite good."

The team hasn't won the CAIS tournament for the past two years, but is going towards a 10th consecutive CISAA championship title in their local division this spring.

Their strong play in the Quebec tournament and a good start to the regular season schedule back here at home has set them on a good path thus far.

In regular season play last week they also defeated their local rivals from Holy Trinity School in Richmond Hill by a score of 39-5.

Country Day School's senior girls' rugby team is aiming for yet another CISAA title. They finished 3rd at the CAIS tournament in Quebec recently.

Submitted Photo

Ashleigh Calvert scored two tries in the win, while McKinley Hunt, Emma Soave, Maddy Staples, Sjorland Gibson and Hayden Brown each added a try of their own. Olivia Hallis and Rachel Wong each converted a kick.

Downer, who is in his first year of coaching the girls team at CDS, said the school's rugby program is thriving after years of success.

"Dean (Sherman) has built an effective program here at CDS and has sort of built it in over the past 15 years," he explained. "I think what happens is that at every school there are certain sports that people are drawn to and in the spring here at our school, a lot of the girls target rugby. If they don't mind taking contact, that's the sport they go to and they love it."

With their nine consecutive CISAA titles, the team has been able to build up a solid foundation of veterans and fresh talent each year.

For example, ex-CDS rugby player Jordyn Rowntree, who now plays for Queens University, has played provincially and has a chance at playing federally, has been helping the team out recently.

But Downer said that's also a product of the interest in the sport and how much it has grown in recent years.

"I think because there are so few outlets for girls to play contact sports," he said. "I think this and wrestling are just about it, in terms of being able to make physical contact on purpose and then girls love that opportunity to go out there and play rough and tough. That seems to be a big draw for a lot of the girls."

Downer also pointed out that young athletes are starting to realize the opportunities rugby can offer. Programs in schools aren't as crowded, giving opportunities to get into universities and even some scholarships. Another draw is the numerous tournaments nationally and internationally.

The senior girls are off to a good start.

"The girls at this school almost approach this like at the club level," Downer said. "They buy into the philosophy. We talk a lot about the style of play, the approach to sport in general as opposed to just going out and making a pass."

The team will play three more regular season games and then will move on to the CISAA championship rounds later this spring.

KCSS Lions look sharp at tournament

By JEFF DONER

Baseball season is finally upon us and the KCSS varsity men's Lions team got to kick up some dirt at St. Andrew's College in Aurora for an exhibition tournament on Monday.

The tournament pitted them against four other local teams in a pre-season primer to get ready for the start of the regular season next week.

KCSS started off the day with a 5-2 win against Trinity College. Pitcher Matt Radeff got the start and looked stellar on the mound, retiring the first nine batters he faced in the game.

Radeff also spurred the Lions offence, scoring their first run of the game after providing some good base running and earned some praise from coach Mike Mallory.

"He has been our ace the past few years, so it's really great to have him back," he said. "We've also got some good hitters in the lineup and at this time of the year, it's just about getting good at bats."

The Lions did just that in the bottom of the third inning, with Francesco Amantea driving in Radeff and Matt Ardizzi smacking a double to the fence to score another. John Read then added an RBI for himself to make it 4-0 by the end of the inning.

Mack McDonald came in to relieve Radeff in the fourth and also looked good, securing the 4-0 lead up until the final inning.

The Lions added a run in the bottom of the sixth, but with Lion Gavin Datt on the mound in the seventh, Trinity College started to fight back, scoring two runs.

However, Datt turned up the heat and fired three straight strikeouts with the bases loaded to end the game and give the Lions the win.

"It felt great," Datt said after the win, acknowledging there was a bit of a scare at the end. "At that point I was thinking, just throw strikes and hit the glove. It was good to pick up the win finally."

Ardizzi, one of the team's Grade 12 veterans, said the win was a good way to bounce back from a poor tournament showing in Port Hope and shake away some of the cobwebs.

"Everybody looked really sharp today. We were able to make a lot of plays that we weren't making in Port Hope and the guys were hitting and getting the counts they needed too," he said.

"I'm very optimistic. With the way the guys played today, things look very promising. Now we'll roll into the season with a double header next week and into the next few weeks."

Coach Mallory agreed with his centre fielder Ardizzi and said the team knows they can win if they execute properly.

"I told them at the beginning today to just have some confidence," he said. "They all know they're good ball players and they just need to go out there and show it. I'm real confident and we have had a real program for a long time, so I think they feel the expectations of doing well, too."

Mallory said this year's team has some strong arms and a good mix of veterans and new players, which should complement each other nicely.

"We're looking to have a good year, but it looks like the program is going to be in good hands down the road," he said. "It will be a really nice opportunity for these grade nine's to play with these veterans and learn the game as we go along."

The Lions will now look ahead to opening their season with a double header at Richmond Green Park on Monday.

Marchese run aids Food Bank

By Mark Pavilons

The stage is set for the second annual Tom Marchese Trail Run & Walk, in aid of the King Township Food Bank.

The event will take place during Springfest, at Cold Creek Conservation Area Saturday, May 10.

You can walk, jog or run one of three routes that range from three to 12 kilometres.

The run begins at 10 a.m. that morning before Springfest opens to the public at 11.

After the run, participants can enjoy a fun-filled day for the whole family that includes a BBQ, high ropes, rock climbing wall, guided nature hikes and more.

“Don’t miss this opportunity to enjoy the beauty of Cold Creek Conservation Area, the fun of Springfest and to support the King Township Food Bank,” Marchese said.

This event, he noted, is important for several reasons. “The Food Bank does incredible work throughout King Township, and the impact of this small group of volunteers cannot be overstated. I would like to help increase the awareness of the work, and need of the Food Bank.”

Marchese added it’s also a unique opportunity to show off Cold Creek, a “prized asset of King Township.” Most people who participated last year had never been to the conservation area, and commented on the beauty that is Cold Creek.

They raised close to $3,000 for the Food Bank in their inaugural year. The Township is a valued partner in this event by offering to coordinate it with Springfest.

For more information on this year’s run or to register, visit www.KingTownship-Tom.com/TMTR.

NobleKing Minor Hockey holds tryouts

By JEFF DONER

NobleKing Minor Hockey finished the 2013-14 season with plenty of success and are looking to build on that starting with their tryouts for the upcoming season.

The first sessions took place recently at the Trisan Centre and will continue.

The tryouts over the two weeks are for the A rep teams from novice to midget.

"We're hoping to get a good turnout and so far we're actually very pleased with the turnout. We had about 20 kids come out for this tryout and hopefully we at least get that for the others," said new NobleKing Minor Hockey president Mike Baldesarra.

"We get the kids out for the tryouts in the spring because they've just wrapped up their season and there's limited ice availability in the summer, so it's a product of getting kids when they've finished their season and when we can get some ice time."

Throughout the day, players filtered in and out to show coaches and league brass what they can do on the ice.

Despite the 2014-15 season being months away, tryouts show that preparations are already taking place, with registration opening on May 1. "We're hoping to encourage lots of hometown hockey players to come play in King," he said. "It's a great sport and there's a great value because we get lots of ice time in our local league and rep systems. Hopefully we get lots of people to come out and participate."

Baldesarra, a King City native, has only been president for about a month, but is already happy with what he sees on the ice and said he and the executive will get to work right away.

"I think my goal is to at least equal the participation that we've had in the past, because we've seen our numbers in NobleKing rise over the past couple of years, which is great," he said.

"I want to get lots of skill development as part of the program and we've got lots of new energetic people as part of the executive and tons of volunteers who are really dedicated to improving the skill level and giving kids a really fun and enjoyable hockey experience."

For more information on the Knights tryouts or registration, visit www.nobleking-hockey.com.

Players of all ages groups took to the ice to tryout for the 2014-15 NobleKing A teams at the Trisan Centre recently. Tryouts continue.

Classic cars, classic rock at MS fundraiser this summer

The Schomberg fairgrounds will rock and roll this June during a family fund day with all proceeds to multiple sclerosis research and client services.

The event will be held Sunday, June 15 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Let's Rock 'n Roll MS Away committee, a group of dedicated and passionate individuals working to improve the quality of life for those living with multiple sclerosis (MS), is organizing this fun-filled '50s themed afternoon, which will include a classic car show. The goal of the event is to promote awareness and raise funds to help those with MS in York Region.

There are several King residents on the committee, organizing this first of what hopes to become an annual event.

Children and adults alike attending this event will have the opportunity to enjoy an afternoon of good wholesome old fashioned fun – classic car show, bouncing castle, kids games, popcorn, cotton candy, old fashioned BBQ, unique vendors and prizes for best costume - everything for the young and young at heart.

The committee for this exciting project is made up of a number of local community and business leaders, as well as volunteers who themselves suffer from MS. Monia Isgro, chair of the committee and an MS sufferer, came up with the idea for this event.

"It is important to raise awareness of this awful disease that strikes both men and women in the primes of their lives. It is also an opportunity to raise much needed funds for continued research which might someday find a cure."

For further information or tickets contact Grace Isgro at 416-543-1079 or visit www.letsrocknrollmsaway.com.

King congratulates Binsfeld on gold medal win

By Angela Gismondi

On behalf of King council, Mayor Steve Pellegrini made a presentation to local skier James Binsfeld in recognition of his gold medal win at the Para Alpine GS at the Ontario Winter Games.

Binsfeld, a King City native, won the medal Feb. 28 at Mt. St. Louis in the male division, which included standing and sitting men. Binsfeld, a hemiplegic from strokes, edged out Will Goessart, a three tracking leg amp, by .35 seconds. In third place was Andy VanGrunsvan, a quadriplegic sit skier. Binsfeld and Goessart are expected to represent Ontario at Canada Games in Prince George in 2015.

Binsfeld developed a passion for downhill skiing very early in his life. The 29-year-old has been skiing since he was nine years old and began racing competitively when he was 18. He competes in the standup division and has been provincial champion in the standup division since 2005. Despite his heart condition and hemi paresis from strokes, Binsfeld has won a number of medals in national and international competitions.

Throughout the past six years of competition Binsfeld has been hospitalized three times for cardiac interventions, the most recent of which occurred this past December. He recovered well and went on to win at Ontario Winter Games in February. In March, Binsfeld returned to Whistler for the National Championships and beat out two of the Canadians who raced at Sochi.

When he's not skiing, Binsfeld works for the Township of King's fire department as a public education officer and sits on the Township's Accessibility Committee. He also teaches kids with disabilities to ski.

Binsfeld said he was proud to bring home another gold medal. He thanked the mayor, council and the Township for its support.

"I appreciate everything King has done for me, all the support they have given me, especially with it being a small town," said Binsfeld, adding it's not every day you get to go to a council meeting, get recognized with a special presentation and shake hands with the mayor. "I look forward to continuing to ski and working with the fire department."

Mayor Steve Pellegrini congratulates para skier James Binsfeld on his recent medal victory.

More than 1,700 turn up for Southlake Run

More than 1,700 runners and walkers descended on the Aurora Community Centre for the annual Nature's Emporium Run/Walk for Southlake.

A cool morning with a lot of sun got everybody up on their feet and onto the streets to run the 10k, 5k, 2k, and Kids' Mini Mile all in the name of raising funds for Southlake Regional Health Centre.

To date, more than $127,000 in pledges have been raised, and dollars are expected to continue rolling in until online pledges close on May 15. Opportunities are still open to help organizers reach their $175,000 goal.

"It is wonderful to see so many people here to support our great community hospital," said Mike Smith, member of the Southlake Board, pumping up the crowd before runners hit the pavement for the 10k. "What amazes me about this as a community event is it has evolved from a small group of friends here to honour a friend who was a runner and an Aurora citizen by the name of Bob Hartwell and it is amazing it has come so far. Three years ago, the Hartwell Challenge suggested that Southlake be the benefactor of this event and it has taken on a whole new life, which is fantastic. We would like to remember Bob Hartwell in our run today as well as the committee."

Runners took to the streets, some in their very best running gear, while others took things a bit more casually, or even in costume, looking to have some fun while helping a great cause.

Some were wearing distinctive shirts emblazoned with a hugging family designed by young Isabella and Olivia Polito, who had many reasons to be thankful to their local hospital. Not only were they born there, but without the hospital they might not have been joined on stage by their parents, Sal and Deann.

"The hospital saved my daddy's life," said Olivia.

Mayor Steve Pellegrini warms up for the Run.

Immanuel Reformed Church

Do you know?

If someone asked you who Jesus was, what would you tell them? Would you try to change the subject? Would you be a bit honest and say He was a major figure in history?

But who was He really? To paraphrase C. S. Lewis, if we want the honest truth, (is there any other kind of truth?) there are only three options.

Option 1: He was an incredibly gifted actor/magician who purposely misled people for His own selfish reasons. If they had academy awards 2000 years ago, He should have won unanimously.

Option 2: He actually thought He was the Son of God, but simply was out of touch with reality. So out of touch with reality, that for His own protection we would have Him put in a mental health hospital with zero chance of release. In years gone by, it was called an Insane Asylum.

Option 3: He was and is who He claimed to be.

There are no other options. God never left any other options open to us, He did not intend to.

In the Bible, Hebrews 2:3 asks us, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation ...?"

Do you neglect watching TV or spending time on the computer? Our bodies will die, our days are numbered. Please do not spend time rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic while neglecting the life boat. Rather than neglect eternity, will you spend your TV and computer time for the next 10 days reading the Bible - to learn about the real Jesus? Will you?

Immanuel Reformed Church in Nobleton meets for worship service every Sunday at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. All are welcome to join us as we meet in the United Church building at 6076 King Road, Nobleton. www.immanuelreformed.ca. If you are interested in meeting to learn about the Bible, call Pastor Maurice Luimes 905-859-8581 for arrangements.

There is a ladies Coffee Break at the church (same as address above), Tuesday mornings at 9:30 a.m. Any ladies interested in studying the Bible are welcome to join. Call Mary at 905-729-2728 for more information or email immanuelcoffeebreak@gmail.com.

Horticultural Society By John Arnott

Though outside it felt like November inside it was very spring like as the Nobleton-King City Horticultural Society held its April meeting and flower show in the Nobleton Community Hall Monday, April 28 with Marcia Bond of Glen Echo Garden Centre, an expert in container gardening, as guest speaker.

Trish Symons of Hockley Valley had her work cut out for her with 59 entries by 19 exhibitors to judge. Margery Hunt (King City) earned the highest points with 12 in the Novice Section with Anita Pulla (King City) coming second and being runner up for Best in Show Cultural with her coleus grown over the winter from a cutting taken last fall from her outdoor annual plant. Margaret Langford (King City) won Best in Show Cultural with her 20-year-old Rabbit Foot Fern.

Nancy Hopkinson (Nobleton) whose imaginative entry in the Are you Up for a Challenge category "Stained Glass" won Best in Show Design, earned highest points in the Open Section with 28 while Kathy Ball (Nobleton) came second with 22 and Jules Maule-finch (Caledon) third with 20. Barb Downey (Castlederg) won first for her miniature 'Prayer' which was runner up for Best in Show Design.

This month's Design Class was themed "See You in Church."

On Monday, May 19 N-KCHS will hold its much anticipated plant sale outside the arena in connection with Nobleton's Victoria Day activities. Our next meeting and flower show is a week later Monday, May 26 starting at 8 p.m. in the Nobleton Community Hall.

The topic for next month's session will be "How To Prepare Flowers to Show in Design and Cultural Classes," given by Mary Audia.

Cleanup day a success at seniors' centre

King's Corners

King City United
By Eleanor Fry

As we celebrated our 143rd anniversary we were welcomed into the sanctuary with the special music of "The New Direction." This is a group of ladies from Emmanuel United Church in Brampton with great vocal and guitar talents. We thank them for joining us on our special day.

How reassuring and inspirational it is to witness the self-confidence of our young people. We watched an amazing video created by Jessica Sinka showing us her path of faith into membership through confirmation. King City United is alive and well in the hands of this very capable young group.

Rev. Evelyn's sermon, "Along The Road," talked about the two strangers walking the road to Emmaus as they were joined by a stranger. They didn't know it was Jesus, since he had been resurrected. They were telling him about the crucifixion, the reason they were so sad. He quoted scriptures to them. He reminded them of their history. What he said made sense. It stirred their hearts. They invited him to share a meal. He broke the bread, lifted it, and blessed it. As he did so, they were healed. Their spirits were lifted. Then he was gone.

Now it is us on that road. It's us who are seeking to confirm our faith. This congregation has been walking the road for 143 years. That is quite a story. Rev. Evelyn passed baskets of little bread bites amongst us. Those that we break bread with are food for our souls, food for our journey. May we know the Holy Spirit is with us as we move in to our 144th year and beyond.

Did you notice the spring flowers coming to life in the planters at the front door? A big thank you to Maria Ehnes for sharing her time and talents. They give hope that spring is just around the corner.

Did you know we have a celebrity in our midst? Our very own Alan Henderson has been awarded the Senior Citizen Award Of Merit! He volunteers in many ways in our church, but he is also very active with Laskay Hall. This award helps to make him to walk tall after his surgery. Congratulations Al.

King Social Group has two events planned for May for everyone in the community to enjoy. Saturday, May 10 at 6 p.m. Murder Mystery Dinner Theater at New Hope United Church, 9100 Jane Street Bldg. "E." Join in for good food, bad jokes and help the "No Hope Players" solve the mystery of a murder aboard a cruise ship. Come in your cruise wear. Tickets $30 per person. Reserve yours by calling 905-738-6446.

Our next event is "Oliver Twist Musical" on Friday, May 23 7 p.m. Tickets are $15. It will be at the Newmarket Theatre on Mulock Dr. adjacent to Newmarket High School between Bayview and Leslie St. Seats in rows K and L have been reserved for this group until May 9th. Call the box office for yours - 905-953-5122. For more, call Sheila at 905-833-0574.

Mark your calendar for our 2nd annual Manitoulin Fish Fry at King City United Church. It's scheduled for Friday, June 13, from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Adults are $15, children $5. To reserve your tickets call our office at 905-833-5181, or email kcuc@bellnet.ca. Our secretary Nancy will be on sick leave until June 1, but our phones and emails will be answered.

Have you chosen your time yet to get your photo taken for our church directory? There are still some spaces left. We would like everyone included. You get a free directory. No obligation to purchase any photos. It takes 30 to 45 minutes. Everything is done at one time at the church. This helps us to know each other, especially our newer folks. Some of our team will be in the auditorium after worship for May 11 and 18. Photo days are Thursday, May 22 and Friday, May 23 from 2:30 to 8:30 p.m., then the following Saturday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Call Eleanor Fry, 905-833-5954 or Gail 905-727-7436 to book your time.

Rev. Evelyn will be on vacation May 12-18, then on study leave May 19-25. Rick McKinley will lead us on May 18 and Mr. Bill Stevens, who is the director of Camp Big Canoe will present the sermon for Sunday, May 25. We hope everyone will support us to welcome these leaders in our worship.

Saturday, May 10 is Spring Cleanup. Bring your favourite tools to help spruce up our church yard. 9 a.m. to noon.

We welcome one and all to our Sunday 10 a.m. worship services with Sunday school. All are invited to stay for a time of refreshments and fellowship, 50 Elizabeth Grove King City. King City Seniors

A big "thank you" goes out from the board of management to all the volunteers who made this year's Spring Clean-Up Day at the King City Seniors Centre another huge success. More than 20 people turned out to lend a hand, and we congratulate them all for a job well done!

"Get Walking Canada" Pole Walking Presentation

Marianne Ford, a Master Instructor with Nordixx Pole Walking, will offer a free presentation on pole walking at the Seniors Centre on Friday, May 16 at 1:30 p.m. The health and fitness benefits of the exercise will be highlighted, and poles will be available for those interested in trying them out. The poles will also be available for purchase.

They will be setting up a little jewellery sale with items hand-made by them. This would be a great way to support these ladies!

We will begin our time with refreshments & fellowship at 1 followed by the program starting about 1:30.

This year our kids will be discovering God's love on Son Treasure Island for their Vacation Bible School week, Aug. 11-15 from 9:30 a.m. to noon daily.

Parish of Lloydtown

The Anglican Parish of Lloydtown (which includes the churches of St. Mary Magdalene, Schomberg, and Christ Church, Kettleby) is planning a number of interesting events for May.

On May 10, for example, St. Mary Magdalene will host its popular monthly men's breakfast. The men will meet at the church on the Saturday morning at 8 a.m. to cook, eat, and enjoy a time of good food and fellowship. After breakfast, there will be short Bible study. In addition, the church's weekly Bible study will resume on Tuesday mornings at 10 a.m. This program will be led by The Reverend Sheila Ashworth.

On May 11, for the Mother's Day service at St. Mary Magdalene, the Parish Band (known as "Sentimental Journey") will be on parade to lead the service with music and singing.

On May 24 at 7 p.m. in the evening, Kettleby's Christ Church will host its Parish Coffee House, back again by popular demand! This evening will be filled with a variety of entertainment, as well as hot coffee and refreshments. Everyone is welcome to join us celebrate a wide variety of "home grown" talent. All funds raised will support the Suicide Prevention Program in Pikangikum. For additional information about any of these events, please call Carol Ann Trabert at 416-559-7898.

York Pines

The public is welcome to join with the congregational members in celebrating the 48th anniversary of the York Pines United Church on Sunday morning, May 25. The event starts with breakfast at 8:30 a.m. in the church basement hall. After a hymn sing and prayers the Rev. Rob Dalgleish will give the report of the recent online survey. Rev. Dalgleish is the executive director of EDGE: A Network for Ministry Development serving the national United Church. It is a delight to welcome Rev. Dalgleish. The report on the recent online survey entitled, "Identity, and Mission and Needs Assessment" will help to guide the congregation with future decisions. The report will be in the format of a facilitated workshop. Everyone will have a chance to have their "say."

One of the gifts of the United Church to this culture is "a holy conversation" that happens in a democratic context. After the workshop there will be before the noon hour a closing devotion. The attendance of the public is always a sign to a congregation that its outreach in the community is appreciated.

Service on May 11 will have a Mother's Day, family life theme. The U.C.W. will meet on Tuesday, May 13 at 1:30 p.m. The theme for worship on May 18 will be about governance. The next Messy Church is Friday, May 30 from 5:00 p.m. to 7 p.m. The plant sale, which has been postponed because of the poor growing weather, has been re-scheduled to May 31 from 9 a.m. to noon. You are welcome at all of these events. The York Pines Church is located at 3150 the Aurora/Lloydtown Road, Kettleby. The church telephone number is 905-727-8118.

St. Andrew's invites you to join us this Mothers' Day Sunday. The worship service is at 10:30 a.m. with Sunday School and Nursery Care running concurrently. Stay for "coffee and catch-up" following the service.

St. Andrew's By Kathy Patterson

Last Sunday, the Rev. Dr. John Vissers based his sermon "When Jesus Speaks" on John 20 :19-23. When Jesus speaks, there is peace, purpose and power! Are we listening? Do we know his voice?

Lynn Vissers asked the children during "The Time for Youth" to consider what is the church? Is it just a building? When one becomes a member, what does that mean? We were pleased to welcome Sophia Khani on completion of her confirmation classes into membership of our local church. May she know Jesus's peace, purpose and power as she journeys through life with Him as her guide.

Thank you to all who came out for the spring yard clean-up day May 3 and for the refreshments provided. Since yard work is ongoing, there'll be more opportunities to help out. Speak to Jim Agnew.

Vacation Bible School is planned for July 7-10 - "Son Harvest." Mark your calendars! We're revving up the tractors! More information next week!

The Ladies Prayer Time is at 9 a.m. each Tuesday, meeting in the narthex of the church. All ladies are welcome to this special time of fellowship and reflection as we join in prayer to our Heavenly Father.

Should you have prayer requests, praise items or any questions or concerns, please contact the church office at 905-833-2325 or call Kathy Patterson, clerk of session at 905-833-0391.

All Saints By Nicola Skinner

A huge thanks to everyone who came and shopped at our Rummage Sale and helped us to raise over $11,000. We had a marvellous team of pickers and sorters led by Diana Armitage. Thanks also to all in the community who donated good quality items for us to sell. Some of the money raised will go to our Anglican charity Faithworks, which supports many non-profits working with the poor and neglected both near and far. Faithworks supports half-way houses, hospices, homeless projects and youth drop-ins, to name but a few. It also supports Canada's impoverished northern communities.

On May 14-15 there will be a labyrinth available for you to walk in the church hall at All Saints. Ours is a copy of the famous labyrinth at Chartres Cathedral in France and is a way of finding inner peace through a walking meditation. Unlike a maze, a labyrinth has a single winding path that leads to a centre and then back out again. A leaflet will be available when you arrive to explain the process and you may take as long as you need to make your walk. Drop in between 6-9 p.m. on the Wednesday or 10-4 p.m. on the Thursday.

All Saints is an inclusive and welcoming Anglican church in the heart of King City. We strive to be a community of compassion and hope, following in the footsteps of Jesus. Service times are 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., with guided meditation at 9:15 a.m. We are located at 12935 Keele Street, King City. See www.allsaintskingcity.com. Please leave messages at 905-833-5432, and I will return your call.
