Nobleton holds huge Victoria Day celebration

By Mark Pavilons

Nobleton will welcome visitors from far and wide for one of the best Victoria Day celebrations around.

The annual Victoria Day festival runs Monday, May 18, starting at 11 a.m.

The day begins at 11 a.m. with the parade starting at Highway 27 and Sheardown. It makes its way through the village along King Road and towards the community centre grounds with floats, marching bands, classic cars and teams of horses. Local emergency personnel and dignitaries will be on hand. Classic cars always turn some heads. Participants include the Lions Club, local councillors, local marital arts clubs, Shriners, etc.

The fair will feature a midway, bouncy castles, and rides, as well as "tons of food" and many vendors. Food both hail from local businesses and service clubs, including the Lions and Knights of Columbus. Home made pizza right from the pizza oven at Primal Pizza. Find your favourite blend at the Coffee Barn. And don't forget to get your popcorn from Auntie Jo's Kettle Corn before the fireworks.

The vendors will be selling a plethora of goods including clothing, both local and imported, hats, sunglasses, jewelry and stoneware. Don't miss the seasonal plants offered by the horticultural society, as well as face-painting for the little ones.

Reptilia will be on hand with some exotic animals.

Admiring Green Tractors

Green Tractors Nobleton held an open house and BBQ Saturday, inviting customers to see their new lineup. The Nobleton Lions Club held a free BBQ, offering treats to visitors and raising some money for community projects.

Access for passengers with disabilities

By Mark Pavilons

MetroInx has acknowledged a Schomberg woman's concerns about accessible parking at the King City GO station. They've vowed to step up their game.

Sandra Kendall travels to work every day on the GO train. She lives with severe rheumatoid arthritis and she was routinely unable to park in the accessible parking spots at King City station.

The reserved spots were often blocked by drivers idling in place or dropping off other riders. Kendall decided to file a Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario claim against MetroInx in the spring of this year.

"This is not just a MetroInx problem, but I am glad they have now stepped up their game. Some mornings I saw over six cars blocking or parking in the accessible spots!" commented

Kendall. "All of the signs encouraging drivers to move along were there, but sometimes you just have to put some muscle behind true access for people with disabilities."

Kendall and MetroInx resolved the claim last week. MetroInx has made the following changes for improved accessible and barrier-free parking at the King City station:

- Increased the number of accessible spaces from 8 to 10.
- Grouped all accessible spaces together.
- Improved signage.
- Removed the curb along the accessible parking stalls to accommodate a continuous accessible curb, providing an easier path to the train platforms.
- Constructed an island platform at the entrance of the parking lot to improve overall traffic flow.

MetroInx continues to expand accessibility throughout the entire transportation system and will actively ensure accessible parking spots remain available to those who need them.

Kendall had faced the problem of drivers blocking the eight handicapped spots when dropping off riders on an almost daily basis for the past year or so. An incident March 19 was pretty much the last straw. A parking officer had to restrain someone from confronting Kendall.

Editorial, Letters & Opinion

"Public opinion shapes our destinies and guides the progress of human affairs"

~ Frank B. Kellogg

Career choices are constantly shrinking

The newest generation of movers and shakers – our children – have an ever-changing career landscape before them.

There many "villains" that have hindered the career selection process. And it seems to be changing all the time.

As it stands, the top jobs, according to various sources, include dentist, nurse, software developers, system analyst, physician, physical therapist, engineer, teacher, plumber, lawyer and accountant.

No mention of professional athletes, entertainers, magicians, farmers, construction workers, painters or journalists.

But, believe it or not, astronauts may be the career of choice in another 30 years or so, after we've littered this place enough to force us to look for other digs. Once we land on Mars, a whole new frontier will be opened up for would-be explorers.

The environment for all enterprises is rapidly changing. The change is fuelled by technology, particularly digital technology and increasing computer power.

Technology not only changes how business is conducted, but it empowers people to alter the landscape. There are no real limits to what technology can do, or how it will continue to impact our lives.

How many travel agents are left? I remember a time when you'd go sit in a travel office, flip through brochures and get face-to-face assistance planning your trip. That's no longer the case. Also gone are DVD rental chains and camera shops.

Mark Pavilons

The 20th century business landscape was dominated by businesses operating full-service models. We shopped at department stores, bought cars off the lot and paid a visit to our friendly bank tellers.

Full service models are being replaced by a new service framework, with either self or automated services.

More and more, we do our banking online, buy books online and watch TV through the Internet. Even at the teller, they ask if I've tried online banking. If everyone switched, wouldn't tellers become a thing of the past? I actually enjoy waltzing into a branch and meeting people. Call me old-fashioned.

Many of us expect these services to be either free or inexpensive. We've come to demand it, believing it's our right, not a privilege.

This trend will undoubtedly continue.

Once thought of as toys and gadgets, our e-devices are now considered mandatory business tools. The "cloud," along with Internet accessible devices, pads, phones and computers, have really changed the office environment.

If you think about it, a person could conduct business, even create something like a magazine, from the back seat of their car!

It's estimated that 30% of the world's population subscribe to broadband services. There would be more in King if it was widely available!

While it hasn't quite been perfected on a large scale, 3D printing has the potential of transforming everything from toys and jewellery to manufactured parts, even automobile construction. This technology, when ultimately perfected, will allow us to manufacture anywhere on the planet, 24 hours a day, without human workers.

Some of the most rapidly changing industries include health care, medicine and mobile technology. Once laser eye surgery is guaranteed and universally available, will we still need optometrists?

Of the top 20 growing industries, the majority are tied to construction. Residential builders, real estate agents, contractors and lumber wholesalers are among the top. Engineering firms and heavy construction companies are also see brisk business.

Those dying on the vine include the clothing industry, textiles and yes, newspaper publishing. But I'm not worried. There's been a proliferation of magazines over the past few years, and e-books have soared. As long as people read, they will need newspapers, in some form or another.

Those of us swimming in this ever-changing current are tossed from side to side. Our children are being advised by parents who have seen it all and are still scratching their heads trying to make sense of it. I still don't fully understand this "cloud" they speak of or how the Internet really works. I remember getting one of the first fax machines thinking this gizmo was going to change the world! Cell phones – does anyone else remember the Motorola "brick?" I can still picture those magazine ads, with a professional type guy standing in the middle of a construction site, with this massive phone up to his ear.

Some of us came before GPS, the Internet, iPhone, Vine, Instagram and Tumblr. Heck, I was born before automobile fuel injection!

My son is constantly asking me what professions or job types offer decent compensation. My eldest wants to work for the UN or Red Cross in some capacity. My youngest is confident she'll marry into money and can practice her pastimes of art and music without worrying about working for a living. That's my girl!

Our ideas of practical career choices won't be of much help to our offspring. That will only lengthen their stay with mom and dad. Time to divvy up the basement!

Pink Tree Foundation charity garage sale

Cancer can be a terrifying journey and no one should have to go at it alone.

A huge charity garage sale is taking place on Victoria Day, Monday, May 18 in Nobleton in support of the Pink Tree Foundation.

Pink Tree has been raising funds to help establish a Cancer Wellness & Retreat Centre in our area. The Centre will be a comfortable place where individuals, families and friends touched by cancer can come for inspiration and support; through peer-to-peer discussions and tranquil workshops that will uplift, empower and educate. It's a place where children can be children again and adults can explore and deepen their understanding and feelings about cancer; a place to heal & laugh again!

This is an invitation to every person to help bring positive change in the lives of those who need our help. Support Pink Tree Foundation in making the Cancer Wellness & Retreat Centre a reality now. The sooner we open the doors, the sooner we help re-energize and re-build lives. Pink Tree also raises funds to help advance Cancer Research.

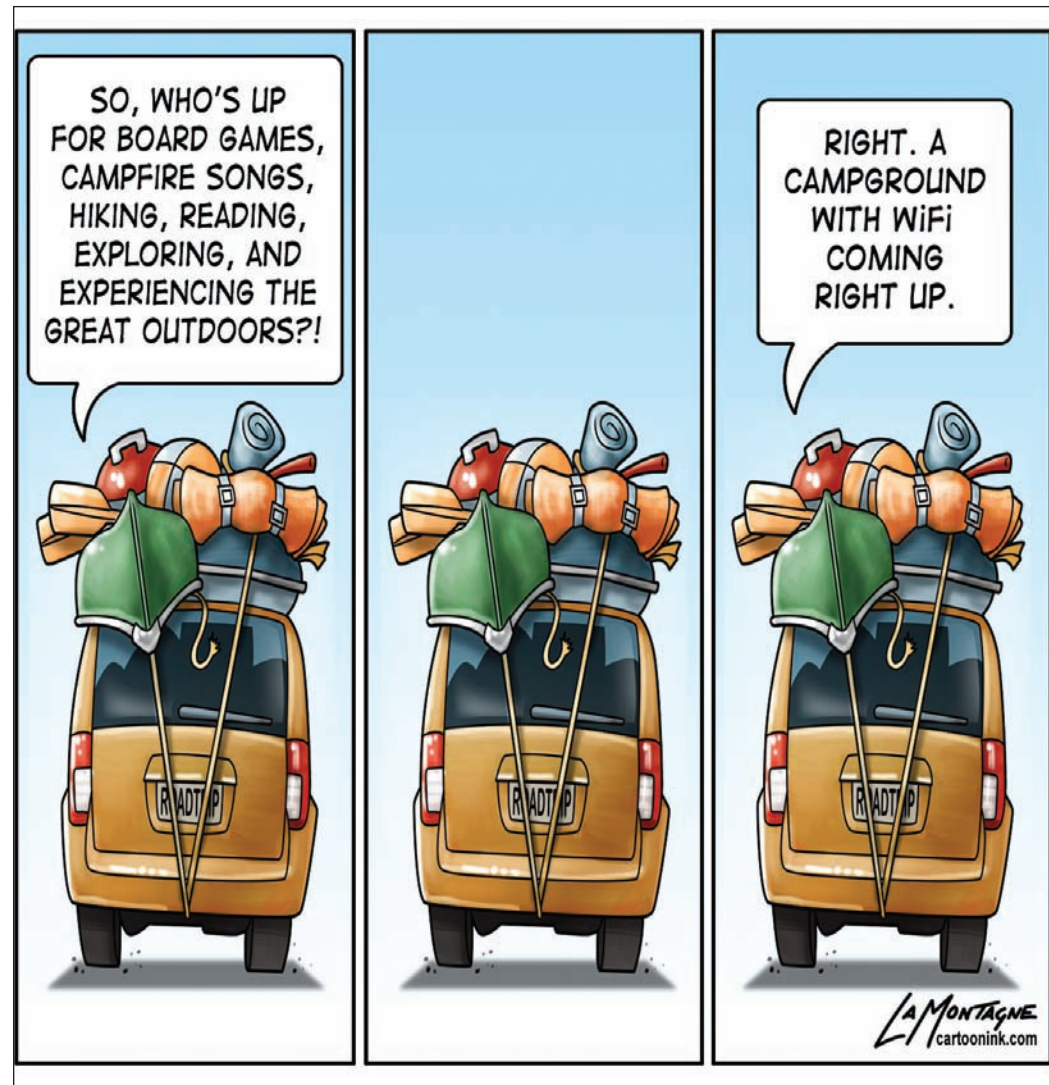

Come and check out the hundreds and hundreds of new and gently used items that have been donated to us and are available at great prices. New wall mirrors, wood flooring, jewellery and furniture, as well as antiques and slightly used items like golf clubs, decorative tables, crystal, tools, small appliances, electronics, toys and much more.

The sale will take place from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Coldwell Banker Ronan Realty parking lot, 5870 King Road, just east of Highway 27.

Face painting and temporary tattoos will be available for children.

For a sneak peek on just some of the items up for grabs check the Pink Tree Foundation Facebook page (www.Facebook.com/PinkTreeFoundation). You can also follow them on Twitter and Instagram.

For more information on this event or other upcoming events, if you would like to donate items or volunteer your time, visit ww.PinkTreeFoundation.ca or contact them at 416-731-4241.

Achieving good health through good food

By Aziza Amarshi, RPh, RHN
King City Guardian Pharmacy

“Let food be thy medicine.”

A quote by Hippocrates that seems much more relevant today than ever before.

With chronic illnesses on the rise, many people are beginning to wonder if our diet has an effect on our disease state and if there are things we can consume that would not only reduce our risks of getting disease but improve overall health.

Scientific literature is filled with research related to food but marketing by food industry has left many confused. Most of us often think of food only in terms of calories and if we consume too much of it we find ways of burning off those calories.

But food does much more than make us fat or skinny and we need to shift the focus from the caloric density of food to its nutrient density.

Food does much more than just provide us with calories. It gives us the very nutrients needed for a well functioning body so it makes sense that when the body is not functioning well, a good diet plays a role in bringing the body back to its original state of health.

Consuming whole foods which are least processed and are closest to their natural state is the best way of obtaining these health promoting nutrients in our diet. Here are 3 food groups that have been extensively studied and shown to improve health and play an important role in prevention of chronic illnesses. If you don't already have them as part of your regular diet then it's time to start adding them on.

Fruits

As we approach the warmer months of summer, you can look forward to a variety of local and imported fruits. That's one of the great blessings of the warmer weather. Health Canada recommends 6-8 servings of fruits and vegetables every day. Fruits have been shown to reduce oxidative damage to cells, improve blood pressure, and reduce risk of heart disease and even some cancers. Fruits are rich in vitamins, minerals, fiber and phytonutrients which all play a role in improving health. Eating a variety of fruits with different colours, flavours and aromas will ensure that we obtain a variety of nutrients from them specifically the phytonutrients which give the fruits their distinct colour, smell and taste.

Health Canada recommends we consume a rainbow of colours when it comes to fruits. If you have only been consuming the berries, apples and pears in the past then be adventurous and try some new fruits this summer such as guavas, pineapples, lychees or mangoes.

Vegetables

Although Health Canada lumps them together with fruits in their guidelines, I feel they deserve to be in a class of their own. They are just as potent if not more so than fruits when it comes to their vitamins, minerals and phytonutrients content.

Consuming a variety of different types of vegetables will ensure we get all the goodness that they provide. Generally speaking, the dark, leafy green vegetables are almost always at the top of the list of most nutrient dense vegetables. Examples include such things as kale, spinach, dandelions, collards and swiss chard. Try to consume a serving of these daily or every other day.

Non leafy vegetables such as cabbage, radishes, cucumbers, etc. also should also be consumed on a regular basis. What is great about vegetables is that they provide the most nutrients with the least amount of calories. As with fruits, vegetables come in a variety of colours and consuming the variety will ensure we get all the different nutrients that are provided by these nutritional powerhouses.

Legumes

A highly neglected food group that doesn't often get the respect it deserves. Beans have been extensively studied for their role in cholesterol reduction and diabetes management.

The high amount of soluble fiber found in beans allows them to be such potent anti-cholesterol as well as anti-diabetic food. If your digestive system is not used to such high amounts of fiber, it will not react pleasantly if you decide to suddenly add beans to your regular diet. Start slow and remain consistent with the bean intake, the body will adjust and then you will not have any problems digesting these wonderful seeds often known as “the poor man's meat.”

They are affordable, very satiating, full of fiber and proteins and very good for your health.

Since healthy eating is a journey and a lifestyle change, it takes time to achieve your goals. Aim for progress, not perfection and don't get discouraged. With every misstep there will be several steps in the right direction. Know that the science is behind these foods. You do your part by feeding the body wholesome nutritious food and the body will respond back with more energy, vitality and good health.

King has been invaded!

Yes, King has been invaded by intruders, particularly by the invasive species called Garlic Mustard (Alliaria Petiolata) and now is the best time to help limit the impact of this destructive plant.

The problem is that garlic mustard displaces most native wildflowers, including trilliums and dog-toothed violets etc. It severely restricts the use of natural soil fungi by the roots of native tree saplings. The result is that no young trees can grow under the mature canopy and the forest dies because it cannot sustain itself.

Dense stands of the plant produce more than 60,000 seeds per square metre and double in size every 4 years. People and animals easily spread garlic mustard seeds that can remain in the soil for up to 30 years and still be able to sprout. The plant can grow in a wide range of sunny and fully shaded habitats, including undisturbed forest, forest edges, riverbanks and roadsides. It also spreads to urban and rural gardens and hiking trails.

This is the ideal time to simply pull them up by the roots. By grasping the base of the stem and gently pulling with a gloved hand, the roots easily give way and the whole plant comes out. With a bit of coaching and a real desire to help, even a child can join in the game of counting all the plants you can pull out by the full root system. The entire plant should then be placed in a dark garbage bag to “cook” and eventually be destroyed. Do not simply put the plants into the compost pile because flowers may produce seeds and you will start yet another unwanted patch. This month is the easiest time to get rid of these invaders because they are just starting to produce small white flowers.

Please note that the township Stewardship staff is planning work parties to remove invasive species. Call Mary at 905-833-5321 ext 5226 for more info.

May 16, starting at 10 a.m. residents will gather to remove Yellow Irises from the Dufferin Marsh (Schomberg). Bring your shovel or garden fork. Rubber boots recommended. Meet at the lookout at the south end of the Marsh on Cooper Drive.

Starting at 3 p.m. volunteers will remove Garlic Mustard. Bring your work gloves, trowel or weeding fork. Meet at the park at the end of Roselena Drive (Schomberg).

Opposition to employment lands at 400 and King Road

By Angela Gismondi

A recommendation regarding potential employment lands at Highway 400 and King Road set off some alarm bells.

The recommendation was part of the report on the review of the four provincial plans, prepared by the Township's planning staff and presented at the committee of the whole meeting Monday. It includes a number of comments and concerns pertaining to the 2015 provincial review of the Oak Ridges Moraine (ORM) Conservation Plan, the Greenbelt Plan and the Growth Plan.

One recommendation in particular was the focus of the discussion at the meeting - to amend the Greenbelt Plan to allow for the development of strategic employment lands adjacent to 400 series highways "if there is sufficient demonstration and justification provided to the satisfaction of the Minister and on the recommendation of the local and regional municipality."

Nobleton resident Nancy Hopkinson said it would be a mistake to remove the lands at Highway 400 and King Road from the Greenbelt for strategic employment. She noted the odd the contour of the southern boundary of the Oak Ridges Moraine Plan at Highway 400 and the King Road and that the Oak Ridges Moraine Conservation Plan says that the boundary of the Oak Ridges Moraine was "based on a number of topographical, geomorphological and geological attributes, including the 245 metre (above sea level) contour along the southern boundary of the Moraine from the Town of Richmond Hill to the eastern boundary of the Municipality of Clarington."

According to Hopkinson, the contour levels around King Road and Highway 400 are much higher than 245 metres and range from 295 to 300 metres.

"My theory is, I don't know if it's true, was there political pressure to make the land at Highway 400 and the King Road available for development?" asked Hopkinson. "Was there political influence to exempt this section from the Oak Ridges Moraine? This area - Highway 400 and the King Road - should have been labeled Oak Ridges Moraine. It is now in the Greenbelt."

She said removing the land from the Greenbelt could lead to environmental degradation of the ORM and the Greenbelt caused by road salt, impermeable surfaces and run-off. She also suggested sanitary sewers and water pipes would need to be installed which could lead to more urban sprawl. Furthermore, opening up the area to strategic employment would make it difficult to develop King City's prestige employment area, Schomberg's industrial area and Nobleton's business park.

"Each little piece removed from the Greenbelt makes it that much easier to remove the next piece," said Hopkinson. "There is enough land designated to be employment lands both in King Township and in York Region, more lands are not needed. Keep King green. Do not remove any land from the Greenbelt. 'Pave paradise, put up a parking lot' is not King's theme."

Bruce Craig shared concerns on behalf of Concerned Citizens of King Township. He commended staff on the thorough report and said the group is "encouraged by and supportive of" many of the comments and recommendations. He pointed out that over 99 per cent of King is identified as protected countryside in the existing Greenbelt Plan and the Oak Ridges Moraine Conservation Plan applies to 65 per cent of the Township and that's why it's important that King sets an example.

"We don't support any removal of the Greenbelt lands," said Craig adding growing the Greenbelt and providing more protection would be ideal. "Every interchange of the 400 series Highway shouldn't be developed. We have very adequate lands available in settlement areas for employment lands ... The need for this is not clearly there."

Lieutenant Colonel (ret'd) Susan Beharriell was unavailable to attend the meeting but asked Craig to read her comments.

"I realize that in the past, council voted to join a number of municipalities in requesting that lands by intersections along Highway 400, particularly the King Road and 400 area, be removed from the Greenbelt so that they may be developed in the future," stated Beharriell. "However, since the writing of the plan and that vote, a number of new facts have come to light. First of all King's growth numbers have been lowered by the Region from original forecasts. Secondly, the Region has reassessed King's employment needs for the foreseeable future and concluded that King has already zoned more than sufficient land for its employment needs ... There clearly is no need for more employment areas and no need for more housing. This information was not available when the original recommendations were made. Is it still valid to make this request, given the new analysis?"

Stephen Kitchen, director of planning for the Township of King, responded to the comments. Excluding Highway 400 and King Road from the Oak Ridges Moraine legislation was not a political decision on the part of the Township, he said.

"I can certainly attest that in no manner was it political," stated Kitchen. "The recommendation that staff is making to you today is not a recommendation that these lands be removed from the Greenbelt Plan. What we're saying to you is effectively we could be in the situation where we need more employment lands. If there is justification for additional strategic employment lands, we're asking that the province modify the Greenbelt Plan to allow that process to take place if municipalities are able to demonstrate a need before the next to

Food Bank centres in King open this Saturday

In accordance with the schedule, the three King Township Food Bank Distribution Centres are open this Saturday, May 16 (the third Saturday of the month) from 9-11 a.m. Registration is required in order to ensure food is shipped to the correct location for families needing a bit of help to make ends meet.

Proof of residency is the only requirement, but we do need newcomers to call ahead.

King Township Food Bank is in its 11th year of operation, serving the community with a week of non perishable foods every month of the year. This year, operations have been expanded to include produce as an addition to the regular allocation of food. Every month two fruit and two vegetable options are available to attendees who make take one or all of the four items offered.

Starting just over a year ago, registrants can choose to receive either grocery cards or boxes of food. The Food Bank believes this allows shoppers to better choose the foods they and their families wish to eat, as well as the opportunity of shopping weekly sales throughout the month.

The cards represent the cost to the Food Bank of the pre-boxed groceries. Food Bank shoppers achieved significant savings simply by the careful shopping that any budget-minder consumer can do.

Contact them through www.kingtownshipfoodbank.ca or 905-806-1125 for questions and to register.

Community Garden Fair in Aurora returns for second year

By Brock Weir

Mother Nature looked kindly upon the Aurora Garden and Horticultural Society as they tried something new – a full-blown Garden Fair at Town Park. Now, the society is hoping for a repeat of their inaugural success when the second-annual event returns this month.

On Sunday, May 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Society, along with nearly 30 vendors and feature gardens designed by King's Pathways to Perennials, transforms the downtown hub into a gardener's paradise.

Repeating last year's overarching theme of "From the Ground Up," the 2015 Community Garden Fair aims to truly provide something for everyone, whatever shade of green your thumb happens to be.

"Gardening is big and it is growing," said Judy Ryan of the Aurora Garden and Horticultural Society. "Even young people are showing a greater interest in it, but this Fair is not just gardening; we have got landscapers, we have irrigation systems, arbours, and fencing. It is everything for the outdoors, because Canadians live for the outdoors, eh?"

"Everybody is very much in tune with getting back to nature. There is a big backlash against all the chemicals we are introducing into our food and all the chemicals we are introducing into our landscapes, and people just want a more natural way of living. That means gardening and attracting all the birds, bees and insects. Increasingly, people are not objecting to nature, the animals, the birds and things that live in nature intruding into our yards. They are looking out and saying, 'this is something we can all enjoy.'"

In addition to their full slate of local vendors from Aurora, King and Oak Ridges, the fledgling Community Garden Fair will include the Society's popular annual plant sale, which has been a mainstay – and a particular money-maker – of the group for decades.

Organizers got their hands dirty digging out and preparing some of the items they plan to sell later this month after starting the plants in ground lent to them by Pathways in Pottageville. Each plant is being lovingly cared for by members so they are in pristine condition for purchase and planting on May 24, said Ryan.

Judy Ryan, Hilka Parker, Madge Ford and Linda Blachford lent their talents to the gardens at Pathways To Perennial in King recently.

"Going 'From the Ground Up' really says what we're doing," she said. "Not everyone wants to plant. Lots of people would love to have a patio and put out a few pots and that's about it. Or maybe they just want to have grass – and there is nothing wrong with grass. It is better than paving over your lawn!"

"Through the show, we're hoping people recognize the fact we have a garden club in Town they can connect with to help with their gardens. People are sometimes afraid to go to a garden club because they think they're stupid and they're not going to ask the right questions. We're not that. Part of our mandate is to educate and if you have a question and we can answer it, then we have done our job.

"There is a wealth of resources here in our town, so you can shop locally. The range of exhibitors and vendors is broad and you don't need to go to Toronto, or Woodbridge, or Thornhill. You can find what you need right here in our Town."

They invite everyone to a Euchre Night in the Curling Lounge at the Tri-san Centre on Friday, May 22 starting at 7 p.m.

The cost will be $10 if tickets are bought in advance and $12 per person if you pay at the door. You can phone 905-939-4024 or you can get them online at their website www.schomberglions.com.

There will be a cash prize, refreshments and a cash bar. All proceeds from this and other Schomberg Lions events go towards their Schomberg Lions fundraising projects which support our community.

Society speaker

The Schomberg Horticultural Society is pleased to offer the third in a series of presentations from a renowned local garden enthusiast. Angie Menen, from Pathways to Perennials, will provide timely suggestions in her talk entitled "Perennial Plant Combos for Continual Seasonal Success." Please join us on Tuesday, May 26 at 7:30 in the Schomberg Community Hall on Main Street. You will have a chance to speak with Angie afterwards while enjoying some light refreshments. Angie will also bring some plants for purchase from the garden centre located on Lloydtown-Aurora Road. New members are enthusiastically welcomed.

Meetings are held on the fourth Tuesday of the month from March to June and September to October. Individual membership is $15 per year and families for $20.

Leukemia garage sale

The 3rd annual garage sale in front of the Beer Store in Schomberg takes place May 23 starting at 9 a.m. All items are on a donation basis with all money being donated to the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society of Canada.

Items for sale include lamps, vases, glasses, books, collectibles, punch sets ... too many things to list. This is a large sale with many interesting items that have been donated by the community.

York Pines United Church

There are many ways you can assist the recovery and reconstruction efforts in Nepal. One way is to make a donation at your local United Church. Monies donated will be matched dollar for dollar with funds from the federal government if they are received at the national church office by May 25. Your financial support will provide humanitarian relief and rehabilitation and will be administered by the "Alliance of Churches Together" which works with government institutions, UN agencies and non-governmental agencies in Nepal.

Eighty-five per cent of your donation will go directly to "Nepal Earthquake Relief." Fifteen per cent is used to support emergencies that do not receive intense media coverage and response. No administration fees are deducted from your donation since regular donations to the denomination's Mission and Service Fund provides staffing for emergency response work. Please make your cheque payable to the "United Church of Canada" and on the memo line write, "Nepal Earthquake Relief," and mail or bring it to the York Pines United Church by May 17. Prayers for the tens of thousands whose lives have been suddenly and violently shattered, their loved ones, homes and livelihoods lost, are on-going.

On Saturday, May 23 from 9 a.m. to noon the annual U.C.W. Plant Sale is being held. Seeds have been planted; cuttings have rooted, and growth is happening so that you can purchase pots of vegetables and plants. An added feature this year will be a used book sale. As always free gardening advice and warm smiles are available.

On Sunday, May 31 the church service will witness to the work of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission that is completing its mandate at this time. The stories of residential school survivors have been told and recorded. The arrogance of the main line denominations is melting away. The theme for that day is "On the Path to Reconciliation." The service starts at 10:30 a.m.

Volunteers are the heart and soul of King Township

By Mark Pavilons

King's steadfast volunteers are very heart of this municipality.

That was the message that permeated the Trisan Centre last week, as King paid tribute to many of its dedicated, long-serving volunteers – our best natural resources.

"I am honoured and privileged to have this opportunity to offer recognition to so many volunteers in King," said Mayor Steve Pellegrini. "Volunteerism is essential to King. Not only do your efforts create a foundation that defines the character of King, but they immeasurably enhance the quality of our community.

"So whether you coach, serve on a Township board, help run one of our many events, participate in a clean-up, help at the food bank or any number of other volunteer activities within our township, I want to express my sincere thanks."

The awards, he said, are initiated by the residents of King, who nominate the recipients.

Ward 1 Councillor Cleve Mortelliti said the community is indebted to all those who volunteer. He mentioned the King City Lions Club, an organization that contributed to his youth growing up in King. The "purity that comes with the volunteer spirit" is remarkable and this spirit finds its way into King's guiding documents, such as the Sustainability Plan.

Ward 2 Councillor David Boyd noted that volunteering has been proven to be good for your physical health. It provides great job-related skills and he lauded the "gifts given by our volunteers. Everyone's life is touched by volunteers" in some way.

Councillor Linda Pabst stressed our volunteers are the "very heart and soul of the Township of King.

"You make this community what it is today."

She also made special mention of the men and women of King's Fire and Emergency Services, who serve and protect residents.

King is "volunteer-rich," according to Councillor Bill Cober, who mentioned that families of volunteers are always beside them and behind them.

Councillor Debbie Schaefer said she finds it hard to believe volunteers have such time and energy to commit to their special causes. Many volunteers are seniors and they volunteer "because they have heart."

Community events and resident involvement continue to grow in King, and so does our quality of life. Volunteers, she said, are the lifeblood of this community.

King Clerk Kathryn Smyth read a long list of community groups and organizations that serve King, a list that always grows. "That's remarkable," she observed.

Mayor Pellegrini paid tribute to Henry Verbruggen, who passed away recently.

Verbruggen was an active member of the Schomberg Agricultural Society for many years, as a director and committee chairperson. He was a member of the local chamber of commerce; a founding member of the Schomberg Curling Club, Schomberg Village Association, and the Farmers' Market, which he never stopped trying to improve. His involvement in the Township's Farmers' Market, Fair, and Main Street Christmas are all "great examples of his generous contribution of time and effort."

He was "one of the most amazing, hard-working volunteers in Schomberg ... with a heart of gold."

Special Presentation

The mayor made a special presentation to the Schomberg Red Wing Juveniles hockey team, recognizing them for their successful season as OMHA CC champs. He also praised the hard work and dedication by all those involved.

Citizen of the Year

The highlight of the event was the presentation of Citizen of the Year, to Paul Olsen.

Olsen has a strong supporter and member of the Nobleton Lions Club, and has embraced the annual Purina Walk for Dog Guides fundraiser, which will be held May 31 in Nobleton.

He's been involved in the Nobleton United Church and secured a grant to help the church's accessibility. He has volunteers for several Township committees and has been a local businessman for many years, founding Brookdale Treeland Nursery, an annual sponsor of the Schomberg Fair.

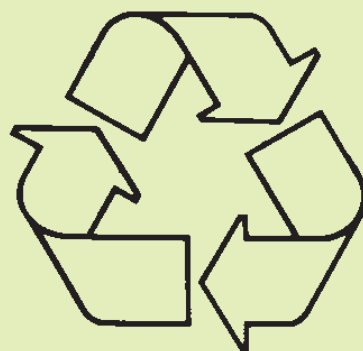

Paul's "incredible fundraising efforts have provided many opportunities for various King Township focused organizations."

Lifetime Achievement

The Lifetime Achievement Award is an award to recognize outstanding citizenship within the community, with many years of dedicated service and devotion to the residents of King.

Presented in Recognition of his special dedication, generosity and time to his community as an active member of the Schomberg Minor Hockey Association, as coach for the past 45 years, Larry Gould was honoured.

Many have given decades of service

He developed the Schomberg Minor Hockey constitution and rules of operation, serving as president, ice scheduler, and tournament director, as well as convening at the Simcoe and OMHA levels. As a coach in the local league, he established himself as a role model for your young players.

"Your gentle sense of humor and mutual respect for the players personifies what minor hockey should be," Mayor Pellegrini said.

Long-standing member of the King Township Public Library Board Michael Schwartzkopf was another recipient. He has served on the library board for 25 years and was once president of the King Chamber of Commerce.

"Your dedication to improving the quality of life in King Township by serving on various library committees is greatly admired," the mayor said.

Reliable, faithful, and cheerful head of maintenance at the Nobleton United Church for over the past 50 years, Charles Snider was presented with his award.

A familiar face in the community, Gary Vogan has a long list of achievements.

He's been a volunteer for the Kettleby Fair and King Township Food Bank; served on various Township committees; is founder and treasurer of the Kettleby Village Association; founder of Canada Day in Kettleby Park, and initiated Christmas in Kettleby. Vogan also served on the King Chamber of Commerce. For over a decade, he has played a significant role in organizing and presenting Kettleby Fair until its demise in 2014. In addition to successfully creating a Heritage Designation, his dedication and contribution has helped shape the future of the Kettleby community.

Carol Ann Trabert, director of the King Township Food Bank, presented Vogan with a bouquet of flowers and praised his efforts.

Special Recognition

Long-serving Special Recognition Award is an award given to citizens who've made a special contribution to the community.

Fran Bones was honoured for supporting the Nobleton United Church as board member and co-chair, and through your dedication in volunteering with the Nobleton Fire Department, Nobleton Ambulance Service as well as coaching the girls softball team in the Nobleton Baseball Association.

The founder of the Nobleton Christmas Drive, Mary (Mimi) Buchanan, was also honoured. She has supported families in need with dinners and clothing and spent countless hours getting local businesses, schools and churches behind a great cause.

"Your dedication and contribution demonstrates the importance of 'giving back,'" Pellegrini said.

Sue Iaboni has long been a promoter of the arts in King Township, as founder of Write Now @ King, president of Arts Society King (ASK), co-editor of Mosaic Magazine, board member of the York Region Arts Council and the King Township Museum Board. She's also a member of the SHIFT Committee.

A 30-year volunteer with the Ansnorveldt Baseball Association, was praised. Thomas Miedema has been offering a helping hand with the Bradford Friday Night Dinners for those in need, as well as dedicating time each winter snow plowing the Holland Marsh District Christian School and The Holland Marsh Church.

Dianne Wear was honoured for her previous involvement as a member with the Township of King Seniors Advisory Committee, tireless efforts at the King City Seniors' Centre and for countless hours spent decorating the centre for special events.

Senior Citizen Award of Merit

The Senior Citizen Award of Merit is an award given to recognize and honor special contributions to the senior population of King.

Brunhild Baumhard was honoured for her years of dedication as a volunteer with the King City Seniors Centre and for her fundraising efforts with Laskay Hall, MacKenzie Health, Southlake Hospital, King City United Church, and Sacred Heart Church, as well as her involvement in the York Region 55+ Games.

An active member and membership registrar of the King City Seniors Centre, Dorothy Cheesman, received her award. She has supported the Cancer Society through the King City United Church, in the Marathon Walk for the Cancer Society, as well as providing transportation for the elderly.

Youth Award

The Youth Award of Merit is an award given to a younger citizen of the Township to recognize special contributions.

For his participation with the Township of King's Summer Camp Volunteer Program, Marcus Avolio was honoured. He was praised for his dedication, enthusiasm, and leadership displayed during his volunteer work, which created unforgettable experiences for young campers.

Vincent Galloro received his award for his commitment assisting emergent readers and children through the King Township Public Library Reading Buddies Program.

Closing remarks were given by Rev. Richard Bodini, Holland Marsh Christian Reformed Church. He pointed out that volunteering is "caring for the people around you" and "investing in their lives."

KING WEEKLY SENTINEL

Spring varsity baseball season is in full swing

By JAKE COURTEPATTE

With spring in bloom, King's varsity athletes have moved from the rink to the diamond to kick off the 2015 baseball season.

The highly-competitive senior baseball CISAA league has resumed play with high attendance and an elite level of play. The Country Day School Cyclones, King's only representatives in the league, have so far fallen to an 0-2 record.

On Monday, they travelled to their shared home diamond on St. Andrew's College's campus, in tough against the Saints, who have dominated the league divisionally for years.

Nine hits brought in 10 runs for the Saints in only the first inning, digging a hole for the Cyclones that was nearly impossible to climb out of.

They resume play this week against St. Michael's College, the other undefeated team in the West division.

On the girls side, it's been a competitive season for the Cyclones as they prepare for back-to-back matchups with Bayview Glen this weekend.

The Villanova Knights (above) remain the only undefeated team in CISAA softball action this season. The Country Day School Cyclones (top) have played to an 0-2 record so far in the CISAA spring season.

Photos by Jake Courtepatte

They have so far played to a 1-1 record, including a heartbreaking 11-10 loss to Holy Trinity School last week.

Villanova Softball

In softball action, Villanova College has achieved significantly more success so far this spring season. Through four games, they remain the only undefeated team in the seven-team CISAA division. Lakefield College School also held that title until Saturday, when the Knights defeated them in a 10-7 match-up.

Two more regular season games are in the schedule this week for the Knights, facing off against lower-tier teams while looking to remain perfect. A CISAA championship weekend will follow the season.

Cornhuskers start season with losses

By Jake Courtepatte

So far 2015 hasn't been too good for the Nobleton Cornhuskers, who are looking to rebound from an 0-2 start in the North Dufferin Baseball League.

They kicked off their season Sunday with a double-header against the two teams from Creemore, getting off on the wrong foot against the Braves in the morning.

A bevy of singles drove in three runs for the Braves in the bottom of the second inning, while strong defensive play held the Cornhuskers to only a pair of hits through two.

Huskers veteran Steve Scobie tried to put the team on his back with a solo home run in the top of the third, but that was all the offence they were able to muster. The short bench was good for five hits in an eventual 3-1 loss.

Despite earning the loss, starting pitcher Scott Traverse was solid in his first outing of the season, going six strong innings giving up six hits while fanning four. Unfortunately, he was outshone by Braves pitcher Liam Jacques, who struck out an incredible 11 batters over a complete game.

The Nobleton bats came alive later that afternoon, but it just wasn't enough as the Creemore Barons defeated the Cornhuskers for their first win in their second Senior division game as a new franchise for 2015.

A single from Scobie and a double by Eric McLoughin led the Cornhuskers to a 5-0 lead through two innings, before a late collapse ended their day on the losing end.

Up 6-3 in the bottom of the sixth inning, Lance McCormick lasted only two-thirds of an inning before being yanked after allowing six run over six hits, including a two-run home run from Jamie Gillespie.

The Huskers tried to rally with a run plated by Cam Ramsey in the seventh, but came up just short in a 9-7 loss.

For the second game, in a row, the Huskers were subjected to some strong pitching. Kurt Roy of the Barons went six innings while striking out eight.

Scobie, who started the game on the mound for the Huskers, went 3.1 innings giving up three runs over two hits. His downfall was in his walk count, where he allowed seven bases on balls.

A postponed game last week has set the Huskers' home opener for this Thursday, taking on the perennial powerhouse Aurora Jays. Action starts at 8:30 p.m. at Nobleton Sports Park.

For stats, schedules, and more information, visit www.ndbl.ca.

Colour Run fundraiser at Nobleton Public School

On Saturday, May 23 Nobleton Public School is holding a Colour Fun Run & Spring Fling fundraiser in hopes to raise enough money to purchase classroom laptops and technology. The students have enthusiastically embraced the Colour Run which will start at 11 a.m.

A Colour Run is an untimed fun run where participants will complete laps around the school yard and at every lap they are sprinkled with a different colour of non-toxic powder. There will be five laps in all. The school would like the community to come and join the fun.

Athletes 4 to 14 years old and their families are invited to receive their registrations by emailing register@nobletonfunrun.com.

The school council fundraising committee will also be selling registrations at the Victoria Day Fair.

Nearby equestrian park gearing up for season

Craig Collins, managing partner with Equestrian Management Group, which runs the Caledon Pan Am Equestrian Park in Palgrave, took people on a tour of the facility recently. The main ring seen in the background will have seating for 4,000 by the time the Games start. "The ticket sales for this event have been unbelievable," he added. "I don't think there are many left." There are 26 horses being decorated at the Equestrian Park in anticipation of the coming Games. Wendy McLeod of Caledon East called this design Banburys Cross. It contains pixels broken down with words in them.

Spring is back, and so are the events that are going to make up a busy year at the Caledon Pan Am Equestrian Park in Palgrave. Ice Cream Social fundraiser at Winsong Farm

By Mark Pavilons

King's Winsong Farm is helping to increase awareness and honour one of its own.

The horse facility will be holding an Ice Cream Social May 24, 1-3 p.m. The event highlights breast cancer awareness and their own Dominique Maida, "who is an inspiration to all of us," according to Winsong's Winnie Stott.

Dominique and Donny Maida had their first child, daughter Victoria, in September 2014. In December Dominique was diagnosed with stage three breast cancer.

She had chemo during the winter and surgery will happen in June followed by radiation treatments.

Right now she's between trips for treatment. So the crew at Winsong are celebrating. The ice cream social will take place in the arena, so no matter what the weather, it's a go.

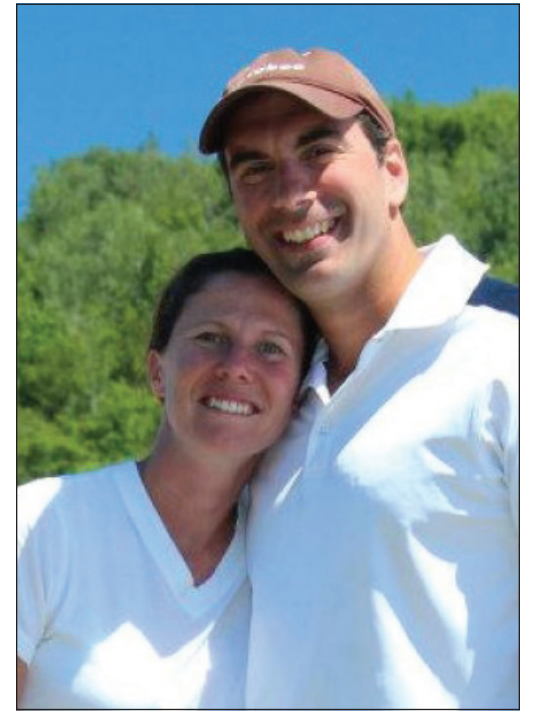

There's no charge, visitors are encouraged to come ready to buy and support unique auction items. One headliner is: "Decrepit Men Doing Dressage." Several "infamous men" at Winsong Farm have regaled us with an astounding Grand Prix dressage show to Vivaldi's "Spring."

Riding pitch forks, they've done nearly impossible classical dressage movements. However, these guys won't be cheap! One of these "riders" says: "You fork over 10,000 and we'll talk about performing."

Throughout the ice cream social, visitors will be entertained by the very talented Winsong horses. You just might see three horses sitting on bean bags, Winnie and Dominique on Zelador and Zeloso in pink with the garrocha poles (12 feet long) riding to "Girls Just Want to Have Fun." Maybe a very special pas de deux with baby Victoria and Pax (Ron Marino's big, black Canadian). Horses may be bowling against people and watch for a bubble blowing contest, bobbing for apples (both horses and people), horses painting masterpieces. And, Stott said, there will be a kissing booth with Maria the pony!

"Pretty much you name it and we'll try it," Stott said.

Stott would like visitors to RSVP so they can make sure they have enough ice cream. You can pre-register by email, winsong.farm@outcom.com or phone 905-859-6282.

The social at Winsong will help cancer awareness and recognize Dominique and Donny Maida. You may just see some horses paint a picture at the event.

KNSC coach completes 10k run

The Kleinburg Nobleton Soccer Club is proud of one of its own.

Coach Nick Prestinaci took part in the Sporting Life 10K 2015, raising money and awareness for concussion.

On many fronts, Prestinaci shares his experiences with the very young soccer players so he may help to inspire them going forward. Running with his son was a dream of his and he hopes many of us will attempt something like that in our lives. He is very proud of his son being only 12 years old and completing a run like that.

KNSC's benefit has been fantastic on many different levels!

Coach Prestinaci saw his team parents bring their children to the KNSC Concussion baseline testing clinic. In the last two weeks, there has been so much positive discussion and the need to get these baseline tests done.

With Coach Prestinaci's inspiration, along with his and KNSC family efforts, he raised $320, which will be given to KNSC to continue to help subsidize its growing concussion baseline test program.

Coach Prestinaci would like to thank his wife Rita, son Matthew and nephew Julian for all their support and participation and for all parents who contributed and encouraged the event.

Unveiling of storyboard at the park in Kettleby

Three historic storyboards have been installed at the park in Kettleby Village. One gives the history of the village itself, one tells the story of the mills and one tells the history of the Webb family who were early settlers in the area. The boards have been made possible by a generous donation from John Wilson as a memorial to his family, the Webbs. The official unveiling of the storyboards will be on May 30 at 1 p.m. at the park, followed by a tea at Christ Church Kettleby church hall. An RSVP is important as organizers need to know numbers for the reception. Please RSVP to Elaine Robertson 905-841-4041 or erobertson@rogers.com.

Nobleton United
By Nancy Hopkinson

Sunday, May 17 at 11:15 am, Ascension Sunday, the time when we realize that Christ has risen and if people are to know Christ, as the hymn in More Voices says "Christ has no body now but yours." We must help others see Christ's love by our actions.

The Dunk Tank challenge takes place on Victoria Day, May 18 at 12:15 p.m. outside the Nobleton Arena. Mayor Steve Pellegrini is first up. Next is Councillor Dave Boyd at 12:30 p.m., then Councillor Avia Eek at 12:45 p.m. We have people booked until 3:45 p.m. at 15-minute intervals. We even have King City Secondary School's principal signed up. Check out the list of people and the times at nobletonunitedchurch.com. This is a fundraiser and 100% of the profits will be used for Outreach Ministry which supports Youth programs (Messy Church), seniors' programs and other community based events. The cost is $5 for 3 balls, or $2 for 1 ball. If you are willing to be dunked, go to the website and sign up.

On Thursday May 28, there will be our fabulous Roast Beef Dinner, followed by a choice of homemade pies. For tickets, contact Helen Bible at 905-859-3924. Tickets go fast, so don't be disappointed. Call Helen today. Come and admire our lovely Lower Hall and new kitchen.

On Sunday May 31, we will have a musical service, featuring a trio of lively singers and a guitarist, called "Day by Day." This is a joint service with our sister church Schomberg United.

Horticulture By John Arnott

They seem to me like little drops of sunshine each time I come around the corner of the house and see the primula veris in my garden. These members of large primula family which contains 500 species, are a joy to see each spring and this year they have put on quite a show.

Of easy care these plants are available in most year round garden centres now and they can be planted in the garden in early while still in bloom with little danger of damage to the flowers as long as temperatures remain a few degrees above freezing — even a light frost really won't do much harm. However if unseasonable cold damages the bloom the plant itself will survive.

Primula veris, Latin for first flowers of spring, produce small hanging clusters of fragrant lemon yellow (sometimes paler shades) tiny bell-like flowers atop sturdy 4 to 6 in./10 to 15 cm stems which grow up from a whorl of bright green crinkled oval shaped leaves. I have three of red flowering ones. As well I have managed to winter three years now a couple of lovely mauve primula denticulata — Latin for tooth like because their serrated leaves reminded the naming botanist of tiny teeth, and two lighter purple 7 in./18 cm tall primula japonica (native to Japan).

These tough little harbingers of spring prefer a cool dampish place in the garden that has partial shade on hot summer days especially in the afternoon

Established plants can be divided and transplanted as soon as they finish blooming. All primulas should be planted so that their crowns (the place where the leaves emerge from the ground) are at ground level For best show set plants in groups of three, five or seven about 6 in./15 cm apart.

Native to the temperate parts of Asia and Europe primula veris are found growing wild in meadows and pastures In Britain they are often called cowslips or cowslip primroses as they can be found growing happily beside manure deposited by cattle —You won't need a cow to keep them happy but they'll surely appreciate a trowel or two composted cattle manure dug in around them!

From the last days of winter up till now the flower section of many supermarkets have for sale pots of primulas/primroses called polyanthus with beautiful clusters of large purple, wine, yellow, apricot orange, cream or white flowers often with contrasting centres nestled in green leaves. These are primula hybrids, many not grown in Canada. I have bought them in the past but even though they are sold as perennials I have never been able to winter them in our area. I find they're best treated as houseplants or grown as annuals in the outdoor garden.

Council mixed on issue review in 10 years. King Township may never be in the situation where it needs to ask. This is a way to protect you in the event that you need this."

Councillor Debbie Schaefer is opposed to any development in that area.

"I certainly am not supportive of proceeding with this as I understood it," said Schaefer. "There is a lack of understanding as to what would drive us to take such a step which I view as being very high risk, changing King Township and what we view as our vision for being a rural municipality."

Schaefer said she needs more information and if it's financial need that is driving this, she asked that financial forecasts for the next 10 years be provided.

"We always say that King is not evolving in the same way as our neighbours and now we're going to have an interchange that looks like all the areas to the south of us," said Schaefer. "That makes me nervous."

"Given that the Greenbelt is likely to be reviewed in 10 years, I understand we can't necessarily handcuff ourselves," said Boyd. "We have an opportunity here to lead by example and not follow the norm. We don't want to be what is south of us, we're the start of something great. Could King set an example for the municipalities to the north of us when we one day consider what can be on those lands. I feel the lands at the 400 are one of our most valuable assets and deserve our utmost consideration for an economically and environmentally sustainable community."

Mayor Steve Pellegrini agreed with the recommendation to allow development on the lands should an appropriate opportunity arise.

"We want to have policies that if something happens, we have options because right now there are no options," said Pellegrini. "We don't want to be handcuffed."

Councillor Bill Cober was also pleased with the report.

"I think this report is visionary and pragmatic," said Cober.

The report, including comments and concerns from council and the public, will be sent to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing.

King man leads hemochromatosis awareness, holds golf tourney

Hereditary hemochromatosis, is tough to say. It's iron overload. It's an iron metabolism disorder common in people of northern European descent particularly whose forefathers came from the Britain, Ireland or Northern France.

The disorder causes the body to absorb two to four times the normal amount of iron. Left untreated, the excess iron builds up in vital organs, tissues and joints, where it can cause a number of debilitating and potentially fatal complications and diseases.

An estimated 125,000 Canadians have two copies of the mutated gene that puts them at risk for hereditary hemochromatosis. Over 3.5 million Canadians carry one copy of the mutated gene; these individuals are called "carriers." This number is significant because when two carriers have children, the offspring are at risk of having both genes, and thus at risk for iron overload.

Once diagnosed treatment is generally straight forward. Blood is taken to remove iron from the body. Stored iron is used to make new red blood cells. Blood which is removed can often be given to Canadian Blood Services to save lives. On reaching normal iron levels, one simply goes to have regular checks for ferritin, a measure of iron in the body, and phlebotomies when needed.

Ian Hilley, a volunteer, King resident, former resident of Caledon and Ontario Director for the Canadian Hemochromatosis Society, is excited about a Canadian-developed app for smart phones to help those with hemochromatosis monitor their disorder.

"There are so many people suffering from this disorder who aren't diagnosed," he said.

Two Canadian university professors and their students have created the mobile application that will help people with hemochromatosis track their ferritin levels as they continue through their lifelong treatment. Dr. Gary Grewal, of the University of Guelph, along with Dr. Andrew Hamilton-Wright, of Mount Allison University, in partnership with the Canadian Hemochromatosis Society, led the development of the Iron Tracker app to fill a need for people to monitor their de-ironing progress and iron levels during their maintenance phase. Grewal, whose mother is Scottish and father from northern India, was diagnosed with hereditary hemochromatosis in 2010 after feeling extremely ill for about a year. His symptoms included chronic fatigue and abdominal pain and swelling. Blood tests revealed a high level of ferritin. He was referred to a liver specialist, who diagnosed him with hemochromatosis. He underwent treatment that involved regularly scheduled bloodlettings, also known as phlebotomies. He began to monitor his condition using a spreadsheet but later decided to develop an app that could help others with the condition.

"I felt it would be useful to have a mobile app to keep track of my progress," he said. "I had a sense of my own wellness. There's nothing out there like this," said Grewal of the app, which helps patients keep track of their blood work, monitor their de-ironing progress using a graph, and predict when their next phlebotomy will be needed.

The app also helps patients keep track of their appointments and which arm was drawn from during their last phlebotomy.

"This app is one of the tools we'll use to support those who have hemochromatosis and to increase awareness. Gary, Andrew and their team are making a big difference in people's lives," Hilley added.

The Iron Tracker app is free to all users and is available for download through the Google Play™ Store and App Store. More information and instructions on how to use the app can be found at www.irontracker.ca.

Hilley has also been busy organizing the Society's first ever parliamentary reception in Ottawa to bring the disorder to the attention of our federal politicians and is trying to mobilize volunteers to support increasing awareness of hemochromatosis in Peel, York and Toronto.

To that end he is also excited because the Canadian Hemochromatosis Society is holding it's first ever social golf event, "Irons 4 Iron" May 21 at Royal Woodbine Golf Club. It's a friend and fundraiser for the Society.

"The Society is trying to increase awareness of this common, yet commonly undiagnosed disorder in Ontario," Hilley added. "I invite folks to join us for lunch and a great afternoon."

Call him at 647-964-6942 for information on hemochromatosis or to register for the golf.

Awareness is the cure.
