Family members remembered at memorial day

By Jake Courtepatte

To the words of "Over the Rainbow," the Neville-Lake children's favourite song, four doves were released on Sunday to honour the four lives lost in a tragic drunk driving accident last September.

Daniel, Harry, and Milly Neville-Lake, along with their grandfather Gary, all received permanent memorials in the forms of trees and park benches.

"Overwhelmed" by support, parents Jennifer and Edward could not attend the event held at King City's Wellesley Park, but gave a written statement.

"From the bottom of our hearts, we want to thank you for the love and support you have shown us and our family," the statement read, "We truly wish that we were all together for any other reason and our children could be playing with yours today."

"It means so much to us that (the bench and trees) were placed in a playground that our children were so anxious to see and play on."

The day included many family-friendly activities for the public to enjoy.

In March, 29-year-old Marco Muzzo pleaded guilty to four counts of impaired driving causing death and two counts of impaired driving causing bodily harm in connection with the crash in Vaughan. He was sentenced to 10 years in prison, and will be subject to a 12-year-ban on driving following his release.

Hundreds of people and children took part in the Neville-Lake memorial family day in King City Sunday. The event began with the release of four doves, symbolizing the lives of the three Neville-Lake children and their grandfather who were fatal victims in a tragic drinking and driving crash in September of last year. The memories of Daniel, Harry, Milly and their grandfather, Gary Neville were honoured at the event. As well, trees and plaques were placed at nearby Kettle Lake Park.

Emerald Ash Borer Tree Removal

What: King Township is in the process of cutting down several hundred trees killed by the emerald ash borer, an invasive species that has killed tens of millions of ash trees in North America. Staff estimate up to 300 or more trees need to be removed on township-owned boulevards.

Why: The trees are completely dead and many are on township-owned boulevards next to sidewalks. Removing them is a matter of public safety.

Where: The tree removal started July 25. Arbor-tech, the company that will be doing the removal, started in Nobleton to be followed by King City and Schomberg.

Next steps: King is committed to planting new trees in the future. This year will see the start of Phase 1 of the program, which will include the removal of the dead trees but not the stumps. It is more efficient to remove the stump and plant a new tree at the same time due to the hole created during the stumping process.

Phase 2 will include the removal of the stumps and the planting of new trees. Phase 2 is expected to be a multi-year initiative.

Playground undergoing work

Work on Phase II of Rafferty's Corner Park in King City has started. The work will include a playground, a shade structure, a trail system and associated soft scaping (tree planting, flower and garden beds). Work is expected to continue into the fall. During this time, the playground equipment will not be accessible although the larger open space of the park will be open for use.

Council wants better process for heritage register

By Mark Pavilons

King councillors want a more streamlined and effective method of dealing with properties selected for inclusion in the Township's heritage register.

Placing homes and properties on the register has always been a bit of an emotional issue among taxpayers, often leading to vocal objections at council. Township staff, heritage committee members and councillors have tried, umpteen times, to explain the register to residents, often to no avail.

Staff presented a revised process for adding heritage properties to the register, and councillors were still at odds in how to deal with the issue.

Mayor Steve Pellegrini pointed out some residents want it, and this list serves an important purpose. He noted that some properties have more historical significance than others, so perhaps there's a way for staff to create a priority list.

Councillor Debbie Schaefer, a strong advocate for the register, said it's tough to define or say what's more or less significant. The Heritage Act sets out the main reasons and criteria for listing a heritage property.

Councillor Bill Cober, ever the pro-citizen voice, said the "criteria" is the owner. "If they want it, give it to them. If not, don't," he said. "The people get to decide. That's my criteria."

Councillor Cleve Mortelliti said there is a need to preserve heritage sites. He agreed there seems to be too many properties coming to council to add to the register. He would also like to see a method where staff can "pick out the gems."

According to planning director Stephen Kitchen, staff made a number of modest revisions to the work plan, including implementing an approximate three-month timeline between public information sessions and subsequent recommendations to council. Staff is also directed to group smaller numbers of properties together, and replacing notification by registered mail to regular mail.

Recognizing cultural heritage is one of the mandates of the Community Sustainability Plan, and so the register plays a role in this.

Conserving heritage properties is the responsibility of the municipality.

Being on the register means owners must provide 60 days' notice of proposed demolition. Being on the register does not carry any restrictions or obligations on the part of the property owner. It doesn't affect land use or zoning.

In his report, Kitchen noted listing properties on the register should be proactive rather than reactive or preventive. By identifying properties in advance, there's a better chance of saving them in the future.

Currently, there are some 300 properties on the build heritage inventory that have yet to be reviewed by council, making them vulnerable to demolition, without recourse.

The listing process has been evolving since the Township began tackling properties in earnest, in 2012. Since then, 137 properties have been added to the register.

The work plan was updated in August of 2013 and public sessions, to inform the public, were held. When properties are selected, owners can ask for a re-evaluation by the Heritage Advisory Committee, before going to council.

The committee still has some 131 properties to be reviewed.

Township staff will continue to hold public information sessions before recommendations are presented to council. These, Kitchen noted, "provide a good opportunity to address resident concerns, explain the process for listing properties on the Heritage Register and possible implications ..."

These sessions also explain the differences between listing and "designation" to property owners.

Along with the work plan revisions, staff and the HAC members will carry out a number of initiatives to promote heritage in King and educate the public about preserving our past. Staff and committee members have discussed the matter with local real estate companies to increase heritage awareness.

King will participate in Ontario Doors Open 2016, which will be held Sept. 17. This day recognizes and celebrates local heritage.

Township-wide fire ban lifted

With periods of rain earlier in the week, King's fire chief has lifted a Township-wide fire ban on all open air burning.

While the rain comes as good news for many, several area conservation authorities have issued flood warnings this week. The Nottawasaga Valley Conservation Authority advises that Environment Canada has issued a Rainfall Warning covering the watershed. The public is reminded to exercise caution around all bodies of water. The public and especially children are advised to stay away from all watercourses, bridges, culverts and dams.

"Public opinion shapes our destinies and guides the progress of human affairs"

~ Frank B. Kellogg

Our youngsters are feeling more stress, too

Adults haven't cornered the market on stress.

Yes, we deal with it every day, 24/7. But so do our youngsters and teens in particular.

More than one in three, or an estimated 328,000 Ontario students in Grades 7 to 12, report moderate-to-serious psychological distress, according to new survey results from the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health (CAMH). Girls are twice as likely as boys to experience psychological distress.

"This is a significant number of young people, especially girls, who are experiencing high levels of psychological distress," says Dr. Robert Mann, senior scientist at CAMH and co-lead investigator of the Ontario Student Drug Use and Health Survey (OSDUHS). A total of 10,426 students from across Ontario participated in the 2015 OSDUHS, the longest-running school survey of adolescents in Canada, and one of the longest-running surveys in the world.

"We were also surprised to see this number increase to 34 per cent in 2015 from 24 per cent in 2013. That is a 10 per cent jump in reported psychological distress in just two years," said Dr. Mann.

Psychological distress is defined as symptoms of depression and anxiety and is measured using a six-item screening tool. Students are asked how often they felt nervous, hopeless or worthless, among others indicators, in the last four weeks. Forty-six per cent of girls indicated high levels of distress compared to 23 per cent of boys.

Levels of distress also increase significantly in the later teens, to an average of over 40 per cent of students in Grades 11 and 12. One in five students

Mark Pavilons

(21 per cent) reported visiting a mental health professional at least once during the last year, a marked increase from 12 per cent in 1999.

"While we can't say for certain what is causing this distress, it's important for parents, schools and health care providers to be aware of what young people are telling us about their mental health," said Dr. Mann. "Our research indicates that the later teen years into the 20s is the peak period of stress for many people."

Students may be prepared for their required curriculum this fall, but a recent Capital One Canada Financial Education study suggests that many could be "blindsided by a crash course in money management."

Forty-six per cent of Canadians, and 50 per cent of 18-25-year-olds, say they were unprepared to manage their finances going into post-secondary education.

What's worse is that 53% of Canadians are still uncomfortable talking about their finances, yet 58 per cent agree talking about finances with friends, family and professionals is the best way to learn about effective money management.

"In order to build a basic comfort level with finances, we need to begin stripping away the taboo that most Canadians associate with it," says Nathalie Clark, managing vice-president, Capital One Canada.

As part of the Capital One Financial Education Challenge, students from across the country are empowered to develop and deliver projects that teach relevant financial skills. Since 2006, this challenge has engaged 7,125 students across the country, resulting in the delivery of 779 financial education outreach projects and directly impacting 115,950 community participants. Examples of current programs include the following:

Well, as a parent, I can tell what's causing some of this stress.

We have been joining my oldest daughter Lexie, on her current, stress-filled roller coaster ride. After graduating high school she and her peers are all feeling pressured - to make the right choices, find the right school, follow the right career path. Like all of us, they're worried about the future and they're concerned about screwing up.

That's nothing new. But maybe the pressure is higher today. A lot has changed in a generation.

In my day, entrance requirements and post-secondary costs were somewhat reasonable. But choosing the best career has always been a challenge.

My dad believed that the field of computers, still in its evolving stages in the 1980s, was the way to go. I had little interest in that. When I told him I wanted to be a journalist, I was met with some raised eyebrows, mostly because he didn't fully understand the field.

I did well in college, entered the workforce promptly and here I am. No, I didn't land a top-level job at the The Globe and didn't make it on TV. And I've had my share of ups and downs over the years.

But the modern workforce has changed and I think our leaders of tomorrow know this. Lexie has found her niche, but translating that into a career is a totally different matter.

No one knows how the workforce of tomorrow will unfold. Kids today want those big salaries.

Lexie's peers and friends are a unique bunch. I'd describe them as very good, bright kids. They're dreamers and are fiercely loyal to one another.

Despite their book and street smarts, they do lack some financial prowess. Maybe their lack of knowledge is due to the fact parents are reluctant to talk about finances. Hey, let's face it. Those of us who are strapped don't want to burden our kids with it. Those who are affluent likely do everything for their kids.

But they need to learn how to manage their money.

The system is partly to blame. At 18, they're considered adults by the university and those who administer OSAP. Unless parents are expressly given permission, we can't intervene or even ask questions. I found wading through the paperwork and online forms for both her tuition and OSAP to be very time-consuming and intense. I doubt many 18-year-olds could handle all this on their own.

Stress, there's plenty to go around!

Taxpayers stuck with $70-million bill

By Julia Munro
York-Simcoe MPP

As the debt of Ontario passes the $300 billion mark, the taxpayers of this province have just received a further $70 million obligation. That is the price tag for the initial costs to create the Ontario Registered Pension Plan.

Now that there has been an agreement-in-principle to enhance the CPP, the province has moved to close the ORPP. This creates the need for severances and other financial obligations to those who have been hired. Six senior executives split $2,000,000 in severances. One ORPP employee received $316,816 for 15 days of work. Another $8 million was spent on partisan government advertising and $600,000 was spent on advertising during the federal election.

Back in 2014, the Liberal budget papers said there was a need for sales of government assets (Hydro One, LCBO), and also the revenue stream from a provincial retirement plan to build infrastructure projects like roads, bridges and new transit.

Their retirement plan was for people who had no workplace pension. It excluded those people who had defined benefit plans as well as others. There was an immediate response from business. This added cost would make doing business in Ontario more expensive than elsewhere. As a result there would be job losses and pay cuts.

Nevertheless the provincial Liberals pushed ahead with legislation to provide the necessary legal framework for the ORPP. This provided the opportunity to begin hiring for the senior positions mentioned above. Despite the government announcement to freeze all spending the taxpayers have found themselves once again picking up the tab for poor planning by this government.

Liberal Finance Minister Charles Sousa said without Ontario's investment, ($70,000,000) and work to develop the ORPP and elevate the issue of retirement security nationally, CPP expansion simply would not have happened. Minister Sousa's words are cold comfort for taxpayers stuck with a $70-million bill.

Changing election rules could lead to coalition governments

If the federal government replaces Canada's current voting system with Proportional Representation (PR), it is highly likely that Canada will be governed by coalitions rather than majority governments leading to higher levels of government spending and larger deficits, finds a new essay released by the Fraser Institute, an independent, non-partisan Canadian public policy think-tank.

Two of the five parties (NDP and Greens) on the government committee investigating electoral reform want to replace the current system with proportional representation (PR) and the governing Liberals are open to such a reform, which more closely matches vote counts with parliamentary seats.

"Changing the way we elect our political representatives will change more than just the way we elect our politicians. Depending on the reform, it could lead to marked increases in government spending and deficits," said Jason Clemens, Fraser Institute executive vice-president and co-author of "Electoral Rules and Fiscal Policy Outcomes."

PR electoral systems on average elect more parties to parliament. The higher number of parties in parliament means that it is more difficult to achieve a single-party, majority government. Moreover, it becomes increasingly difficult to achieve consensus on important policy decisions given the conflicting and narrow interests of various parties.

The paper notes, for instance, that between 2000 and 2015, 83 per cent of elections in industrialized countries with PR elections resulted in coalition governments. In other words, in more than 4 out of 5 elections, a coalition of parties was necessary to form a government. Coalitions were the result in only 15 per cent of elections in countries with electoral systems similar to Canada's, which is referred to as a plurality/majoritarian system.

"Trading favours" and capitulation is imposed on the larger party(ies) by the smaller parties to form a coalition in PR countries that results in higher levels of government spending and larger deficits. For example, from 2000 to 2014, the average central government spending in countries with PR electoral systems was 29.2 per cent of the economy (GDP) compared to 23.5 per cent in countries like Canada that have a plurality/majoritarian election system.

And crucially, PR countries more often finance their higher government spending with deficits (borrowing) than other countries.

"At a time when spending and deficits are already on the rise across Canada, the fiscal consequences of electoral reform should not be taken lightly," said Taylor Jackson, a senior policy analyst at the Fraser Institute and co-author of the essay.

King road resurfacing projects

By Mark Pavilons

Several King Township roads will be getting a face lift in the coming weeks. The 17th Sideroad, from Keele Street to Dufferin, will be getting some upgrades. King council recently awarded the $215,000 contract to Lisbon Paving, to carry out the work.

Lisbon Paving met all specifications for the work, and was the lowest bid, out of eight submitted bids.

The cost of the work is covered in the Township's 2016 operating budget. The funds will be coming from the approved Asphalt Maintenance and Patching Budget.

The 8th Concession, from Lloydtown Aurora Road to Highway 9, will be getting a face lift.

King council awarded the tender to Miller Paving Ltd., for just under $62,000. It is a single application.

Miller's was the lone bid received from the tender. Theirs met all project specifications.

The cost is covered in the Township's 2016 operating budget.

Miller also got the tender for work on the 11th Concession, between the 16th and 17th Sideroads. This work is expected to also cost just under $62,000. Miller was the lone bidder.

Miller Paving picked up another $110,683 contract for surface treatments in various locations throughout King. Again, they were the lone bidder.

Work will be done on the 17th, Dearbourne and 16th Sideroad.

Fermar Paving Limited will carry out roughly $1 million worth of work in King City.

They were awarded the tender for work on Burns Boulevard, Findlay Avenue, Dennis Drive, Walkington Way and Langdon Drive.

They were the lowest of seven bids received.

Wildlife charity golf tournament

Procyon Wildlife will be holding their 2nd annual Charity Golf Tournament on Saturday, Sept. 10 at the Nottawasaga Inn and Resort in Alliston. Registration fee includes 18 holes of golf, cart, barbeque and many prizes. Special room rates are also available.

Coppa's Fresh Market opens, offers first drive-thru

By Mark Pavilons

The Coppa family's commitment to the community has come full circle, with the grand opening of their newest flagship store in King City.

Coppa's Fresh Market opened its doors Tuesday and held its official opening before a large, supportive crowd.

Patriarch Louie Coppa said the 500,000-square-foot store turned out just as he imagined.

This store is large, and while spacious, it has a warm and inviting atmosphere. From the bounty of products to the hot food stations, Coppa's is an experience. It also boasts a fully licenced lounge and patio, likely the only one of its kind.

Drive-thru

Coppa's is excited to launch their first drive-thru in King City, developed in collaboration with InstaBuggy. The grocer's new store location is the perfect place to introduce this new customer innovation where busy shoppers don't even have to leave their car. Customers can pre-order all of their items using InstaBuggy and have their groceries loaded right into their car, at their convenience.

Known for their authentic local and international products, and delicious prepared foods that make it easy for families to enjoy delicious meals together, Coppa's is now making it even simpler to purchase fine foods. It's the same great taste people know and love, just with less time.

Coppa's has already established a relationship with InstaBuggy in their three current locations, providing home delivery service. InstaBuggy is an innovative and independent grocery delivery service that operates in Toronto and some areas of the GTA, and this service will be extended to King City. Coppa's gives shoppers the option to either pick up their own groceries at the convenient drive-thru, or have them delivered to their front door.

Customers can purchase anything from Coppa's using InstaBuggy, including produce, meat, cheese, eggs, bread, spices, and Nonna Francesca's signature prepared meals or line of traditional family-inspired ingredients. They can even order fresh catering items, request exquisite take-out from the on-site Nonna Francesca's Risto-rante, purchase fresh flowers and even personal care products. Orders can be placed online using InstaBuggy's website, or customers can download the app on their phones as well.

Together, Coppa's and InstaBuggy are giving customers the freedom to pick up groceries more ways than ever. Whether they're doing errands on a Saturday morning, or driving home from work, shoppers can get exactly what they need from Coppa's quickly and easily. In-store, pick-up or delivery – fresh, authentic food has found of new level of convenience in King City.

Store hours at the new King City location are Monday to Saturday, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Sunday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Project Zero aims to reduce fire and carbon monoxide deaths

Enbridge Gas Distribution, the Fire Marshal's Public Fire Safety Council and King Fire & Emergency Services are partnering to improve home safety and bring fire and carbon monoxide-related deaths down to zero.

King Fire & Emergency Services received 138 combination smoke and carbon monoxide alarms through Project Zero, a public education campaign that is providing a total of 3,330 alarms to residents in 15 Ontario municipalities.

This year, Enbridge invested $100,000 in Project Zero. Since 2009, Project Zero has been launched in 78 Ontario communities. Last August, Thorold Fire & Emergency Services responded to a report of a carbon monoxide alarm being activated at a Richmond Street address. The responding fire crew, coincidentally, were the crew that attended the residence in October 2014 to install carbon monoxide alarms as a part of the Project Zero program. Through this partnership – and the resources supplied by Enbridge and the Fire Marshal's Public Fire Safety Council – Thorold Fire & Emergency Services were able to ventilate the home and divert a potentially tragic situation.

When properly installed and maintained, combination smoke and carbon monoxide alarms help provide the early warning that is needed to safely escape from a house fire or carbon monoxide exposure. Carbon monoxide is a toxic, odourless gas that is a by-product of incomplete combustion of many types of common fuels. It is important that all fuel-burning equipment be properly maintained to prevent carbon monoxide buildup.

Carbon monoxide alarms are recommended as a second line of defense to protect against the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning.

"Safety is a top priority at Enbridge and we are committed to helping ensure that there are no deaths due to carbon monoxide exposure in Ontario," said Mark Wilson, of Enbridge Gas Distribution. "This partnership will help educate customers about the importance of installing a combination smoke and carbon monoxide alarm as well as properly maintaining fuel-burning equipment."

"The ongoing partnership between Enbridge Gas Distribution and the Fire Marshal's Public Fire Safety Council for Project Zero has resulted in the distribution of over 24,000 combination alarms in Ontario communities," said Arthur Pullan, executive director of the Fire Marshal's Public Fire Safety Council. "Working smoke and carbon monoxide alarms save lives and we are proud to support this program in an effort to help ensure the safety of Ontario residents who may have otherwise not been able to have these life-saving devices in their homes."

"Educating our residents on how to fulfill their responsibilities for their own fire safety is the best way to reduce the incidence of a fire from taking place," said King Fire Chief James Wall. "Part of that responsibility component includes installing and maintaining working smoke and carbon monoxide alarms throughout their home. Failing to do so is a chargeable Provincial Offence."

"With the help of Project Zero we can ensure that the homes that we visit are compliant with the Ontario Fire Code. These additional resources will definitely enhance our current door-to-door smoke alarm program that is currently being offered free throughout the Township of King for residential properties only," added Chief Wall.

Church prepares for its harvest dinner

Nobleton Notes

By Angie Maccarone

St. Paul's Church

The Youth Group will meet bi-monthly during August this summer. Check here for details or contact our Youth Leader Taylor Scott at scottie_tay@yahoo.ca or 289-338-2539.

A2J is a program for kids in Grades 3 to 6. It will resume in September.

Join us Sunday, Aug. 21 at 10 a.m. as we welcome Stacey Campbell to the pulpit.

Child care (for children 3 years of age and younger) is provided during the gathering. Our Summer KidzKonnection and NextStep Program (for children ages 4 to 11) takes place at the same time.

Jeff has a blog and he records his weekly messages there after worship each Sunday. Anyone interested in listening to his messages can go to www.passionatelyhis.com to hear them.

For more information about ANY of our activities or events, please contact the church office or visit our website at www.stpaulsnobleton.ca.

St. Mary's Church

During August, Communion and Confirmation registration is by appointment at the parish office in Schomberg (905-939-2256). Requirements are posted on the church website, and extra copies available for pickup at the parish office in Schomberg.

Life Teen is a Catholic youth ministry organization within the Catholic Church. Its goal is to lead teens into a deeper relationship with Jesus Christ and His Church. Life Teen is already taking place in over 1,000 churches in over 31 countries around the world. Let's bring this movement to Saint Mary's Church in Nobleton.

For the used clothing drive, please leave your bags in the foyer of our Churches after masses. For every one bag collected, $1 goes towards St. Mary's Mortgage Fund.

Nobleton United Church By Nancy Hopkinson

The August 21 service at 11:15 a.m. will be an informal group discussion in Nobleton's Lower Hall with light refreshments. The theme is "When did you know that you were called by God?" Nobleton's own Joan Montgomery is leading the discussion. Scripture referring to this topic include Jeremiah 4:1-4 "I am only a boy," and Luke 13:10-17, Jesus heals the bent-over woman on the Sabbath.

On August 28, we will join with Schomberg Presbyterian, Schomberg Anglican and Schomberg United at the Dufferin Marsh at 11 a.m. for an ecumenical service. Bring your own chair and bug spray!

Our Harvest Dinner on Thursday, Sept. 15 at 6:30 p.m. includes baked chicken, cranberries, coleslaw, peas, carrots, mashed potatoes, buns and delicious homemade harvest pies (pumpkin, apple and lemon meringue). The cost is $20/adult and a reduced rate for children. Call Helen Bible at 905-859-3924 to reserve your place as the space is limited. This is a sit-down dinner with white tablecloths and ample time to chat to friends and neighbours.

The next Messy Church is Tuesday, Sept. 20, 5 to 7 p.m. The theme of Bible Seaside means that all the choices of activities will involve seashells (shells, water, sand). Children ages 2 years to teenagers must be accompanied by a responsible adult. Activities are from 5 to 6 p.m., story time to 6:15, and then eating dinner (fresh fruit, raw veggies with dip, and something hot from the oven). All are welcome. Messy Church is sponsored by Nobleton and Schomberg United Churches and is free. This is a fun way to learn the Bible stories and to get to know each other as well. All are welcome. For more info, call me at 905-859-0761.

Carol Sharer reports that last Sunday's first service using a downloaded sermon on our screen went very well. Also Carol said that everyone enjoyed singing along with the choir shown on you-tube. Carol said "People are enjoying the variety of services." Thanks go to Joan Montgomery for suggesting that we try to get our Power Point to join with our sound system and thanks to Brian Koerssen and son Ian (from Immanuel Reformed Church) for making it happen. Thanks to Barry Simpson for working the sound and projector for us on Sunday. Thanks to Cathy Castator and Carol Sharer for kitchen duty.

For more info, visit nobletonunitedchurch.com, our Facebook page, or call 905-859-3976. The church office is normally open on Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Messages are picked up regularly. We are located at 6076 King Rd., north side, about 6 buildings west of Hwy 27. We have a big parking lot at the rear of the building, an accessible ramp at the rear of the building, chair lifts and accessible washrooms.

Fall Skating with NSC

As we see summer coming to a close, that means it will soon be time to get back in the rink with skates on! The Nobleton Skating Club will be holding registration for our fall skating sessions Wednesday, Sept. 14 and Monday, Sept. 19, 5-8 p.m. both days, in the Nobleton Arena lobby. We offer Canskate, Skate Canada's learn to skate program. The 'bread of life' explored

We offer a fall and winter Canskate session; fall running September to December, and winter being January to March. Skaters can sign up for both fall and winter now, and receive a discount. Or, start with the September session and sign up for January at a later time. As well, the club offers a power skating class on Fridays at 5-6 p.m. geared towards those skaters that already have the fundamentals, and are looking for more hockey related skills and drills. Our figure skating sessions (STARSkate) begin on Sept. 12, and we have Monday, Wednesday and Saturday Starskate sessions. The STARSkate session runs from September to March as one season, with test days throughout the season for the skaters to advance through the test system.

Anglican Parish
By John Arnott

The St. Alban's Anglican community in Nobleton notes kyrios in Greek means lord which in turn means bread keeper or supplier in ancient German, an important person in the new settled communities of early Western civilization who was more than likely a village leader. As time progressed and villages became towns then cities the lord's position evolved into that of ruler or even king responsible for the community's welfare.

Kyriak from kyrios means belonging to a lord and from it we get our word church - most noticeable in kirk the Scottish word for church. But in early Christianity a church didn't refer to a building but rather to a group of people who were followers of Jesus Christ and saw him as their spiritual lord or leader and called him "the bread of life."

King's MacLennan bounces to second Olympic gold

By Jake Courtepatte

Rosie MacLennan flipped, twisted, and jumped her way to a defence of her Olympic gold last Friday, something no person has ever done in the discipline.

"It feels incredible," said MacLennan, who also won Canada's only gold at the 2012 London Games. "I don't know how it compares but it's just absolutely amazing."

Performing the same routine that she won gold with at the World Cup in Switzerland just a few months earlier, MacLennan went for a combination of height and cleanliness to secure her win.

"The first indication to me is always looking at my coach, and reading the expression on his face," said MacLennan. "So when I looked over and he had a smile on his face, I knew the routine was okay. It felt pretty good, but there was still two girls to go so you never really know."

Her performance earned her a score of 56.465, enough to put her in the top spot with two competitors to jump. After Tatsiana Piatrenia of Belarus bounced to a fifth-place score, the celebration began.

MacLennan's trip to Rio has been in doubt for much of the past year, battling a pair of head injuries that has left her with headaches and vision issues.

"In some ways it was really tough," MacLennan said of the comeback. "But it was also a reminder of how much I really did love the sport. Because if I didn't, I would have given up."

The effects were so bad, the reigning Olympic champ had to step away from the sport for a few months.

"They lasted a lot longer than I thought they would. It cut it close to the World Championships, which is the last chance to qualify for the Olympics, so during that time there was a lot of uncertainty and a lot of stress and emotional struggles. But it really did help me connect back to why I do the sport, all I wanted to do was get back on the trampoline."

MacLennan is looking forward to just cheering on the rest of Team Canada for the remainder of the Rio Games.

"It's been a phenomenal two weeks. It's been beyond my wildest dreams ... when I get back home I just get back to school, and after a month or so get back to training."

She is currently pursuing a Master's Degree in Exercise Science at the University of Toronto, but trampoline is certainly still on the radar.

"The Belarusian going into the final was 34," said MacLennan. "There's a bit of longevity in our sport, I think it's really up to each athlete but it depends what your motivation is, how you're physically doing, but I'm not done yet."

Jason Burnett of Nobleton was the only other Canadian athlete on the trampoline over the weekend, placing 14th in the men's individual competition.

King congratulates Olympians, golden girl MacLennan

King City's Rosie MacLennan did it again, winning her second consecutive Olympic gold medal in women's trampolining Friday in Rio.

"On behalf of council and all of King Township, congratulations to Rosie on her amazing gold-medal performance in Rio," said Mayor Steve Pellegrini.

MacLennan built on her previous gold medal four years ago in London. She is now the only Canadian athlete to win gold medals at consecutive summer Games.

The King City native was Canada's flag bearer during the opening ceremony in Rio, and her gold is the second by a Canadian at these Olympics.

MacLennan's win was especially dramatic as she had recently overcome concussion symptoms from an injury in training and also hitting her head on a car door.

"Just overcoming her injuries and being able to compete at the highest level was amazing enough," said Mayor Pellegrini. "To go all the way to the gold medal spot on the podium is a testament to her courage, strength and character."

King Township will send a contingent to meet Rosie at the airport for her return to Canada.

"We want to be able to show her the impact she's made on our community," said Pellegrini. "She gave us all something to cheer for and she is a wonderful ambassador for King."

Nobleton's Jason Burnett, who won a silver in the men's trampoline in London, finished 14th in the qualifying round and didn't move on to the finals.

"King is very proud of Jason as he continues to be one of the best trampolinists in the world," said Pellegrini.

Eric Lamaze, from Schomberg, finished third in the team equestrian qualifier event on Sunday. The team finals were held Tuesday. He is also first in the individual equestrian event which continues through the week with the final taking place Friday.

"We wish Eric the best of luck as he chases gold this week."

"We are so proud of all King's Olympians," said Pellegrini.

Site of Last Supper thought to be the very first Christian church

These ancient communities came and went with still a very few, mostly in remote places in the Middle East, existing today.

Few in numbers, the first Christians didn't have special buildings where they went to worship as such would have been costly and later on when this growing sect was seen as a threat to Roman rule it was dangerous to have a known meeting place so Christians were forced to meet in secret. Services were held in each other's homes, abandoned buildings or outside in sheltered places. Later in areas on the fringes of the Roman Empire where this new religion was more tolerated, services were held in what archaeologists call house churches where one room in a relatively large private home would be set aside as a meeting room. Sometimes an addition was built on to the home to serve as a meeting place.

While the Cenacle in old Jerusalem, where the last supper was thought to have taken place and where Jesus's few disciples met some 50 days afterwards to celebrate the Jewish festival of Pentecost and receive the Holy Spirit, is seen by some to be the very first Christian church little or nothing remains of the original structure but what pilgrims today see dates mainly to the Crusades and later.

Thus it falls the house church at Dura Europos now a ruin at the edge of the Syrian desert and threatened by the so called Islamic State (ISSS) to stand as the oldest original Christian church still in existence.

King's Corners

King City United
By Earle Laycock

Rev. Evelyn McLachlan continued her sermon series on Job using the scripture passages from Job 14:7-15 and 19:23-27. Remember Job? Rev. Evelyn said, "He was doing all right, life was pretty much perfect. He had a family, lots of camels, sheep, donkeys, land. Loved God with his whole being. Then tragedy struck, he lost everything he had. Then he laments with his whole being. His friends start to tell him that he must have sinned so he should just curse God and die. Great lot of friends!"

"The image of the tree sprouting again is what begins to give Job hope. He sees that if that part of God's creation can come to life after almost dying, there might be a chance for him to regain life."

"Job's faith is beginning to strengthen here. He believes in a God who will eventually buy him back, redeem him from the suffering he is going through."

What we hear Job say, we hear in Handel's Messiah ... I know that my redeemer lives. There is the hope and the possibility of new life.

A celebration of life was held for Jack Wear at King City United on Friday, Aug. 12. Despite the heatwave, friends and family filled the church to honour Jack and support his wife Dianne, two children Dia and Todd, their spouses Lewis and Caley, three grandchildren, Christian, Daniel, Tali and mother-in-law Anne. Rev. Evelyn McLachlan spoke of Jack's passion to always have a "plan" and his love of explaining things in great detail to those wanting to learn. In his professional life, Jack worked for the Ontario Department of Highways in various capacities. He was instrumental in designing the Allen Expressway. Jack had a love of cars and owned many unique vehicles including a Citroën, Toyota Prius and his beloved Miata. Before he died, Jack ordered a Tesla Model 3. Jack believed that cars should have beauty, performance and be friendly to the environment.

Jack had great admiration for Elon Musk and his "plan" for better transportation. "He (Elon Musk) gets it!" Jack once remarked.

He also loved and excelled at Tennis which is how he met Dianne. Jack took pride in his gardening and enjoyed playing euchre at the King City Seniors' Centre. Those who attended the United Men's Dinner and Show in November, will remember the spoof Jack did of "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair" from the musical South Pacific. Jack enjoyed his performances over the years with the Kingsmen and later the United Men.

As a final tribute to Jack, the United Men sang "Say It with a Song." Safe travels Jack! You will always hold a place in our hearts.

From the Book of Hockley

The one time playing hooky paid off!

Andrew threw away a successful career in Logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

Moment of clarity: I was sitting in a movie theatre catching a matinee – the first and only time I ever played hooky from work. I was in Operations Management at the time and could not, for the life of me, see myself in the same environment for the next 30 years I submitted my resignation the next day and applied to the Brew School in England. I've been following the path ever since.

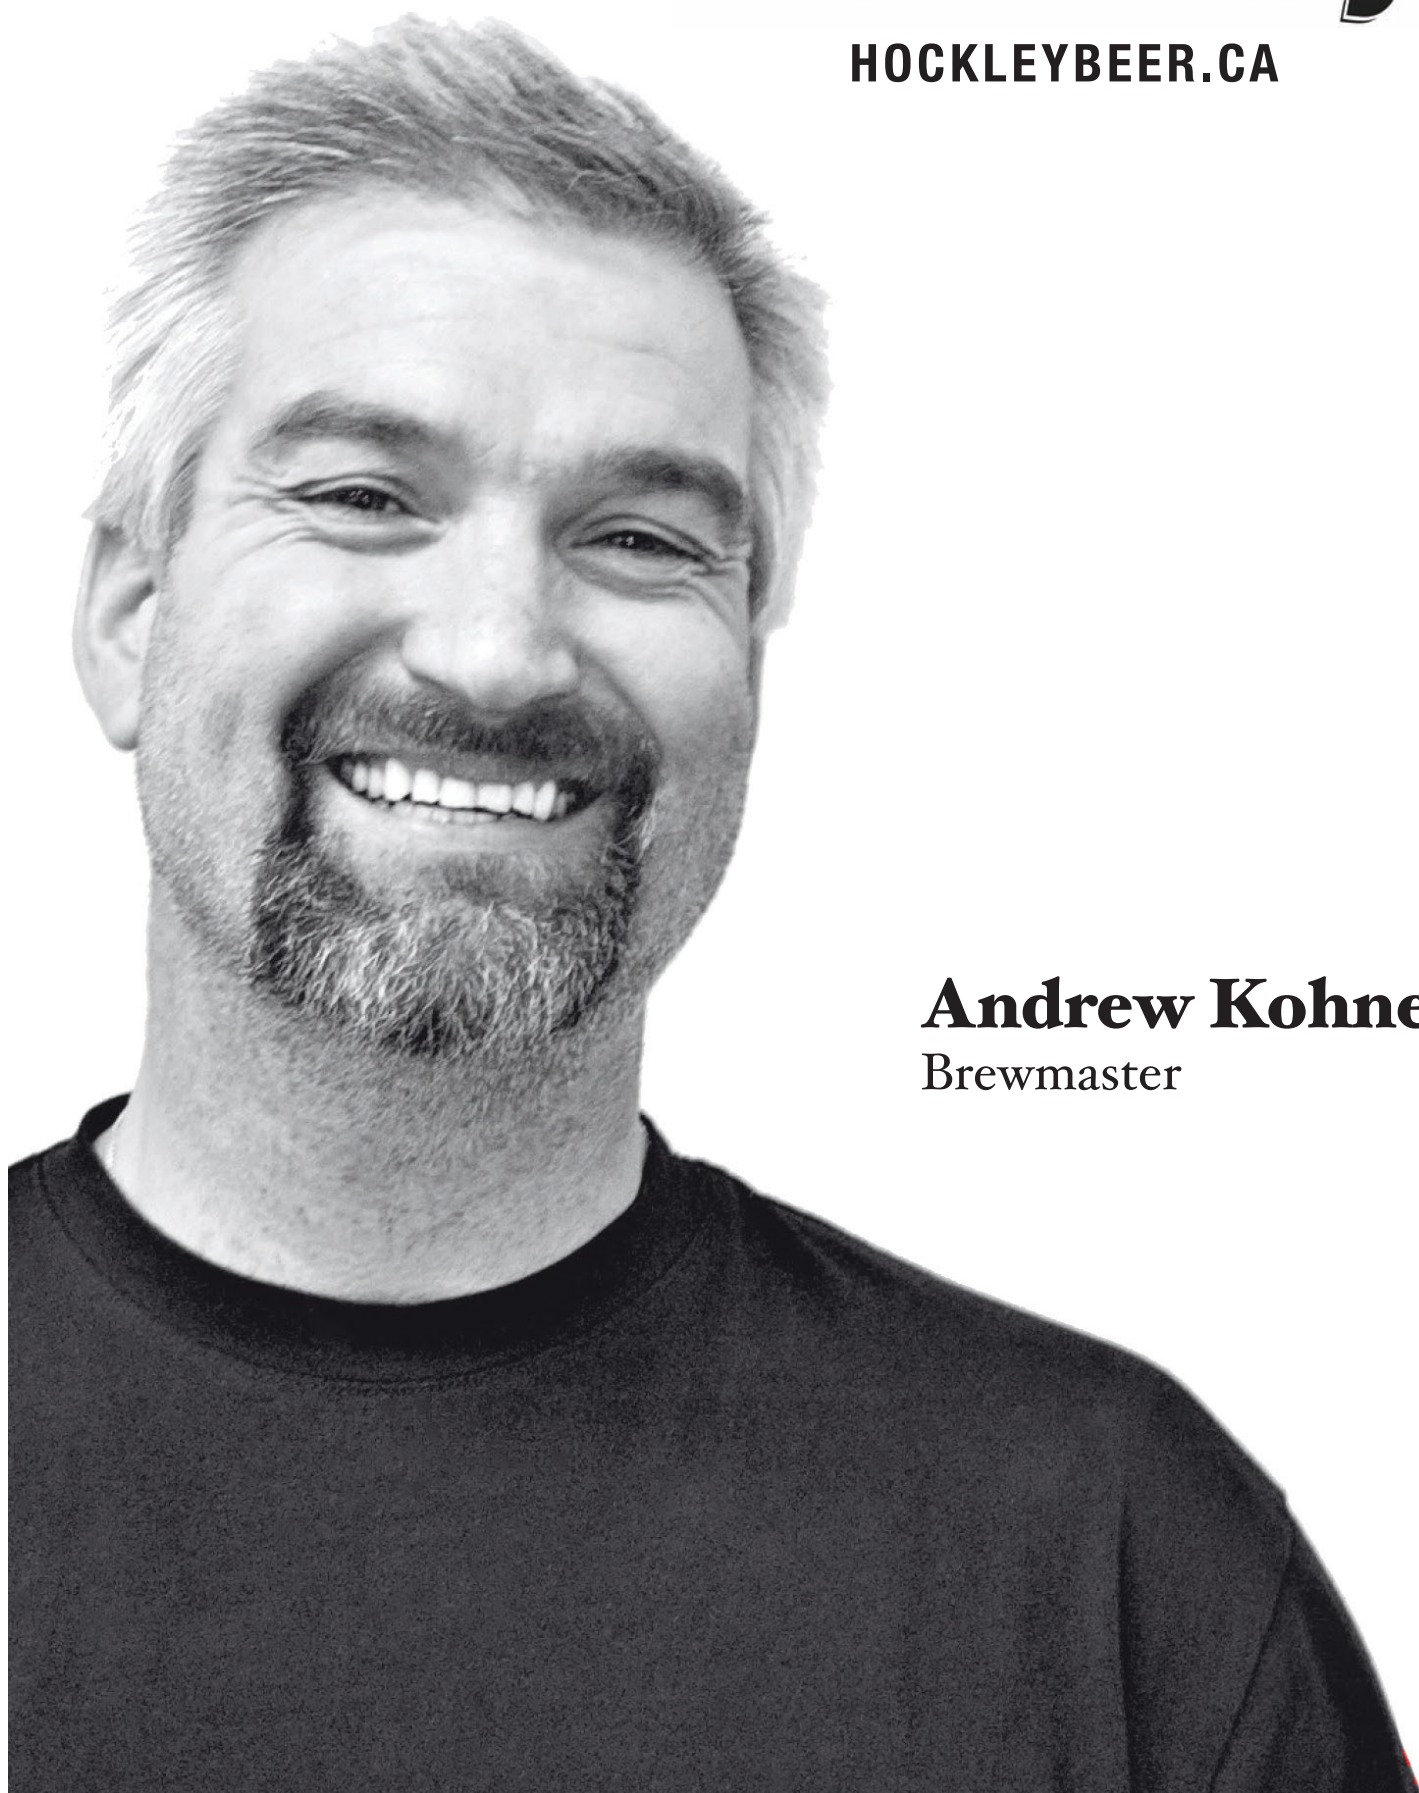

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany to pick up near where his mother's family brewery had been, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.
