King City Lions held a 50/50 draw at the King City Craft Beer Festival June 11. Proceeds of the draw went to Lions Clubs International Foundation and will be directed to Lions Clubs in Ukraine and surrounding countries to assist those who have been so terribly affected by the war. ## Township finances are in good shape

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

King's assets and cash flow are in very good shape, according to a recent audit.

Councillors received a report recently on its consolidated financial statements, required under provincial mandate.

King Township is asset rich, with more than $434 million of non-financial assets. Cash on hand totals $63.6 million, with another $22 million in receivables.

On the liability side, King owes roughly $17.6 million in long-term debt, plus another $21 million in deferred revenue. The accounts payable (as of last December) total $19 million.

The good news is King has a very healthy "net worth."

The Township has $41 million in reserve funds and $348 million in investments in tangible capital assets.

In terms of revenue, the bulk of the Township's income actually comes from developers (DCs). For the year ended Dec. 31, 2021, $61.5 million came from developers, or 50% of the Township's revenues. Taxation accounts for the next highest source, with $34 million (or 28%). Another $10.9 million came from water and waste water user charges. King enjoyed almost $4 million in government grants.

The Township dished out $50.7 million, the bulk going to Environmental Services ($12.8 million) and Transportation Services ($11.1 million). Other top expenses included Recreation and Cultural Services ($9.8 million) and general government ($8 million). Planning and development expenses were a little over $2 million last year.

The financial statements show that King enjoyed increases in DCs, developer contributions, federal gas tax funding and parkland contributions. King also had a $2.6 million reduction in its long-term debt.

REMINDERS

Be a good neighbour

Clean Yards By-law 2016-68 sets out minimum standards for properties in the Township including some rules on litter, waste and property maintenance to help ensure that properties are safe, clean and attractive in relation to adjacent properties.

Reminder to Owners and Tenants:

- All properties must be kept free and clear of long grass and weeds.
- All properties are to be free of garbage, litter, yard waste, standing water, storage bins and demolition project material, and construction equipment.
- All properties need to be clear of derelict vehicles, including vehicles that are not currently licensed for operation.

The Clean Yards By-law is the Township's tool for addressing and responding to concerns about property maintenance. Bylaw Enforcement Officers work with property owners and tenants through education to achieve voluntary compliance, but alternatively orders may be issued to obtain compliance with the by-law standards.

For more information on Clean Yards please visit our website at www.king.ca

King enjoys a surplus

There was a bit of a decrease in tax revenues, attributed to King's Tax Arrears Program which began in January 2021.

King is helping to reduce arrears by communicating with property owners, offering special payment options and plans.

A reduction in user fees was caused by facility closures during the pandemic.

Facilities, such as King City's new library and seniors' centre, is a huge asset. It was pegged at $11 million, opening just this spring. Sewer projects, like the one in Nobleton, are both a cost and an asset to the municipality.

The report noted King does need to build up sustainable funding for capital work. In recent years, the Township has actively worked to reduce the infrastructure funding shortfall by levying more property tax dollars. The plan is to build tax-funded capital, which stands at $4.3 million in 2022. They will use various funding sources to support the repair and long-term replacement of facilities.

King did end 2021 with a $423,000 deficit, largely due to pandemic losses in revenue, and some direct costs of the pandemic.

In order to minimize this, staff reduced spending where possible, and delayed recruitment.

Overall, staff present well-balanced annual budgets and strategies that are fiscally responsible.

In a separate report, councillors received an update on the state of reserve funds, also as of Dec. 31, 2021.

The current balance of all reserves sit at $42 million, but with $10 million in commitments, it leaves just under $32 million.

Reserves are used to ensure the financial stability of the Township and to protect against financial impacts of risks or unforeseen events. Reserves also provide funding for future upgrades to capital assets and facilities.

They're currently separated into different categories that include existing and new infrastructure; stabilization and contingency; special purposes, and library.

Council also received an update on its development charge reserve funds.

They currently sit at $18.7 million but King has $13.4 million in commitments, leaving a surplus of $4.7 million.

Development charge proceeds consist of contributions from developers and interest earned on reserves. During 2021, DCs totalled $39 million and interest earned hit $149,000. DC funding allocations to capital projects in 2021 totalled $19 million.

King secures $225,000 in costs in large illegal dumping case

The Township of King has secured $225,000 in costs in a recent case in Superior Court involving a property on the Oak Ridges Moraine near Schomberg that included the repeated illegal dumping of fill on the property.

The property owner was carrying out significant site alterations, along with the illegal storage of commercial vehicles and equipment on the property, the Court found. All these activities were in contravention of King Township's Site Alteration and Zoning bylaws.

The Court heard that King's Bylaw Enforcement staff attempted to get the owner to comply with the Township's bylaws through communication and education. However, those efforts were unsuccessful as the illegal activity continued.

Staff then issued orders to cease all illegal activities, again with no effect.

Due to the ongoing violations and the impact they were having on the subject property and neighbouring properties, King applied for an interim injunction at the Superior Court of Justice. The Court found that even though the interim injunction was consented to by the property owner, the owner continued to breach both the relevant bylaws and the interim injunction.

As a result, the Township successfully brought a motion for contempt of court which resulted in the property owner being ordered to pay a $110,000 fine to the Provincial Treasurer. The owner was also ordered to pay the Township $225,000 for costs related to the interim injunction ($50,000), contempt of court ($140,000) and the permanent injunction ($35,000).

The property owner also consented to a permanent injunction, requiring compliance with the relevant bylaws. They must also remediate the site to King's satisfaction. If that fails to happen, King can complete the remedial works at the expense of the property owner.

"Due to the efforts of our staff and legal team, King has demonstrated it does not tolerate property owners blatantly disregarding municipal bylaws. I'd like to thank the neighbouring property owners, staff and our legal team for their dedication in bringing this case to a successful conclusion. Thanks also to R J Burnside for its guidance and expertise throughout the investigation and court case," said Mayor Steve Pellegrini.

Showing up can make a world of difference!

The world was shocked late last month when an 18-year-old opened fire at Robb Elementary School in Uvalde, Texas. The gunman tragically shot and killed 19 students and two teachers, wounding nearly 20 others in the process.

The world was shocked, yes, but these horrendous incidents are increasing at an ever-alarming rate.

While the immediate aftermath of the murders brought forward the customary – and more than appropriate – protests calling for better legislation on gun control, keeping pace were the “thoughts and prayers” brigade that trotted out hoary old chestnuts along the lines of the best line of defence against bad people with guns is arming more of the good people to take them down.

Their far-from-out-of-the-box ideas were duly trotted out, and the more recent catch-all solution of arming teachers to protect their classrooms, the very people many pockets of the United States don’t even trust to teach their own history, was floated once again.

These deeply flawed arguments hit all the right notes with the people they were intended to reach, but there was something different in the air this time, perhaps even a feeling that finally enough was really enough.

Just before I sat down to write this on Sunday, Democrat and Republican Senators announced what is being described as a “framework” for potential legislation on gun safety. As this is related to gun legislation in the US, any number of things could happen to this “framework” in the short window of time between our going to press and this column arriving online and at your doorsteps. The outline includes a measure of gun control, increased school safety, and a boost to mental health programs.

“Our plan saves lives while also protecting the constitutional rights of law-abiding Americans,” the CBC quoted the bipartisan lawmakers. “We look forward to earning broad, bipartisan support and passing our common-sense proposal into law.”

Comment By Brock Weir

While it remains to be seen just how “common-sense” these proposals can be, after all the majority of our two nations probably have different perspectives on just what “common sense” means in this context, it’s a step in the right direction.

But it is also a tall order.

In the immediate days after the shooting rocked their own state, Texas lawmakers set to work on tackling one of their greatest threats... drag queen story hours?

No, seriously.

In Pride Month, this is the piece of priority legislation that is working its way through the Austin-based capital.

Spurred by videos of kids attending a drag show, the State Senator who put forward the legislation attempting to ban minors from such shows, said, as quoted by NBC News, “The events of this past weekend were horrifying and show a disturbing trend in which perverted adults are obsessed with sexualizing young children. As a father of two young children, I would never take my children to a drag show and I know [my colleagues] wouldn’t either.”

The usual suspects, of course, took this piece of legislation and ran with it in an attempt to make it snowball across the country through the usual channels, but it’s yet to be seen whether this legislation against allegedly “sexualizing young children” will extend to grandparents asking their preschool-age grandsons, “Do you have a girlfriend yet?”, entering their daughters in highly sexualized beauty pageants, or fathers taking their sons out for a bite at Hooters.

Of course, it isn’t yet to be seen; we all know that will never happen, but that doesn’t fit into the narrative they’re trying to create.

We’re fortunate to live in communities where organizations are making the effort to teach kids it is indeed okay to express their true selves, even if it doesn’t dovetail into what generation upon generation has tried to construct as the accepted norm.

Aurora and New Tecumseth are just two communities that have embraced the idea of drag queen story hours. Whether with Miss Eva Lasting, whose warm and welcoming storytelling ability has been embraced by the Aurora Public Library for the last several years, or through Fay & Fluffy’s Storytime, which delighted kids and families virtually last year by the New Tecumseth Public Library, these shows are joyous occasions for kids, parents and caregivers alike.

Kids are able to be themselves in a safe and accepting environment, are encouraged to ask questions, and parents revel in the opportunities to see their kids be authentic with their peers in an environment that is anything but judgemental.

As I’ve watched these events unfold in person and through virtual channels, I continually marvel at how lucky these kids are to have such opportunities. Many parents of like-aged kids are my peers and, looking back, had they had the chance to take part, it would have done our whole generation a favour in increasing perspectives.

The sting of watching helplessly from my desk as one of my peers fled the classroom in tears in the middle of a presentation after being mercilessly bullied by another student simply for having two moms still smarts.

How I hope times have changed and, if they have, these kinds of opportunities have played no small part in that.

I am fully aware though that, for one reason or another, we’re not all on the same page.

It wasn’t all that long ago that one reader re-tweeted some of our previous pre-pandemic Pride coverage, including Drag Queen Storytime, accusing me directly of promoting “deviant” behaviour through the simple act of event coverage.

That one instance was an eye-opener that no matter how diverse and cosmopolitan our communities are becoming, there’s still a lot more work to do in the field of allyship. The good news is if you truly are an ally of the 2SLGBTQ+ community, demonstrating said allyship is easier than ever.

Wherever you might live, there are plenty of Pride-related events being hosted by prominent community-building organizations to suit every taste. Being an ally can include volunteering to make these events happen, looking at ways to maintain the momentum throughout the balance of the year, or it can be as simple as finding your place along the side of the street ahead of a colourful, inclusive and family-friendly Pride parade.

As lucky as we are to live in communities that support each other, regardless of the path they walk in life, there are no shortage of examples around the world, some sadly all too close to home, to illustrate that this support can be a fragile thing.

But, with a collective effort, it can be a strong part of how we define ourselves now and into the future – as long as we show up.

A new mandate to serve

Ontario voters put their confidence behind the PCs and Premier Ford.

In King-Vaughan, voters overwhelmingly backed Stephen Lecce as their representative.

Campaigns tend to leave a lingering bad smell, or taste of attacks and criticism.

But, if you take away the party-bashing, what’s left? Hopefully some real plans, strategies and solutions.

The previous term was filled with unprecedented challenges, and criticize if you must, but no party would have known what to do in those awfully bleak days and months.

Moving forward, each and every MPP gets into the game with passion and a sense of civic duty, one that centres around helping their fellow citizens. That doesn’t change in the Legislature or Cabinet.

During the campaign, our MPP-elect Stephen Lecce pointed out that he worked across party lines to achieve some very important local milestones.

Three levels of government came together to make King’s new Township Wide Recreation Centre a reality, within a couple of years. Three levels of government came together to make the Cortellucci Vaughan Hospital a state-of-the-art facility.

Those are just two of countless examples. It proves that yes, all parties, all politicians, can see the value in working together to achieve goals.

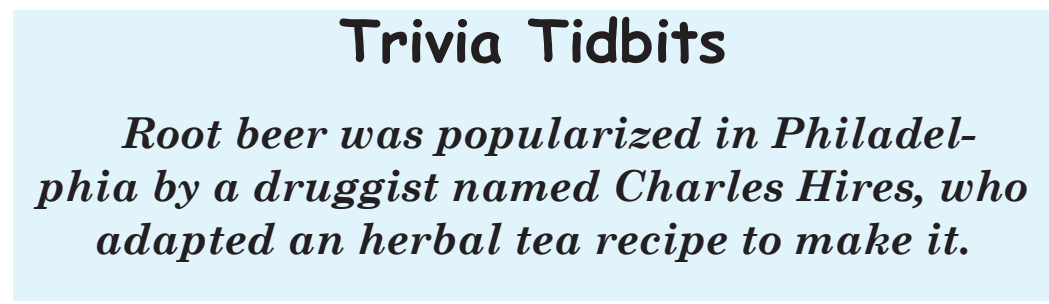

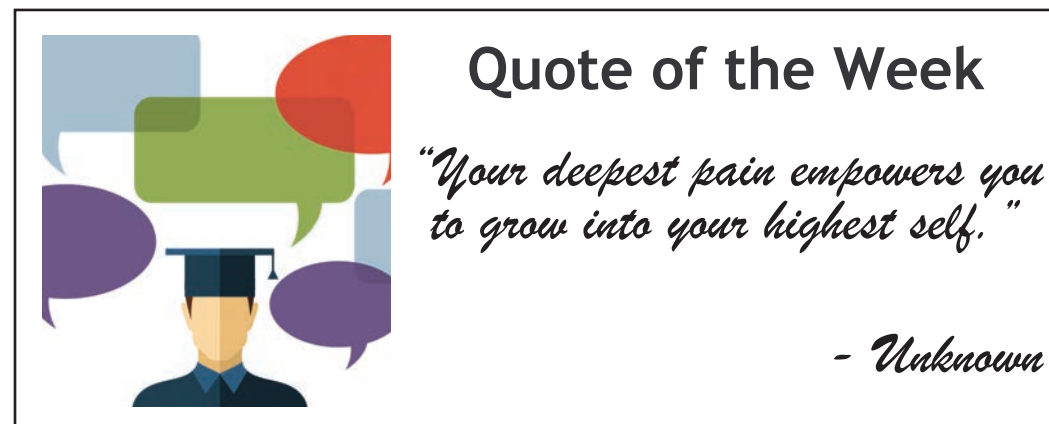

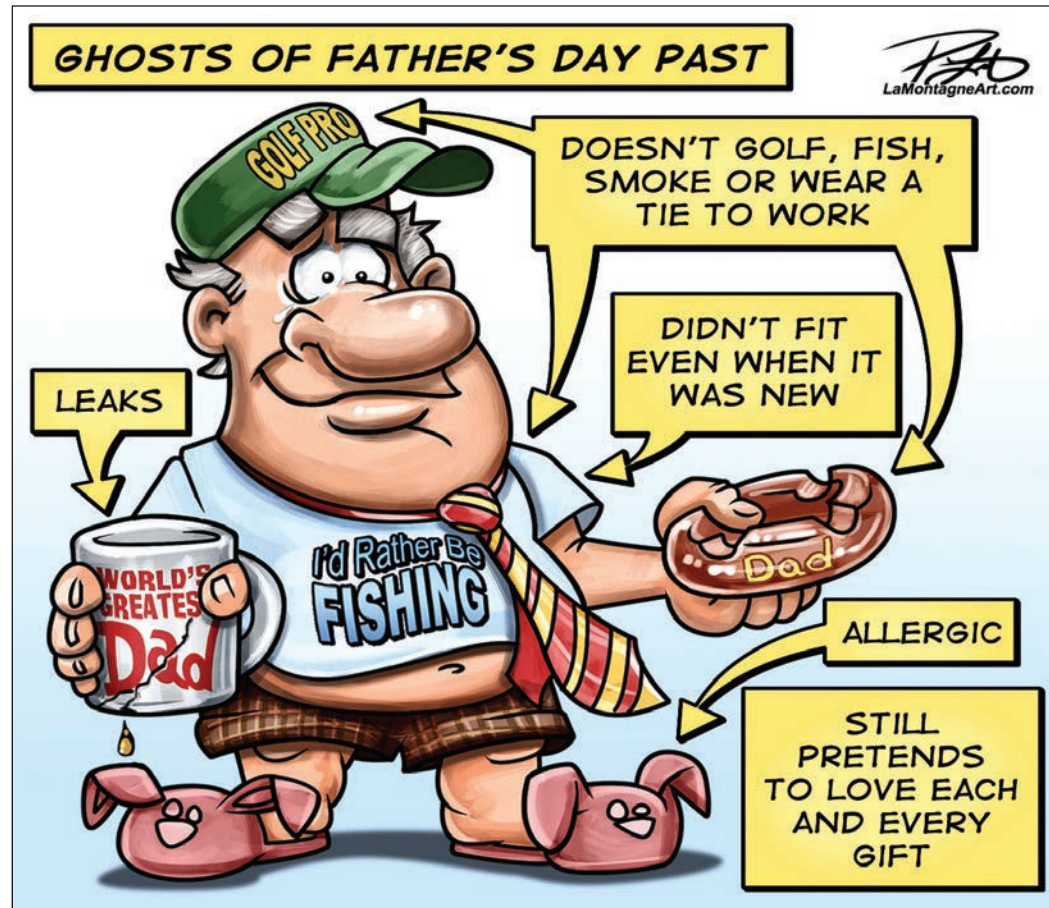

Let’s hope more of this takes place in the coming term.

Voters placed their undisputed faith in the PCs and Lecce, and that should mean something.

Maybe we’re ushering in a new era of co-operation and problem-solving on behalf of the public.

We’re confident the PC team will continue to “get things done.”

Spending runs counter to green commitment

Below is an article worth the read, as well as the links to others. It is accurate and honest.

<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/ng-interactive/2022/may/11/fossil-fuel-carbon-bombs-climate-breakdown-oil-gas>

The article details just how petroleum producing countries like Canada are planning to increase fossil fuel infrastructure and extraction, and how in the US, Canada, and Australia especially, that industry is heavily subsidized by government. Our dollars are being used to counter Canada's commitment to reduce green house gas (GHG) emissions enough to save a good chance at a stable future.

The tiny window opening of opportunity to do so is about to slam shut.

ments, people, and investments to turn away from the most important threat to all of humanity and life on earth.

"Time is running out" has never been more literal.

We need to write to our MPs and MPPs, Premier and Prime Minister, our councillors and mayor, and to corporate leaders and our colleagues. We need to write to the media, especially major media, and just talk about this with our family, friends, colleagues, and neighbours.

Please, make sure that you include the young people you know and help them to feel empowered by supporting their voice and their efforts. They will experience the worst of consequences should we delay bold and immediate action to adapt and to mitigate the damage.

The good news is that we have power. We are the consumers and thus, 50-60% of Canada's emissions are a direct result of our individual and household lifestyle and choices. We can make an impactful collective response by conserving energy and reducing all waste whether food, power, clothing, etc. Recall "waste not, want not" and the difference between needs and wants. All waste is a waste of the energy to produce it, get to market, and dispose of it, and all of that energy produced GHG emissions.

Please everyone who learned how to live in the dirty '30s or during the Second World War, you know how to balance our wants so that others can meet their needs.

Let's increase the quality of our lives by sharing and acting from love to do it.

Eating less meat, one day a week to start, then try two after a while and you will feel better. This in fact does make a very big difference. Largely eliminating meat in our diet, can have the same effect as taking a car off the road. Try to think carefully about how to begin now with minor adjustments to how you live in your houses or work in your buildings.

Ask what are the choices and lifestyle changes we can make now, and what can we work toward in the future to reduce our use of energy and to waste and use less of everything. Canadians have massive carbon footprints and have for over a century. We are 38 million, so if each of us takes care to reduce a little bit, then 38 million times the little bits equals a lot, about 50 to 60 per cent of the total emissions in Canada.

All hope is not lost, even though it may seem that way. Recall history in the last century. Near the beginning of the Second World War when the UK had no navy to rescue their army trapped in Dunkirk, they did not give up. They instead asked all citizens who had sea-worthy boats to step up and go to rescue even just one soldier if they could. They did. In the end, the people saved three quarters of the British and Free French army, about three million soldiers. I am sorry to use an analogy from war times, but I use it because it serves as an example of just how powerful the people can be when people work together, in this case, to save their soldiers.

Edmund Burke, who was born in Dublin, Ireland in 1729 and became a Member of the UK Parliament, said that the greatest shame is when people do nothing because they thought that they could only do a little.

It's time for those of us with seaworthy boats, to get our little boats and cross the channel.

It is time for us to work together and to support each other, so that we can collectively save a liveable future by each of us doing what little we can.

Free climate change webinar

Residents can join in a free webinar entitled "Climate Change is Not a Spectator Sport."

It will be held Tuesday, June 21 from 7 to 8 p.m.

Tim Short is a partner at Laszlo Energy Services in Toronto and a father of three wonderful sons born in the early 2000s. At that time, news reports of "severe weather events" were becoming the new norm and with increasing frequency. As these severe weather events intensified in the next few years, his family decided to embark on a climate solutions journey.

"We are still on our journey to bust our carbon emissions and have turned it into a personal crusade to share our learnings as much as we can with the community," Tim said.

From thermal solar water heating, to biking and walking more, to not idling the family car, to leaving the bath water in the tub after you're done, to drawing the curtains closed on a hot summer sunrise to opening them up at the sunset; there's something for everyone to make a difference. Nobody's a spectator in this. Attend this webinar to learn how you can actively embark on your climate action journey.

Fossil gas isn't natural, and it's not a climate solution

By David Suzuki

Comment

The fossil fuel industry has employed many strategies over the years to keep money flowing. It's covered up its own science showing that burning its products is heating the world. It's sowed doubt and confusion about the evidence through front groups and compromised "experts." And it's lobbied politicians and contributed generously to their campaigns. Industry executives have consistently put their own interests ahead of the health and survival of humanity.

It's also used "greenwashing" and misleading language to garner support for its destructive products. One example is the term "natural gas." As a fossil fuel, it's no more natural than coal or oil, and just as destructive.

In the face of increasing concern about oil and coal's pollution and climate impacts, the industry has upped its campaign to promote fossil gas as a cleaner alternative or as a "transition" or "bridge" fuel while the world shifts to renewable energy. A 2011 David Suzuki Foundation and Pembina Institute report detailed the fallacy of the bridge fuel argument, as has more recent research.

My home province's gas company, FortisBC, has joined others – including Enbridge, TC Energy and ATCO Gas – in Fuelling Canada, an organization created by the Canadian Gas Association. Part of a push by gas companies everywhere, these companies and organizations have been spending enormous amounts on advertising (often designed to appear as journalism) on numerous platforms and outlets.

As Vancouver and Quebec join jurisdictions around the world banning fossil gas in many new building developments, gas companies are fighting back. With ads and articles extolling the virtues of "clean" gas, "bridge" fuels and "renewable natural gas," the companies want customers to believe they're part of the environmental solution to climate disruption.

They aren't. So-called "natural" gas is, in fact, a processed fossil fuel composed almost entirely of methane – a greenhouse gas about 80 times more potent than carbon dioxide over the short term. Most of it is now obtained by fracking vast landscapes – blasting large volumes of water, chemicals and sand into rock formations to shatter them and allow bubbles of trapped gas to escape and funnel into wells. Methane escapes into the atmosphere in every step of the process – racking, processing, transporting and burning in homes and buildings – even more than industry and governments have been reporting.

Renewable natural gas is mostly methane obtained from agricultural, landfill or other waste. Although it's better than fracked gas, as it can utilize some methane that would otherwise escape into the atmosphere, and has applications in hard-to-decarbonize industries, it doesn't live up to the hype. For example, FortisBC offers customers the option of being supplied with RNG, but it doesn't mention that existing customers are getting the same gas as everyone else, which is more than 99 per cent fossil gas.

For building cooling and heating, heat pumps are far more efficient, and less expensive, than gas. Gas usage in homes and buildings also causes indoor air pollution, emitting nitrogen oxides, formaldehyde, nitric oxide and carbon monoxide, which can linger for hours. Studies have shown this can cause respiratory ailments like decreased lung function and asthma, especially in children.

University of Saskatchewan chemist Tara Kahan and colleagues measured pollution in homes with gas stoves in 2017 and 2018. "All of the researchers were pretty horrified," she told CBC, adding that she switched her gas stove to an electric induction appliance. Many chefs are also switching to efficient induction stoves.

Buildings were the third largest greenhouse gas emissions source in Canada in 2019, much of it from space and water heating.

The solution to the climate crisis and to building and home emissions – as scientists and experts worldwide from organizations and institutions ranging from the International Energy Agency to the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change have shown – is not more fossil fuels; it's electrification using renewable energy and storage, along with energy efficiency and conservation. As a new David Suzuki Foundation modelling study finds, doing so is entirely possible in Canada by 2035.

As every scientist and energy expert who understands the climate crisis keeps saying, we can't continue fracking, building pipelines, expanding oil sands and developing oil, gas and coal projects if we want to avoid worsening climate impacts – and we don't have to.

We have solutions. Fossil gas isn't one of them.

Investigations lead to fines in illegal dumping cases in King

Three separate investigations into illegal dumping in King Township by Bylaw Enforcement officers have led to almost $1,000 in fines being levied.

In the first case, a Bylaw Enforcement Officer investigated a case of illegal dumping of garbage on the 7th Concession near the King-Vaughan Townline in April. Using several investigative tactics, a Bylaw Enforcement Officer was able to identify the suspect. The suspect, a man living in Vaughan, was contacted and admitted to the illegal dumping. He was issued a $305 fine under the Township's Clean Yards bylaw.

The second case happened in May near the same location on the 7th Concession. In this case, someone dumped yard waste, including freshly cut Manitoba maple trees. After an investigation, a Bylaw Enforcement Officer was able to identify a vehicle associated with the illegal dumping. The owner of the vehicle, a North York man, was contacted by a Bylaw Enforcement Officer and, as in the first case, admitted to dumping the yard waste. He was also issued a $305 fine.

The third case happened at a private business in Schomberg when the owner of the business confronted a man throwing garbage in his dumpster. After a brief confrontation, the man left the scene and the owner contacted the Township's Bylaw Enforcement Division. Through an investigation, an officer was able to identify the suspect as living in Nobleton. He too admitted to the illegal dumping and was given a $305 fine.

"We take illegal dumping seriously in King. Thank you to the members of our community for being vigilant, reporting what they saw and providing key pieces of information and evidence. Due to the thorough investigative work by the Bylaw Enforcement team, we are sending a message that we will take the time and effort to make sure those treating King like a garbage dump are going to pay the price," said Mayor Steve Pellegrini.

Student awarded largest STEM scholarship

Marianna Speranza received the exciting news while driving home from rep volleyball practice with her parents last month. She had won a coveted $80,000 Schulich Leader Scholarship to attend Western University where she will be studying Computer Science and Business Administration at the Ivy Business School. Nominated for her outstanding academics and entrepreneurial spirit, Marianna is only the second Country Day School student to receive this award.

She remembers her awareness and interest in STEM starting in Grade 7 when CDS's Computer Science teacher, Mr. Moorlag, hosted a Hackergal Hackathon where Middle School girls took part in a six-hour coding marathon working in teams of three to create a video game.

"I was already into video games and have always been good at math. I already liked computers and playing computer games, and Mr. Moorlag just brought the subject to life for me. His passion helped ignite mine."

Since then, Marianna has excelled in her computer science and math courses, as well as drama and English. Her business acumen led her to become involved in DECA, an international student program that prepares emerging leaders and entrepreneurs in marketing, finance, hospitality and management in high schools and colleges around the globe, and in Grade 10 she was appointed Executive Provincial Officer for DECA Ontario. The following year she became Senior Workshop Coordinator for HOSA Canada, a student club that enables secondary and post secondary students to become leaders in the healthcare industry by enabling them to acquire knowledge, skills training and leadership development through competition.

Harnessing her entrepreneurial spirit, Marianna and her sister Stacey, a third-year student at U of T's Rotman School of Business, launched their own interview-based podcast while quarantining at home during the early months of COVID. The Business Casual is geared toward helping females grow professionally and personally. As the show's producer, Marianna edits each show and creates the graphics for their Instagram and LinkedIn pages.

Now almost into their third year, the sisters launch two podcasts a month interviewing female industry leaders and young professionals, and recently signed with Business Audio Network by Amplified Audio in the United States.

"The Schulich Leaders Award is designed to recognize that unique individual with a STEM mind and an entrepreneurial heart, and that is Marianna," said David Huckvale, Director of Post-Secondary Counselling at CDS. "She has created, founded and led at CDS and beyond. We can't wait to see what comes next."

It was Huckvale who first encouraged Marianna to apply for the Schulich Award. Marianna had been exploring other awards, including the Loran, but felt that the Schulich embodied what she was good at (STEM) and was more "true to who she is."

Apart from the incredible financial benefit this scholarship will afford her, she is now part of an esteemed network of national STEM scholars at one of Canada's leading universities.

"The networking opportunities will be limitless," Marianna explained.

"We will be assigned mentors from Google Canada and each month there will be networking sessions with Schulich Leader Scholarship alumni, and conferences each year with leaders in technology. Because I will be associated with this scholarship, I will want to be even more involved as a leader at Western. It adds a little more pressure on my end as I will want to live up to the name of a Schulich leader."

According to program founder Seymour Schulich: "This group of 100 outstanding students will represent the best and brightest Canada has to offer and will make great contributions to society, both on a national and global scale. With their university expenses covered, they can focus their time on their studies, research projects, extracurriculars, and entrepreneurial ventures. They are the next generation of entrepreneurial-minded, technology innovators."

MP Scot Davidson introduces legislation to help protect farmers

Scot Davidson, Conservative Member of Parliament for York-Simcoe, introduced Bill C-280, the Financial Protection for Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Farmers Act, a Private Member's Bill in the House of Commons.

Bill C-280 will amend the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act to establish a deemed trust for fresh produce sellers, ensuring that they have priority access to an insolvent buyer's assets related to the sale of fresh produce.

There are a number of risks faced by farmers growing, harvesting, packing, and marketing fresh fruits and vegetables: overhead and capital costs continue to rise, while revenues are delayed until the product is sold and payment is collected down the supply chain – usually long after the grower has distributed their product.

Fresh fruit and vegetables are highly perishable, with a limited shelf-life: when buyers of fresh produce become insolvent, unpaid shipments can not be repossessed and resold by the seller as there typically is no longer any salvageable product left. As a result, Canadian farmers are often at risk of not being paid, leading to farm bankruptcies and worsening Canada's food security.

Bill C-280 will address this by protecting Canada's fresh fruit and vegetable growers during the bankruptcy of a buyer. By supporting Canada's produce sector, the quality, safety, and availability of fresh fruit and vegetable products will be improved for all Canadians.

Local company brings 'revolution' to marginalized groups

By Julia Galt

A Newmarket-based company, founded by York Region District School Board science teacher and single parent Megan Glanfield, is giving back to Ontario's most marginalized people with the launch of their latest fundraising initiative.

Revolution Now!, an apparel-based company that donates 20% of their gross revenue to charity, celebrated the launch of their latest fundraising initiative at Newmarket's Market Brewing Company recently.

Attendees enjoyed live music by MT Walker and Stefan Carriman, free food courtesy of Paco's Taco's, and shopped a variety of Revolution Now! products and swag. A silent Indigenous art auction was also held, with 100% of proceeds going towards Gwekwaadziwin Miikan, a land-based mental health and addiction program for young adults.

$10 from each $35 ticket sold was donated to Urban Promise Toronto to provide after-school care for youth in Toronto community housing.

In total, the event generated over $3,500 in donations.

"The artists we work with are incredible," said Megan Glanfield. "They are so awesome in wanting to share the stories of their experiences within their communities and make things better for youth."

Revolution Now! has made waves in Ontario since its founding September 2021.

Their apparel has been worn and endorsed by Mark Tewksbury, Canada's first Out Olympian and gold medalist; Katie Dudtschak, the executive vice president of the Royal Bank of Canada; and Amanda Jetté Knox, best selling author of 'Love Lives Here: a Story of

Thriving in a Transgender Family'

Other supporters of the company and its work include SickKids' Executive Lead and Strategic Advisor of Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Tee Garnett; Alberta politician and Critic for Status of Women and LGBTQ2S+ Issues Janis Irwin; Juno Award-winning children's band Splash 'N Boots; and Dora Award-winning playwright Anusree Roy.

"One of the things we share in common is the idea that none of us are free unless all of us are free," said Glanfield. "I think oftentimes we can get pigeonholed into only advocating for our own communities. I think sometimes we can get scared to advocate for others because we're afraid that we won't say it right or do it right. One thing I'm really proud of about Revolution Now! is that we all really learn from each other and that we all really have each other's backs."

Revolution Now! has supported charities including the 519, Urban Promise Toronto, Gwekwaadziwin Miikan, and NACCA through sales of t-shirts, stickers, post cards, beanies, and more. They've also supported Afghan refugees through Ashlynn Fisher's Welcome To Canada Project, and have generated over $1,000 for an academic scholarship, awarded via the Alliance of Educators for Black Students.

Working with local artists is a high priority for the company, who have collaborated with 18-year-old transgender artist Forrest Woods on a shirt titled "We Change What We Must", in support of 2SLGBTQ+ youth; Black artist Rob Wright on a Revolution Now! inscribed shirt and beanie he designed, in support of racialized youth; and Indigenous artist Keith Gattie for a series of illustrated products, in support of anti-bullying initiatives. A future collaboration with Gattie is being tentatively planned for Orange Shirt Day in September.

"We are a collective of people from various identities who are all trying to do anti-oppression work," said Glanfield. "We are a collective of black, transgender, Muslim, and Indigenous artists."

With each release, Revolution Now! strives to use ethical, Canadian-made, and eco-friendly materials.

Apart from their fundraising work, the company has recently auditioned for CBC's Dragons Den and has been approved as a vendor for the Toronto Pride festival.

YRP launches wellness app

York Regional Police is pleased to announce that, in collaboration with Fractal SaaS, Inc., a portfolio company of Ryerson's Digital Media Zone (The DMZ), a new, innovative mobile application has been launched that continues our service's investment in the well-being of our 2,388 active members, 538 retirees and their families.

The Wellness First app is a first-responder-focused application for iOS and Android, designed to maintain user anonymity and privacy, while providing tailored support based on our four key areas of wellness: biological, psychological, spiritual and social.

The partnership between YRP and Fractal SaaS Inc. has resulted in a user-friendly design that calculates members' areas of need based on their answers to a series of questions. It then connects members to helpful content and resources, as well as external professional contacts and in-house peer-support.

As the wellness of police members and their families has come into sharper focus in recent years, YRP has moved to ensure that our internal response keeps pace with the growing needs of the membership, particularly with regards to mental health.

"The frequency with which our members are confronted with occupational stress reinforces our duty to have a comprehensive and effective system in place to ensure that our members do not struggle in silence," said Deputy Chief Paulo Da Silva. "This application is a way to improve accessibility and gives our members access to private and timely resources."

The app's design is based on YRP member surveys, research and pilot study results and aligns with the YRP Wellness Strategy goals, including reducing stigma, raising awareness among members and ensuring they can easily access effective services available to them.

Updated York bylaw hopes to recover $10 billion in DC-eligible costs

York Regional Council has approved the 2022 Development Charges Bylaw. This bylaw is updated at least once every five years in accordance with the Development Charges Act, 1997.

Development charges are fees levied on new development to help pay for growth-related infrastructure. Much of this infrastructure is required before development begins, ensuring it is available to service growth when it occurs.

“Updating the Development Charges

Bylaw is a complex process involving a great deal of research and consultation to ensure it is fair and equitable to the residential and non-residential sectors,” said York Region Chairman and CEO Wayne Emmerson. “For the first time, we are including the Yonge North Subway Extension in the updated bylaw as this project remains our number one transportation priority and will provide benefits across our entire Region.”

The 2022 Development Charges By-law aligns with Council’s commitment to housing priorities by incorporating:

- Exempting additional residential units, in both existing and new buildings.
- Applying small apartment rate to all development charge-eligible residential dwellings smaller than 700 square feet.
- Phasing in development charges payments for rental and non-profit housing.
- Exempting conversions of common spaces in rental buildings into additional new unit(s).

The updated bylaw includes $909 million of gross project costs to facilitate the construction of affordable rental apartments and transitional housing over the next 20 years. Of the $909 million, approximately $181 million is proposed to be funded through development charges.

“Achieving consensus when preparing a development charge bylaw is always a challenging task as we balance infrastructure needs against the funds allocated to pay for them,” said Vaughan Mayor Maurizio Bevilacqua, Chair of Finance and Administration. “Development charges are major sources of growth-related funding for all of our municipalities as we work to achieve provincially mandated growth.”

The Regional Municipality of York consists of nine local cities and towns and provides a variety of programs and services to 1.2 million residents and 54,000 businesses with 650,000 employees. More information about the Region’s key service areas is available at york.ca/regionalservices.

Stephen Lecce, MPP-elect for King-Vaughan joined MPP-elect Michael Tibollo, MPP-elect Daisy Wai, and His Worship Maurizio Bevilacqua to mark the 1 year anniversary of the opening of the Cortellucci Vaughan Hospital.

Officials mark hospital’s first anniversary

As Ontario’s first net new hospital in over 30 years with fully integrated smart technology systems and medical devices, Cortellucci Vaughan Hospital opened its doors as a full-service hospital on June 6, 2021.

Over the past year, Cortellucci Vaughan Hospital has become a leading health provider with all around care from mental health, to child and birthing, emergency care, and also boasts a stroke unit. Above all, it is the frontline health care heroes who have stepped up beyond the call of duty during the pandemic who have saved lives and helped deliver new lives into the world.

This new chapter was possible thanks to the amazing staff, volunteers, PSWs, doctors, nurses, custodians, donors and more who came together with compassion and vision for quality health care in our community.

“Our community came together as one to celebrate the one year anniversary of the opening of the Cortellucci Vaughan Hospital,” said Lecce. “I thank the frontline Mackenzie Health staff for going above and beyond for thousands of patients, including my own grandmother. We are all grateful for your tireless dedication and compassion over the past year keeping our community healthier and stronger.”

Moving evening of Indigenous music and stories

By Patrick Gossage

The many people in King interested in deepening their knowledge and appreciation of indigenous issues and culture will want to attend a unique concert on June 22 at 7:30 p.m. at All Saints in King.

The concert is presented by the Margit Sky Project, Rod Bandura and Margit Gossage from Kamloops, BC.

Rod is an elder in the local tribe and is a talented composer and guitarist. Margit is a vocalist and guitarist. They will be playing from their unique album "For The People," a collection of moving songs which tells the stories of indigenous life in a colonial world and digs into indigenous hopes and issues. The title song won number one on Sirius XM Indigenous Music Countdown in 2020.

For The People is Margit Sky Project's re-recording of music Rod composed with the late Terrance Armstrong, a Cree and Irish man. Rod's music with Terrance's lyrics beautifully conveys their life experiences, highlighting the pain of colonialism and the strength of ceremony. They played with Susan Aglukark and for the Prime Minister, Jean Chretien in 1994 at the Commonwealth Games. They shared their music across the country. The group called Wasquesu, played on Much Music several times. Unfortunately for the world of music, the members of Wasquesu went on their own paths in 1994.

The evening will include storytelling by Rod whose mother lost her indigenous identity while attending the infamous Kamloops Residential school, and by his sister Rhonda Larrabee, chief of the Qayqayt First Nation New Westminster Indian Band. She single handedly got together the dispersed band whose ancestral lands had been completely taken from them, and made sure she and her clan members received Indian Status for the first time. A National Film Board Award winning documentary A Tribe of One chronicles her quest to unearth the Indigenous heritage her mother felt forced to hide from her tireless efforts to revitalize the band. <https://www.nfb.ca/film/tribe-of-one/>

Bandura wants to tell his stories and the stories of those who are lost, through music. The Margit Sky Project is the bridge to those who need connection and a break from the challenges of the world. With passion, talent and love, Margit and Rod harness the power of music to ensure Indigenous people's experience and teaching can be appreciated by everyone.

Donations will be taken and after an honorarium for the performers proceeds will go to help former pupils of the residential school. Refreshments will be served and there will be lots of opportunity to meet the performers and the chief.

A 'King's Feast of Poetry'

It's been a time of many changes and challenges and thus we can say, that never is a community in more need to express its poetic nature than at this time.

Organizers are inviting poets to participate in a live poetry reading at Laskey Hall on June 23 from 7-9 p.m.

The idea for this event emerged from a WriteNow!@King meeting of authors who thought it would be a great idea to have a night where poets in King Township could share their own poems.

So far, the response has been tremendous. If you are interested in presenting or have any questions, please email Anna at amanna-santarossa@hotmail.com

The open mic, and your audience, await!

The Margit Sky Project is the bridge to those who need connection and a break from the challenges of the world. With passion, talent and love, Margit and Rod will harness the power of music to ensure Indigenous people's experience and teaching can be heard by all people.

Moonlight Gala raises more than $750k for McMichael

The McMichael Canadian Art Collection is pleased to announce the success of its signature fundraiser, the Moonlight Gala, which returned triumphantly in 2022 following a three-year hiatus during the pandemic. This year's edition raised more than $750,000 in support of the art of Canada and educational programming, a record-breaking amount for the McMichael.

The Moonlight Gala is one of the Canadian art world's most significant events and the money raised directly supports the conservation, exhibition and educational activities of the Gallery.

This year, more than 700 guests filled the McMichael grounds under a cloudless sky, making it the best-attended Gala to date. Guests included Gala co-chairs Debra Fenwick and Laura Mirabella, Honorary Chairs John and Katia Bianchini of Presenting Sponsor Hatch, Honorary Patron the Honourable Maurizio Bevilacqua, P.C. Mayor, City of Vaughan, as well as artists, art dealers, donors, and corporate leaders from around the country. Guests enjoyed fine VQA wine and food stations under the stars, spectacular musical performances, private tours of the McMichael's current exhibitions, and above all, the company of so many others who are united by their love of the art of Canada.

For the first time, the gala also featured a fine art auction with work by top Canadian artists including Ed Burtynsky, Wanda Koop, John Hartman and Margaux Williamson. The wildly popular auction, offered online with works on view in the Tom Thomson Shack, raised more than $140,000. As a capstone to an extraordinary evening, Mayor Bevilacqua also announced a generous donation of $100,000 that will go directly towards supporting the Gallery's exhibitions and programming.

"After three years of social distancing, I was deeply moved by the outpouring of affection and support from the community as we reunited in support of the McMichael and the art of Canada. I'd like to thank our co-chairs, patrons, guests, sponsors, and staff for their continued support and for making the 2022 Gala a record-breaking success," said Ian A.C. DeJardin, Executive Director of the McMichael. "The unmatched generosity of the community will allow us to continue to produce world-class exhibitions of Canadian art and dynamic educational programming. We look forward to seeing you again in this special place."

Be sure to mark Saturday, June 3, 2023, on your calendars for next year's Moonlight Gala.

Celebrate Canada Day in Kettleby

It's been a few years since we were all able to gather and celebrate Canada Day. The Kettleby Village Association (KVA) has just announced that the grand tradition of hosting the country's birthday party at Tyrwhitt Park in Kettleby will be back this year... with bells on.

A veritable host of volunteers and generous sponsors have come together to help the KVA and King Township put on this family favourite event. The event is sponsored by Zancor homes and culminates with a spectacular fireworks display at dusk, brought to you by Trisan Construction.

There's a lot of fun to be had before that, though: Starting at 5 p.m., the following free activities will take place: face painting (sponsored by ReMax agent Maria Ongaro), caricatures (sponsored by Anna Raeli of Desjardin insurance), kids' games and entertainment with the ever-popular Coach Steve, and a fabulous concert from the Flailing Shilageighs from the stage. Kettleby's own Diva in the Rough, Catherine Hughes, will sing the national anthem before the free birthday cake, courtesy of Dorio's Bakery. There will also be a free historic tour of the hamlet with local historian Elaine Robertson at 6:30.

Come on down for the afternoon. Bring a picnic or purchase burgers, hotdogs or popcorn from the King City Lion's Club booth, Kettleby Village Association's now famous dipped corn on the cob, or wander up to Dorio's for ice cream.

Simon Lloyd vying for Ward 4 council seat

Another aspiring politician has put his name forward seeking office in King's municipal elections coming up this fall.

Simon Lloyd, a long-time resident of Schomberg, has thrown his hat into the ring in the race for Ward 4 councillor where there will be no incumbent running as councillor Bill Cober announced in April that he will not be seeking re-election.

Lloyd says he has the experience, energy, communication skills and strong business acumen to succeed at the job.

"I love this community, the people here are amazing and I would love the opportunity to represent our Ward on King Township council. I will give 100% of my effort to make sure our community thrives, and to make sure our voices are heard within council chambers," he stated.

Lloyd lives in Schomberg with his wife Minley and their three children Marlis (14), Dylan (11) and Eira

(7). He has always been active in the community, from coaching kids' sports to volunteering for local events such as A Main Street Christmas and the Scarecrow Competition, as well as being a long-time member of St. Patrick School Council and volunteering at Rose of Sharon Services for Young Mothers. During the day, Lloyd is co-owner of a family business called Springwater Woodcraft, a manufacturer of solid wood furniture established in 1992.

When elected, first and foremost Lloyd promises to ensure that Ward 4 receives its fair share of the King Township budget. Priorities include improving roads throughout the area; ensuring that businesses continue to call King Township home; making sure there's proper infrastructure and amenities for active lifestyles, especially for kids and seniors; and optimizing each and every tax dollar that comes to the Township.

"Property taxes are the main revenue source for the Township but we have to remember that taxes come from the hard-earned dollars of residents. In current economic conditions where a dollar doesn't go as far as it did just a short time ago, I'm adamant that we have to be very careful how these funds are managed and provide true value to the taxpayers."

Lloyd also looks forward to working closely with local service groups and volunteer organizations.

"Being a volunteer myself I really have a fondness for these organizations, and I will be happy to act as a liaison between the service groups and the Township and help in any way I can."

Lloyd's website is www.SimonLloyd.ca where you can learn more about him, submit any questions or suggestions you have, and sign up for his newsletter.

YRP officers seize guns in traffic stops

York Regional Police seized loaded handguns following traffic stops in the City of Markham.

On May 30, 2022, around 10:40 p.m., police were called to the area of Apollo Road and Fonda Road for a report of a suspicious vehicle. When officers arrived they located a male and a female occupant sleeping inside the vehicle.

WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS.

BUT HE DOES!

Our brewmaster, Andrew Kohnen, threw away a successful career in logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

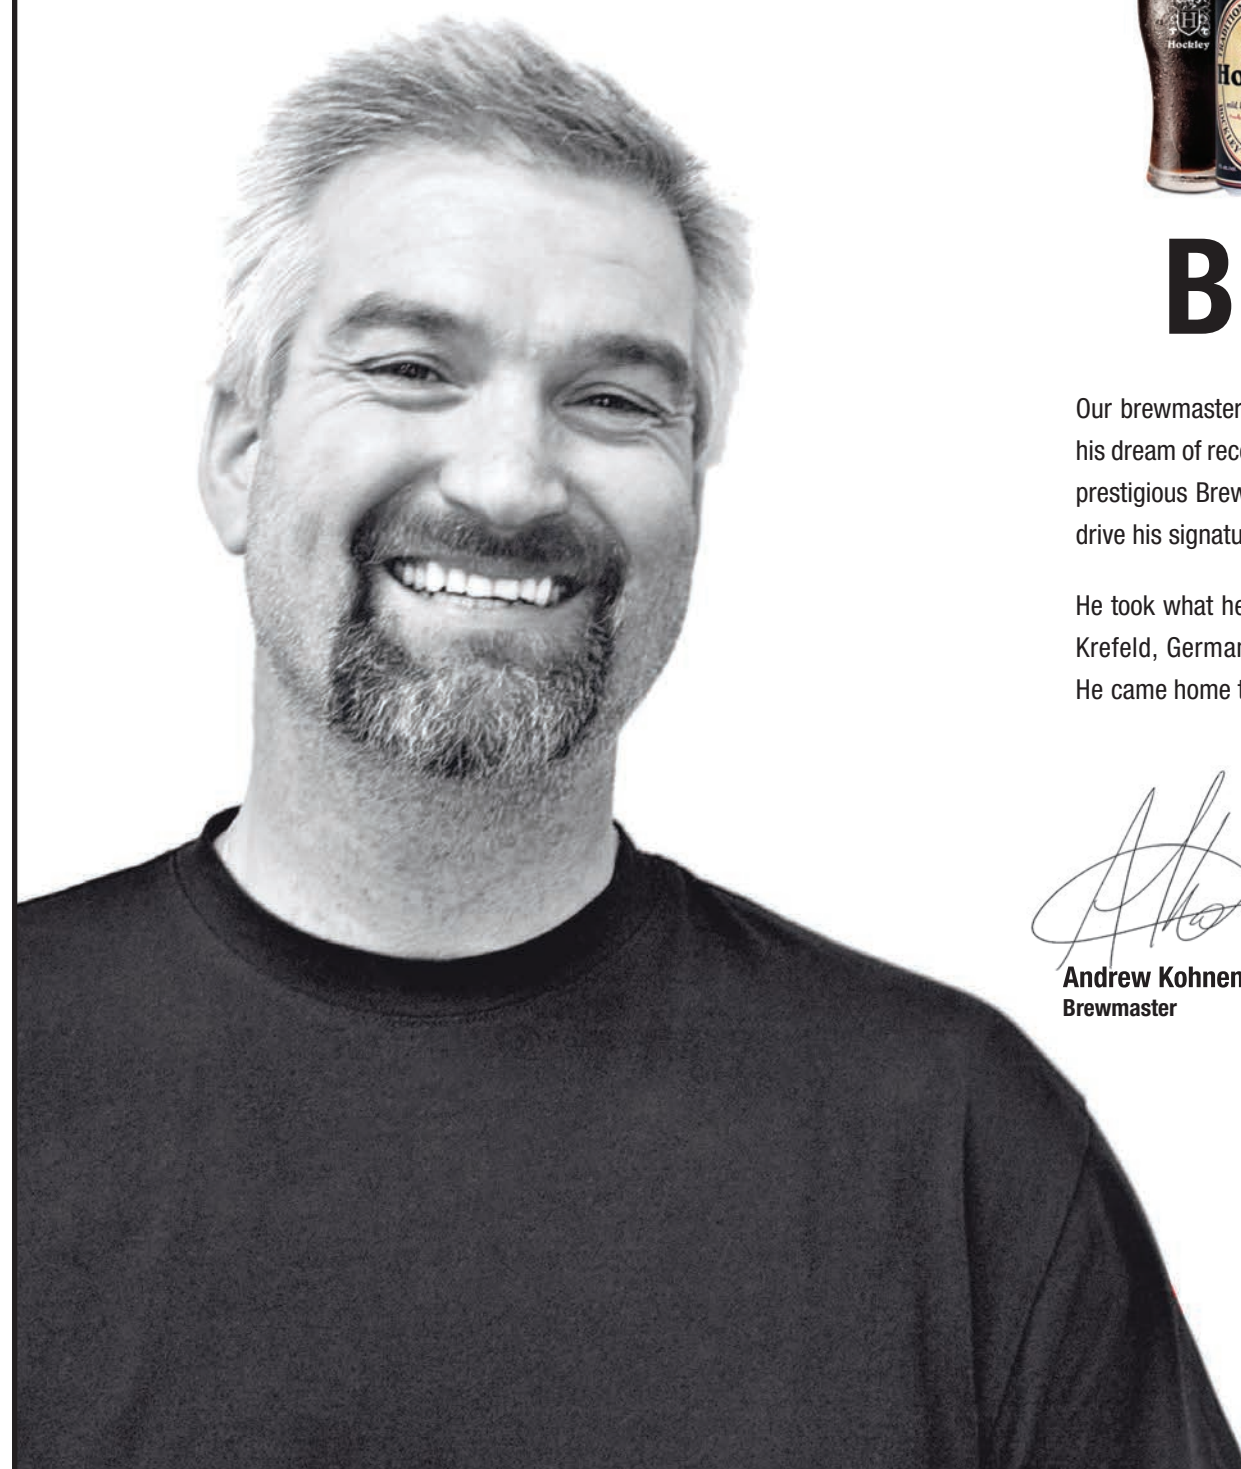

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

Mavericks defend OFSAA gold medal in wild ending

By Robert Belardi

There was only five minutes left on the clock, and the Mayfield Mavericks blanketed any doubts in their minds.

With possession of the ball, the girls left it all out on the line. Down 11-6 against a very strong Uxbridge team, a try would tie it all up.

"We kept grinding away and we kept getting closer to the goal line and closer to the goal line," head coach of the Mavericks, John Tutty described.

"I guess with about 30 seconds to go, a girl named Lily VandenHoek; who happens to be in Grade 9, scores a try and ties it up."

After a try, when attempting a conversion, the ball must be placed at the spot where the try was scored. This kick, was lined up just fifteen yards out from the sideline, making it between a 35-40-yard kick.

Orly Ferris stepped up to take the kick and nailed it right in between the posts.

Up by two, the referee told the girls last play. The Mavericks got possession of the ball and ran out of bounds, forcing the referee to blow the final whistle.

It was all over and the Mavericks, successfully defended the OFSAA medal the girls won in 2019.

"The Mayfield Mavericks would show tremendous determination, focus, and composure to win their games - none of them easy and all with myriad challenges. They persevered through the heat, through the demand on their bodies, the stress and fatigue, to do what they had set out to do remarkably only a few months prior - to win OFSAA," Tutty said.

It was a tough and grueling tournament. The Mavericks opened OFSAA with a 12-5 win over KCI. In their next game, the girls smashed Parkside 43-0.

Skipping over to the semi-finals, the girls shut-out Glebe 12-0, setting up a very tough final against Uxbridge. According to Tutty, Uxbridge, outsized his team, however, the athleticism from his group, proved to be the difference.

"Coaches (Dave) Wiwchar, (Pamela) Ireland, (Arta) Theo, (John) Tutty and (Rhys) Manning are so proud of what all the girls, regardless of their role on the team, accomplished this year in spite of everything stacked against them. They are looking forward to working with all those girls coming back next year and would like to send our best wishes to those graduating players," Tutty said.

A big congratulations goes out to the coaches and to all of the Mayfield Mavericks team, including: Jiya Badhan, Selah Bagoczky, Tess Baird, Clare Bamford, Maevae Barnard, Hannah Bell, Harman Bhatha, Bella Bistriteanu, Josie Bonsu, Eknoor Boparai, Adelle Byrski, Brooklynn Corbett,

Chloe Creighton, Kylie Czar, Olivia Dibua, Olivia Duke, Brittany Ennema, Orly Ferris, Jada Fowler, Jade Franklin, Samantha Gordon, Victoria Guile, Harleen Hunjan, Aya Husaini, Ginger and Rosalea Meek, Makayla Murray, Sarina Nasello, Ally Noonan, Maira

Opel, Evelyn Pacheco, Jane Paterson, Charlotte Rees, Kealey Sarjeant, Jade Scott, Gurnoor Sekhon, Natasha Stephens, Kennedi Stevenson, Sofie Turner, Lily and Mia VandenHoek, Jessica Vella and Linniah Williams on their gold medal triumph!

St. Andrew's College raised $51k in honour of their late soccer star

By Robert Belardi

Aurora, Ont., residents Shannon Bell and Cindy Leung on behalf of Amy Beecham, have raised $51,500 through GoFundMe in honour of the late St. Andrew's College soccer star, Ali Abubakar Gharib.

On May 16, Gharib was taken to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto in critical condition and on life support following a medical emergency. He remained at Sunnybrook and in care, up until his passing on June 5.

Funds raised will support funeral expenses, travel costs for Gharib's family to come to Canada from Kenya and all remaining funds, will be used to fund a program in Gharib's honour.

As per the written description on the GoFundMe page, Gharib came to St. Andrew's College from Kenya to be a student-athlete at the school.

"His teammates looked up to him for his technical prowess, and he has helped countless players better develop and hone their skills both on and off the pitch," the description on Gharib's GoFundMe page wrote.

It was back in 2017, his hard work and dedication to the sport was rewarded, when he received a call up at just 14 years old, to Kenya's U-20 national soccer camp. He was widely known as a creative attacking player and excelled as a part of Ascent Soccer.

As a part of Ascent's campus located in Uganda, he fought for a global scholarship, which provided Gharib the opportunity to come to St. Andrew's College.

"Over his three years in Canada, Ali was a creative force on the field, in the classroom, and on the stage participating in numerous drama productions. With his many soccer and academic skills, Ali was set to attend the University of Dayton in Ohio this September making him Ascent Soccer's first global scholar to earn an NCAA Division 1 soccer scholarship."

Beecham, who provided Gharib a place to live throughout his time in Canada, and Harp Athwal, will be the beneficiaries in ensuring that all funds are allocated accordingly.

To donate or to view the GoFundMe page, please visit gofundme.com and search "Honouring Ali."

Memorial tournament raises record of $13,000

York Regional Police Association (YRPA) announced a new record of $13,000 was raised at the 32nd Annual Memorial Golf Tournament.

More than 150 golfers hit the links at RedCrest Golf Club June 6, to help support the Salvation Army Central York Region and the YRPA Benevolent Fund. Each year, the York Regional Police Association Memorial Golf Tournament is held in memory of, and in honour of York Regional Police officers who have lost their lives in the line of duty.

"In the last eight years, this tournament has raised over $70,000 for the Salvation Army Central York Region," said Rob O'Quinn, President, York Regional Police Association. "And this year's tournament was no exception. The participation and generosity of our golfers and sponsors made this tournament a great success and enabled us to raise funds so the Salvation Army can continue to provide hope and support to children, families and individuals that need it most."

A portion of the funds raised from the June 6th tournament will also help to support York Regional Police Association's Benevolent Fund, which provides assistance to members of the police association and their families due to death, illness or injury.

"The last two years, we were unable to hold this tournament in person. But during the pandemic our members saw first-hand the challenges facing our communities, as well as the increased need for funding to support our local food banks, feeding programs, housing and shelters," said Mike Buchanan, Vice President, York Regional Police Association and Chair of the Memorial Golf Tournament Committee. "With this in mind, our YRPA Board and Executive committed to follow through with our annual support of Salvation Army Central York Region and in 2020 and 2021 we made a donation of $10,000 to Salvation Army Central York Region."

"The Salvation Army Central York Region is honoured to have a lengthy relationship with the YRPA and receive donations from the Annual Memorial Golf Tournament. With these funds we can enhance local services and programs that impact the lives of vulnerable community individuals and families," said Major Brian Bishop, Salvation Army Central York Region.

There were many sponsors who helped to make the event possible, including Buttcon, Reliable Insurance Brokers, Allegra Printing Aurora Newmarket, Plus VG Architects and The Co-operators. The association also received over 100 tournament donations for the raffle prizes and silent auction from local businesses, community partners and sponsors.

St. Paul's Church By Linda Blydorp

We invite you to join us in person for worship this Sunday at 10 a.m.

Our Pastor, Jeff Loach, will be leading us in worship. Jeff will be continuing his series in Revelation. This week's message is entitled, "The Powers That Be," from Revelation 13.1-10.

Following the worship service, you are invited to join us for coffee and goodies. Our live-streamed broadcasts are available directly on stpaulsnobleton.ca or on our YouTube channel each Sunday at 10 a.m. You can watch previous services or messages anytime, also on our YouTube channel youtube.com/stpaulschurchnobleton.

Our rebranded "Junction" children's ministry is meeting in person for all children up to Grade 6. If you would like to engage with this resource, tick the appropriate box on the connection card at stpaulsnobleton.ca/connect. If you are between the ages of 6 and 12, you'll want to keep the week of August 22-26 open for our amazing Bible Fun Camp. Stay tuned for further details.

Is there something we could pray about for you? Our "Drive-Thru" prayer event the first and third Wednesdays of the month from 4:30 to 6 p.m. is up and running again. Just drive on in and you will be directed to someone whose honour it would be to pray for you. You don't even get out of your car for this one. Our next "Drive-Thru" prayer event will take place Wednesday, July 6.

A LifeConnect Group, for both men and women, continues to meet on Tuesday evenings at the Church and on Zoom at 7:30 p.m. LifeConnect groups go deeper with questions related to the previous Sunday's message. It's a good way to do life together with other followers of Jesus, and inquirers, in a more intimate setting than you can get on a Sunday morning. For details of either group, be in touch with us via our online connection card, stpaulsnobleton.ca/connect.

Every Tuesday at 1 p.m., a group of women gather in the basement of the church to sew or tie quilts for people who could really benefit from them. If this might be of interest to you, we'd love to have you join us.

St. Paul's is coordinating with the King Township Food Bank in the distribution of "St. Paul's Love Bags." This coming Sunday (Father's Day & Indigenous Day of Prayer) at 11:15 a.m., Patricia Edmonds is our worship leader. She has been our worship leader several times now. The service is always informative, as Patricia uses her skills as a teacher. Afterwards, we socialize in what is known as the "quilting room."

Nobleton United Church has organized a "Foodless Food Bank" event the past two years on Canada Day July 1, 2-4 p.m. Plan to attend with your Canada Day colours and make a donation to help the Township of King Food Bank. Last year we raised $1,610. We hope to improve on that total this year. There will also be an opportunity to purchase some interesting reading material with the proceeds also for the Food Bank.

Last week, our guest speaker Doug Reid tackled the difficult subject of the Trinity: Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Jesus could only reach a certain number of people by himself, but if he filled his disciples with the Holy Spirit, they would be able to reach more people. Doug related that the great evangelist D.L. Moody once asked how can the air be removed from this drinking glass? Someone suggested a pump could suck out the air. Moody replied that that vacuum would break the glass. He suggested a better method: pour water into the glass. Then all the air is gone. In a similar way, Doug suggested that Christian life does not work in us by "sucking out a sin here and there," but by filling each of us with the Holy Spirit, which will help lead us in the right direction.

Remember last year at this time, we were tying orange ribbons around the railings of our church to remember and honour the 215 indigenous children's graves found outside a residential school in Kamloops? This month is National Indigenous History Month (established 2009) and also Pride Month. My granddaughter decided to colour her hair with pink and purple, being aware that it is Pride Month, to show support for the LGBTQ community and have some fun with her hair at the same time!

Our Zoom Coffee hour is Wednesday mornings 10 to 11 a.m. Let me know if you want to be included in the email blast or want to join via phone. We would love to have you drop in and say hello.

King's Corners

King City United
By Sheryl Sinka

On Trinity Sunday the message was relevant and important. How do we reconcile the pain and suffering that we see in the world today and why does God allow it to happen? The message spoke of hope and healing and our call to make a difference in the lives of others.

Rev. Bruce's closing words encouraged us seek the answer in Christ who "works in and through us so that our lives can make a difference to the suffering" in this world. "May we be among those who are saved to serve, healed to become healers." The entirety of the message is available on our website. To view the worship recording or read the entire sermon please visit kcuc.net

We are happy to welcome you back to in person worship and are grateful to be worshipping together again. We continue to ask that only those fully vaccinated attend the in person worship and that you continue to wear a mask and distance while in the church.

Our worship on Sunday begins at 10 a.m. and the worship will be recorded and available on our website kcuc.net later in the week for those unable to attend.

A King's Feast of Poetry

It's been a time of many changes and challenges and thus we can say, that never is a community in more need to express its poetic nature than at this time.

We are inviting poets to participate in a live poetry reading at Laskay Hall on June 23 from 7-9 p.m.

The idea for this event emerged from a WriteNow!@King meeting of authors who thought it would be a great idea to have a night where poets in King Township could share their own poems.

So far, the response has been tremendous. If you are interested in presenting or have any questions, please email Anna at amanna-santarossa@hotmail.com

The open mic, and your audience, await!

Sermon on Trinity Sunday by Rev. Erwin Martin:

"We try to explain the nature of God and fail miserably even though we've been at it for thousands of years. A friend of mine is having her congregation recite the Athanasian Creed at their services today. It's very long. The section on the Trinity takes 28 verses to say the same basic thing, that the Trinity is three persons, one God. Co-equal and co-eternal. To say more than that would take weeks of university lecture type classes.

"Since the earliest days of Christianity, we've understood God as the Trinity. Paul gave the Apostolic blessing, 'The Grace' in which he said, 'The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with all of you. But knowing the complicated doctrines of God isn't that helpful unless we first try to understand our experience of God. After all, Father, Son and Holy Spirit or alternatively, Creator, Redeemer, Sustainer are relational terms - they're how we interact with God.

"Pastor David Lose once said many years ago 'You can't fully or finally understand God without talking about relationship. God is so full of love that there has to be some way of talking about that love shared in and through profound relationships. The Trinity says that from the very beginning of time the dynamic power of love can only be captured by thinking of the love that is shared. And so, God's essential being has always been a giving and receiving and sharing of love that finally spills out into the whole of the universe. First through creation and God's series of covenants, then in the sending of Jesus to demonstrate in word and deed just how much God loves us, and now as the Spirit sustains us and bears witness to God's ongoing love for us and all creation.' The best way to know God is through our experience with God and with each other."
