Cost of rec. centre grows to $86 million

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

The cost of the new Township Wide Recreation Centre has grown by $10 million. King councillors approved the project's budget increase to $86 million. The additional $10.1 million will be funded by buy developer charges and a temporary funding strategy from the Township reserves.

The contract, for $73.2 million, was awarded to JR Cer-tus Construction.

Council further asked York Region to approve traffic lights at the entrance to the facility, at 1600 15th Sideroad.

The project has been in the works since 2018 with several design changes. With some $38.8 million in government funding, King decided to expand the facility's amenities to include a second surface and larger swimming pool.

The facility will have two NHL-size rinks, a six-lane lap and leisure pool and separate therapy pool, and multi-purpose community rooms and spaces. The Township is anticipating higher construction costs, which seem to be common across other municipalities. Council voted to increase the budget from $75.8 to $86 million. The Township also hopes to raise revenue through fundraising, naming rights and the sale of surplus lands.

Be a good neighbour

Clean Yards By-law 2016-68 sets out minimum standards for properties in the Township including some rules on litter, waste and property maintenance to help ensure that properties are safe, clean and attractive in relation to adjacent properties.

Reminder to Owners and Tenants:

- All properties must be kept free and clear of long grass and weeds.
- All properties are to be free of garbage, litter, yard waste, standing water, storage bins and demolition project material, and construction equipment.
- All properties need to be clear of derelict vehicles, including vehicles that are not currently licensed for operation.

The Clean Yards By-law is the Township's tool for addressing and responding to concerns about property maintenance. Bylaw Enforcement Officers work with property owners and tenants through education to achieve voluntary compliance, but alternatively orders may be issued to obtain compliance with the by-law standards.

For more information on Clean Yards please visit our website at www.king.ca.

Minister Lecce supported by PAs Barnes and Rae

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

The Ministry of Education has some top-notch leaders in place.

Minister and King-Vaughan MPP Stephen Lecce is boosted by Parliamentary Assistants Patrice Barnes, and Matthew Rae.

Parliamentary assistants support ministers with legislative and committee matters, including special projects and assignments that require dedicated leadership. They also play a key role in building relationships and communicating government initiatives across the province.

Doug Ford revealed the PAs last week, who will “support cabinet in delivering the government’s ambitious plan to build Ontario.”

Lecce is pleased to have these talented MPPs on side.

“We share a deep commitment to improving public education with an emphasis on getting students back on track in normal classrooms,” said Lecce. “I am excited to work with Parliamentary Assistants Patrice Barnes and Matthew Rae to ensure every student succeeds. Together, we will ensure kids catch up, benefit from positive mental health, and learn the life skills that lead to good-paying jobs.”

Ajax MPP Barnes has proudly represented Ajax students and parents on the Durham District School Board (DDSB)

as a Public School Trustee, a position she has held for nearly a decade since first elected in 2014. During her time on the board, she has served in key leadership roles, including chair of the education finance committee, the special education committee, co-chair of the diversity committee, and vice-chair of the board.

Passionate about inclusive education and improving learning outcomes for marginalized students and families, Patrice has participated in the DDSB Poverty Strategy and continues to champion high expectations for students of all socioeconomic backgrounds. Patrice was integral in the creation of innovative school programs like the Cypher Program for Black boys, the Empower Her Conference for Black girls, and the first Getting Ready for Kindergarten Program for Black students.

She is also a leader in education policy at the provincial and federal levels. She is a director with the Ontario Public School Board Association, was a member of the advisory group that authored Ontario Black Youth Action Plan, and contributed to the policy paper “Education Post-COVID” as part of the Ontario Education Partnership Roundtable. Federally, she is active on the Canadian School Board Association Antiracism Work group, addressing systemic barriers around education and advocating for the needs of marginalized students.

Parliamentary Assistants and MPPs Patrice Barnes and Matthew Rae join Stephen Lecce in the Ministry of Education.

Perth-Wellington MPP Rae grew up on his family’s dairy farm just north of Harriston. From a young age, he was instilled with a strong work ethic and the importance of service to one’s family, community, and country.

He is the third generation in his family to graduate from Norwell District Secondary School. He is also a graduate of The University of Guelph, and the Diplomatic Academy of Vienna.

In addition to working on the family farm, Matthew worked in the hospitality sector throughout high school. He worked in student services while attending the University of Guelph and was an assistant to an ambassador while attending grad school.

More recently, Matthew has worked for both John Nater, MP for Perth-Wellington, and Randy Pettapiece, the former MPP for Perth-Wellington, at separate times. Prior to being elected in June 2022, he worked for an education non-profit focused on Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics (STEM) and entrepreneurship.

Matthew is an active member of the community serving on multiple local boards and committees.

Accommodation needed for refugee sponsorship program

King for Refugees is committed to sponsoring refugee families. We have immediate need to secure accommodation for a family of 4 to 6 within an area of King that offers public transit.

As the landlord, you would have the satisfaction of knowing that you have contributed to the settlement of a displaced family who has left their foreign home to build a peaceful life as our neighbor in our community. The landlord may qualify for a tax benefit.

As part of KfR’s mandate to assist, they ensure that any housing costs are paid. In addition to the financial needs, they also provide social and emotional support to guide the newcomers toward independence.

If you wish more details, you have, or know of a rental property that will become available in the near future, please contact Dima Berchalli at 647-292-3059 or King4refugees@gmail.com

Editorial, Letters & Opinion

"A newspaper is the center of a community, it's one of the tent poles of the community, and that's not going to be replaced by websites and blogs."

- Michael Connelly

Our children are our ultimate legacy

"There can be no keener revelation of a society's soul than the way in which it treats its children."

- Nelson Mandela

H. Jackson Brown Jr. once said that we parents should live in a way that when our kids think of fairness, caring and integrity, they think of us.

There are many lasting bequests we can pass on to our kids. All we can do is try, and hope that we give them the qualities, characteristics and moral fibre to be decent, contributing members of society.

We hope they explore, experience, love and feel joy. We hope they have the intestinal fortitude to face and overcome obstacles. We hope they embrace change, opportunity and one another.

We time-limited humans often talk about leaving a "legacy" - heirlooms that are both tangible and intangible.

I'm not sure why we feel this way, other than perhaps it gives us a tiny sense of immortality. In a way, we all live much longer in the hearts and minds of those who love us.

I recently heard a great line from a TV show that indicated our best gift to our children are their siblings. When mom and dad are gone, they will still have one another to love, lean on and console.

Our trio will hopefully rely on one another's best qualities to succeed, to share, to achieve.

I told them they have a whole lifetime to celebrate one another's milestones - weddings, children, family gatherings and holidays.

The cycle continues as it always has, and always will.

Kids are like wind-up toy boats placed in a calm pond. Tighten the spring mechanism and let them loose. Watch as they navigate the waters, dashing to and fro. Sure, they will likely bump into things along the way, but ultimately, the ride is a fun one, while it lasts.

Of course, our children grow up quite quickly, almost too quickly. I blame it on the processed cheese slices and those delicious tiny white donuts.

Our 20-somethings seldom ask for advice. Sure, they're quick to ask for favours and other stuff, but advice, na, they think they know better.

My oldest daughter told me recently, she's an entrepreneur, a self-made woman who has to make her own destiny. She is juggling a couple part-time gigs, while trying to pursue her career options. She takes courses, she learns, she expands her horizons.

Mark Pavilons

Like Bigweld from that great animated film Robots, she sees a need, fills a need.

So far, she's doing well, and good for her.

She has also made some very strong bonds with friends from high school through university. I have no doubt these friendships will last a lifetime.

My highschooler wrapped up a challenging year and it's evident that the middle teen years can be tough ones. There are so many selfies to take!

I really can't comment on what it's like to be a young woman these days and it's been a few decades since I suffered from teen angst myself. I do sympathize and try to be supportive. We have her back. And she has good friends and that is valuable these days. Hopefully the bonds she's made will last.

My young man child is an interesting soul. He's smart as a whip (I wonder where he gets that from?) and absorbs information like a sea sponge. He casts a critical eye on society and its current limitations. He's not a rebel, but he's definitely one to go against the grain and maybe even buck convention.

Some great people in our history were just like that.

Kim and I help, but the world changes constantly, so much so that it's hard to keep up sometimes.

There are so many self-help books, videos and resources available to us. But maybe finding happiness is not our ultimate goal at all. It's like digging for gold your entire life and coming up empty.

We spend too much time counting money, calories and the minutes and hours that make up our days. How much time do we spend counting our blessings?

No, my friends, our purpose is not to seek out fame, fortune or happiness. It's to be useful, responsible, compassionate, empathetic, generous and more. It's about making a difference.

Just think how our society could blossom if we eliminated selfish, greedy pursuits, and concentrated on being better, raising better, contributing more and taking less.

My hope is that our children grasp these humanitarian concepts and carry them forward. They are the future. They may not fully realize the weight they will carry, but they are the movers, shakers, decision-makers, shapers and healers.

We only play a small part in all of that. Sure, we gave them life, something we love to throw in their faces when they upset us. And thanks to our high-end DNA they have some great internal ingredients. We pass on what we know and some of the qualities we wish we had ourselves. We give them a head start and maybe, if we're good, we give them hope.

I can't take much of the credit in our three little duckings. They got the best stuff from their mom.

I sometimes shed a tear at sad movies or TV shows when characters bid farewell to their parents on their deathbed. I never had the chance. In each case of losing a family member, I arrived shortly after their ascension.

I don't think I have many regrets and I didn't leave anything unsaid. My parents may not have been the smartest, richest and most successful, but they did pretty well if you ask me. I admit that I learned some very good, fundamental lessons from them, along with a good work ethic, sense of honesty, humility, love of family, love of nature and well, just plain love.

Loving our kids ain't always easy. But it's vital. And, in the end, they'll thank us for it.

Legacy, hell ya!

Letter to the Editor

Police, the Black Community and us

Did you hear about the apology given by Toronto's interim police chief James Reimer to the Black Community after race-based data was released?

The Black Community has realized for years that there is blatant discrimination in how many police treat the Black Community. Why do the police draw their weapons so readily against black males? Why do they treat them so differently from white males?

The Black Community is not convinced that anything will be different until the police are held accountable individually for their racist actions. Apologies are useless without systemic change.

This is personal for me as I have 3 biracial grandchildren. We all need to look at our own prejudice.

Public consultation on the Draft Plan of Subdivision took place in the form of virtual public meeting held by Council on November 2, 2020, which was a formal statutory meeting under the Planning Act. All comments received were considered in Municipal Planning staff reports and were made available to the public. The comments were identified, discussed, and where appropriate, addressed in the Conditions of Draft Plan Approval, Draft Plan, and Zoning By-law, which were presented at the Council meeting on June 27, 2022 and within Planning Division Report No. GMS-PL-2022-22. # Why Canada should be celebrated, not trashed

By Mark Milke

Comment

To understand why it's popular among the chattering classes to trash Canada at this time of year, it helps to understand the power of utopian thinking.

In past centuries, utopian movements sprang from religious impulses and secular imitations of the same nature.

Religious examples include communes which, in extreme forms, separated themselves from what they viewed as an impure world. The goal was utopian: to create a mini-heaven on earth.

Secular utopian movements included 20th-century Marxists – be it Russian revolutionaries in 1917 or Pol Pot's Cambodia and his Khmer Rouge killing fields in the 1970s – with plenty of other deadly examples in between. The common impulse was a utopian vision of radical economic equality.

Previous religious and secular utopian movements were anti-reality. Those utopians ignored human imperfection or diverse human abilities, desires and choices, but such dreamers at least focused on creating a future paradise.

In contrast, today's reflexive Canada critics apply utopian thinking to the past. They look back and see that Canada's first prime minister, John A. Macdonald, or some other historical figure was imperfect. Or didn't have 2022 views in 1867.

But why would we expect them to be flawless when we're not? Or expect a 19th-century politician to follow 21st-century policy prescriptions?

The result of such utopian thinking as applied to the past is the inevitable attempts to try to 'cancel' such figures, to send their history and praiseworthy accomplishments – the creation of a nation – down some 1984-like memory hole.

Utopianism is one mistake when looking in the rear-view mirror. Another is to see the flaws in history as definitive for a nation like Canada and not ask: How did we move away from past wrongs that were once routine in almost every civilization?

Slavery was ubiquitous in the ancient world until recent centuries. Slaves of every colour, creed and ethnicity were taken captive on every continent: Africa, Asia, the Americas, and even Europe and the North Atlantic regions. Historian Robert Davis has catalogued how one million Europeans were taken into slavery between 1530 and 1780 by slave traders who originated in North Africa.

Slavery was, tragically, once a reality worldwide. But why and how did it come to be abolished?

It was the result of people like British parliamentarian and lifelong abolitionist William Wilberforce and the British Empire post-1833, including pre-Confederation governors in Canada.

So why should Canada be celebrated this Canada Day?

Not because it was ever perfect or is now, but because pre- and post-Confederation Canada was ahead of the curve on that and other issues.

While Canada effectively abolished slavery in 1820, it took the Americans until President Abraham Lincoln's 1863 Emancipation Proclamation to declare slaves free and the Union's 1865

Civil War victory over the slaveholding south to make that declaration a reality.

Many other nations didn't abolish slavery until the first half of the 20th century. These included China, Malaysia, Morocco, Turkey and Kuwait. About a century and a half after Canada abolished slavery, Oman and Mauritania finally outlawed slavery – in 1970 and 1981, respectively.

Or ponder the emancipation of women. Canada granted the vote in federal elections to women in 1917. It took until 1944 in France, 1949 in China, 1950 in India, 2005 in Kuwait, and 2015 in Saudi Arabia – and only for municipal elections.

Or consider another evil in human history: the rampant mistreatment (or worse) of those different from the majority – which can be defined by colour, ethnicity, religion or language. Institutional discriminatory treatment was once routine (and still is in Quebec). What's remarkable is the move away from seeing people as defined by such characteristics and instead being treated as individuals in law and policy.

Canada was again ahead of the curve. Ontario passed laws against discrimination in employment and accommodation based on colour, ethnicity, religion or gender in the early 1950s. Yet some in 2022 claim that Canada is institutionally racist, conflating personal prejudice with systemic racism, when in fact, institutional reforms were enacted 70 years ago.

There are many reasons to celebrate Canada on Canada Day. Don't let the utopian perfectionists who think the past should have been perfect dissuade you from celebrating a tremendous accomplishment: Canada.

Over time, Canada has become a free and flourishing nation for ever-more peoples.

Letter to the Editor

Turnout a reflection of 'steady as she goes'

In the June 20 Sentinel Letter to the Editor regarding the low voter turnout in the last provincial election, Debbie Schafer writes that due to the low voter turnout in the last provincial election, very few believe in "our right to vote in our sacred democracy." She is incorrectly conflating the right to vote with the act of voting: it's not the same. Check out "compulsory voting" on the net.

If the incumbent government had suggested removing the right to vote, then I would expect a near 100% turnout at the polls, including way before then, an instant loud sustained vigorous public opposition.

My guess in the last provincial election is that the opposition did not make a compelling argument for a change of government, and that the low turnout implied, "steady as she goes."

Amendments approved for Nobleton property

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

A commercial property in Nobleton will enjoy some expanded uses, thanks to a recent ruling by King council.

The owners of the property at 12840 Highway 27 wanted the list of permitted uses expanded to include a child care centre, convenience retail, day spa and dry cleaning business. Some other uses, such as automotive retail and service were removed.

King's Official Plan designates the property as commercial and allows a range of retail and service uses, including drive-throughs.

The owner wanted to focus on other uses, including the child care centre, convenience and spa.

The site is home to Hambly House, a heritage structure which the owners vow to restore and retain.

Councillor Debbie Schaefer, a member of the Heritage Advisory Committee, said the restoration of the home is a long-term project. She hopes the building doesn't fall victim to vandals as it awaits improvements. She'd like to see it fenced off to protect it.

Mayor Steve Pellegrini said while he's not sure of the state of the building, the best way to protect it is to have it used, and have people in it.

Stephen Naylor, director of growth management, said staff will work with the owner and they could do some proper fencing to mitigate any problems.

Education workers deliver letters to MPPs Lecce, Mulroney

Front-line education workers delivered tens of thousands of letters to the premier and local MPPs recently.

Members of CUPE Locals 1196, 1734, 4340 – the frontline education workers of York Region District School Board and Conseil scolaire catholique MonAvenir – also delivered copies of their letters to King-Vaughan MPP Stephen Lecce at his King City constituency office. They were also dropped off at Caroline Mulroney’s constituency office.

Writing directly to the re-elected premier, frontline workers from public, Catholic, English, and French school boards across the province are calling for increased staffing in schools to guarantee that service improvements for students will be in place come September, as well as real wage increases above the rate of inflation to address low pay and problems with retention.

The letter to the premier of Ontario, written and signed by education workers, reads in part:

“Even before the pandemic, understaffing among education workers was a problem in Ontario schools. Many school boards can’t recruit and retain qualified education workers, in large part because wages are so low and jobs so precarious.

“During the COVID-19 pandemic, we have worked both in schools and off-site, at times risking our own and our families’ health and safety. We took these risks so that students could keep learning, schools would be kept secure, and families and communities had the support they needed.

“A 2021 survey of CUPE education workers found 51% of us worked at least one additional job to make ends meet. This number increases to 64.5% for sole-income earners. Roughly 75% of our members are women for whom the gender pay gap is widening further each year.

“Frontline education workers are the backbone of every community’s schools with most of us working second or even third jobs to make ends meet,” said Laura Walton, president of CUPE’s Ontario School Boards Council of Unions (OSBCU). “Yet we’re paid only $39,000 a year on average while we personally subsidize Ontario’s education system by doing unpaid work outside of regular hours because staffing levels are so low we can’t get all the work done on paid time.”

“Whether schools are provided enough money to stop damaging cuts and to ensure that all students, especially students with special needs, have the right supports and services is a political choice made by our elected representatives,” said Walton. “Ontario is the richest province in Canada and the money controlled by only 59 billionaires has increased by more than $100 billion during the pandemic. There’s no excuse for this government to cut corners on our children’s future or for keeping education workers on the brink of poverty.”

CUPE Locals 1196, 1734 and 4340 members – the frontline education workers of York Region District School Board and Conseil scolaire catholique MonAvenir – delivering their letters to Stephen Lecce’s constituency office.

The report Education Workers’ Wages in Ontario: The Impact of Ten Years of Cuts released this spring found that Ontario education workers are the lowest-paid in the sector, earning on average only $39,000 per year. It relied on new original data – survey responses from more than 16,000 CUPE education workers.

The Ontario School Boards Council of Unions (OSBCU) unites 55,000 members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) who work in the public, Catholic, English, and French school systems throughout Canada’s largest province. OSBCU members are educational assistants, school library workers, administrative assistants, custodians and tradespeople, early childhood educators, child and youth workers, instructors, nutrition service workers, audio-visual technologists, school safety monitors, and social workers.

Renewed subdivision proposal north of Nobleton

By Mark Pavilonis
Editor

A bid for 170 homes north of Nobleton is moving forward.

King council approved conditions of draft approval for the project.

Initial plans for the property were submitted back in 2019 and public meetings were held on the matter.

Since then, the property changed hands and is now owned by Nobleton 2715 Developments Ltd. The new owner is proceeding with the existing applications.

The previous owner appealed the application to the Ontario Land Tribunal but those were withdrawn by the current owner, who is working cooperatively with the Township.

Along with the 170 homes, there are plans for a park, stormwater management facility, wetland, woodlands and open space.

The 21-hectare property is located at the southeast corner of the 15 Sideroad and Highway 27. The land is designed as "Neighbourhood" and "Village Natural System" in the Township's Official Plan.

The lands are located within the Oak Ridges Moraine and within a settlement designation with both the ORMCP and Greenbelt Plan.

The Province's Places to Grow Plan promotes intensification and sets targets for municipalities to meet.

In order for the project to move ahead, the lands have to be rezoned to various residential zones, while some portions will remain as Environmental Protection.

Staff noted the southern boundary of the property is close to existing residential lots on Paradise Valley Trail. Staff believe this proposal conforms to criteria of the Official Plan.

Preliminary designs have been submitted by the applicant, and these will be reviewed during the draft plan approval stage.

Vegetation protection zones have been included.

Staff and York Region are looking to see if there's sufficient capacity to accommodate the project in Nobleton's sanitary water and sewer system.

The proposal also has an underground stormwater management facility, to be situated beneath a park.

There are road links planned at Paradise Valley Drive and a new intersection at 15th sideroad. The applicants have been working with Township staff on street design standards. The owner also submitted a heritage impact assessment, since there's a heritage home on the property. The proponent is asking to demolish the existing dwelling. Staff did note the outbuildings date to the 1970s and '80s and are not considered heritage.

Minister Lecce celebrates students

Stephen Lecce, Minister of Education, issued the following statement as the 2021-22 school year concluded:

"I could not be more proud of all the graduates across Ontario, young leaders who have the skills, values, and drive to succeed. Through your hard work, you have achieved an important milestone in your academic journey, and we know you will continue to do amazing things as you start your next chapter, wherever it takes you.

"As we look forward to September, we are fully committed to ensuring all students return to the classroom on time, with the full school experience that students deserve.

"We continue to prioritize and invest to ensure students catch up, benefit from positive mental health, and learn the critical life skills that will lead them to good-paying jobs. To ensure students get back on track, our government launched a province-wide tutoring program; expanded summer learning opportunities; and made in-school-year investments focused on improving reading, math and other foundational skills that will lead students to good-paying jobs.

"We will continue to prepare students for the world of work and the jobs of tomorrow, with a renewed emphasis on life and job skills.

"While our government continues its tireless work to pave clear pathways to success for all students, I want to thank all students, families and staff and wish them a safe and positive summer break with your loved ones."

Conservation Authority starts plans on newly acquired lands in Georgina

The Lake Simcoe Region Conservation Authority is asking the public to respect the no trespassing signs being posted along the boundaries of their newly acquired 890-acre property located in Georgina.

"This is the largest land transfer we've ever received, and we're thrilled. Of course, our ownership comes with significant responsibility," explains Lake Simcoe Region Conservation Authority Chief Administrative Officer, Rob Baldwin. "Our first order of business is to take an inventory of the natural features on the property and to develop a management plan to guide our custodianship in perpetuity. Given the property's size, we expect this to be a multi-year project, so we are asking for the community's patience and cooperation while we embark on this work," Baldwin added.

In the meantime, the "Lake Simcoe Conservation Preserve," as it will be temporarily called until a permanent name is established, will be off limits to the public until the conservation authority can facilitate safe access, protect sensitive ecological species, and establish the property's long-term future.

If members of the public are interested in being kept up to date on the status of the work on these new lands, they can sign up for updates through the conservation authority's website.

It is the mission of the Lake Simcoe Region Conservation Authority to collaborate to protect and restore the lake Simcoe watershed with innovative research, policy and action.

POG honours contributions of York residents

It was an amazing day at Pickering College in the Town of Newmarket to launch this year's 13th Annual Portraits of Giving tour, with an outstanding group of 2022 Honourees who keep giving back to help our community.

Portraits of Giving celebrates individuals from across nine York municipalities who exemplify the importance of corporate and social responsibility. This year, it's celebrating the courage, resilients and perseverance of 17 more outstanding honourees, including front line workers.

The theme this year is not only about inspiring the community to give back, but also how are you going to "live more" as we pull ourselves out of the past few pandemic years.

Organizer and photographer Karen Merk said they're pleased to partner with Pickering College who hosted the opening event. Student singer Vanessa wang sang songs of home for everyone, including a special tribute for the families of the Ukraine.

This year POG made its reception donations to the Red Cross to support families of the Ukraine.

This year's honourees included:

Linda Dennis, Paramedic Helen Galanis, YRP Sergeant Mina Rahravan & Susan Gibbs, Peter Sturup, Beth Cowper-Fung, Pamela & Harry Harakh, King's own Susan Helsop-Porter, Julia Suppa, Marco Iacovetta, Mitch Marner & Family, Marjorie Niemi & Family, Suraj Bansal, Dean & Karen Woods, Shanta Sundarason.

Thank you for all that you do for our community!

Merk urges residents to follow and "stay with us as we begin this year's inspiration from their stories and portraits of courage, perseverance and hope."

For more, visit <https://www.merk-photography.com/>

These are the people behind the stories that make up this year's Portraits of Giving celebration.

The second step is to contact the Nobleton and King City Garden Club with your nomination. Make sure that you have the homeowner's name, home address, email address, and permission to add their property to the tour and to take a picture of their front garden.

Send in your nomination by July 10 to nobletonkingcitygardenclub@gmail.com

The Garden Club will consider all nominations and contact the homeowner to let them know when they can expect a sign on their front garden if their garden is chosen for the tour.

Summer exhibitions at the McMichael Canadian Art Collection

The McMichael Canadian Art Collection is pleased to announce its summer suite of exhibitions; three exceptional solo presentations by women artists who share a passionate love of colour: Wanda Koop, Canada's most masterful living painter of light and luminescence; Gathie Falk, now 94, a trailblazer across media whose work evokes the uncanny in the everyday; and Elisapee Ishulutaq in her first museum survey, whose vibrant large-scale drawings of daily life in Nunuvut mark her as one of Canada's most innovative artists.

Taken together, these retrospective exhibitions illuminate the extraordinary bodies of work that have been created assiduously over decades by some of Canada's most perceptive artists – working in and out of the limelight – the full breath of which will be on display at the McMichael this summer.

The McMichael also welcomes artist Jen Aitken to the Thomson Shack for the RBC Emerging Artist Residency.

Wanda Koop (b. 1951) is one of Canada's leading painters, her works appearing in the galleries of Toronto, Montreal, Los Angeles, New York and Houston. Though she has had a more than 40-year career as an artist, the presentation at the McMichael catches Koop in a late-career moment of glory as she continues on her bold path of experimentation.

Based in Winnipeg, Koop has created a body of work that attests to her astute observations of contemporary life, responding to such issues as climate change, Indigenous land rights, and the digital media environment in which we are immersed, as well as the transcendent beauty of the natural world.

Since her earliest days, Koop's work has engaged with abstraction, as she stripped away inessential detail to create strikingly pared down compositions and combinations of colour. In her more recent paintings, though, Koop is increasingly exploring colour and light as subjects in themselves, masterfully engineering her canvases through the application of dozens of layers of deftly controlled pigment. The resulting surfaces seem to glow from within, suggesting euphoric states of vision.

Through the arrangement of these recent works into an ensemble of rare beauty, Koop introduces visitors to realms of light as never before, offering a rare glimpse into her deepest sources of inspiration. In addition to her paintings on canvas, the exhibition also includes two of her new Light Sticks installations – suites of long, thin, shaped works that bear strips of intense colour and patterning, arranged sculpturally against the wall – a breakthrough by the artist into the third dimension.

"Throughout her dazzling career, audiences have come to know Koop primarily as a figurative artist," says Chief Curator Sarah Milroy. "But abstraction is a painter's language that runs throughout all of Koop's works. This show explores her recent push even deeper into the frontier of pure colour and light. Here we see Koop creating layers of colour to bottomless effect, evoking expanses of light that evoke her euphoric experience of the beauty of nature."

At age 94, Gathie Falk is one of Canada's most beloved and esteemed artists, long known and celebrated for her pioneering achievements in painting, performance art, ceramics, and installation art. A trailblazer on all fronts, she has brought a rich sensibility to bear on her observations of the everyday, perceptions often tinged with the surreal and the uncanny.

From her fruit piles to the landmark performances of her early career, to her extended pursuit of themes and variations in her painting practice – expanses of water dazzling with light, riotous flower borders set against cement sidewalks, night skies pierced by starlight or obscured by clouds – she finds the wondrous in the routine world around her. This exhibition summarizes an extraordinary career, opening with a display of her ceramic fruit piles, with subsequent sections devoted to her early work in performance, ceramic still life, and selections from her Theatre in Black and White and Colour, works which extend her notions of theatrical presentation into the realm of oil on canvas.

The show continues with a gathering of Falk's flower border paintings and a number of works from her Pieces of Water series, a sumptuous immersion in her lush painterly style and lavish use of colour. Another section will gather her sculptural investigations of shoes and clothing in her art, often rendered in serial form.

Finally, the exhibition concludes with a presentation of Falk's Night

Sky paintings from the 1970s and 1980s, accompanied by her ghostly Reclining Figure (after Henry Moore): Stella, a major sculptural work from 1999 that evokes the absent figure. This concluding gallery evokes the mysteries we face at the end of our days as we search the heavens, and the wonder at life that has always underpinned Falk's art making.

The exhibition is accompanied by a major publication, including essays by McMichael Chief Curator Sarah Milroy, Vancouver curator and writer Daina Augaitis, artists Liz Magor and Landon Mackenzie, writer Nancy Tousey, and art historians John Geoghegan and Jocelyn Anderson.

This will be the first solo museum exhibition of works by the exceptional Inuit artist Elisapee Ishulutaq (1925–2018), focusing on her epic works on paper in pencil and oil stick. Her works immerse us in the experience of daily life in her home community of Pangnirtung, located on a spectacular mountainous fjord on Baffin Island, Nunuvut, capturing the community's way of life in vibrant colour.

Ishulutaq's drawings are bold in their minimalism, her high-contrast forms evoking the dramatic mountain-scapes that surround her community. Large panoramic drawings provide holistic views of life in the hamlet of Pangnirtung, while smaller works evoke the dazzling world of birds in flight, boats at sea, or the inky back expanses of the night sky in the depths of winter. Intriguing, too, are her hybrid scenes in which Arctic realities are counterbalanced by imagery from an imaginary south – and the unexpected appearances of elephants or leafy trees.

Ishulutaq's works draw us deeply into her way of seeing, transmitting an indelible view of life in the Arctic seen through her unique lens. This exhibition extends the longstanding commitment of the McMichael Canadian Art Collection to the art of Canada's North, bringing to light an artist whose accomplishments have yet to be fully celebrated.

The exhibition will be accompanied by a publication that will include an introductory essay by McMichael Chief Curator Sarah Milroy, a lead essay by Inuit writer and artist Tarralik Duffy, an essay by art historian John Geoghegan, and a contribution from Darlene Wight, Curator of Inuit Art at the Winnipeg Art Gallery, who knew Elisapee Ishulutaq during her lifetime.

Through July 3, the McMichael welcomes Toronto-based artist Jen Aitken to the Tom Thomson shack as part of the RBC Emerging Artist Residency at the McMichael. During the residency, Aitken will use the Thomson Shack as a studio space in which to create a site-specific installation that responds to the site's architecture. Visitors will be able to meet Aitken and engage with the work in progress on June 26 and July 3 when she will lead drop-in drawing workshops with visitors in the Shack. The McMichael will also host a virtual Artist Talk on July 5 where Aitken will be in conversation with Chief Curator Sarah Milroy.

Dangerous driving is on the rise

Ontario drivers say they aren't feeling as safe as they used to on highways, and they're seeing more dangerous driving behaviours on the roads.

A new study by DIG Insights on behalf of CAA South Central Ontario (CAA SCO) indicates that 98 per cent of Ontario drivers witnessed unsafe driving behaviours in the past year – up three per cent last year. This increase in unsafe driving behaviours could also explain why six per cent fewer drivers are feeling safe on our roads, specifically on highways with speed limits of 100 km/h.

"Ontario police services continue to report significant amounts of speeding, stunt and aggressive driving," said Michael Stewart, community relations consultant, Government and Community Relations, CAA SCO.

About half of respondents point to speeding as a big problem in Ontario which is no surprise considering the most common behaviour seen was speeding, followed by aggressive driving, unsafely changing lanes and distracted driving.

In total, 58 per cent admitted to engaging in dangerous driving behaviours. Forty-three per cent of Ontario drivers admitted to speeding, 17 per cent say they've driven distracted, eight per cent say they've made unsafe lane changes and six per cent have driven aggressively.

Nobleton United Church Foodless Food Drive

By Earle Laycock

With groceries, lodging and transportation costs soaring, King Township folks are finding their budgets being challenged as never before. Especially hard hit are those struggling to make ends meet. Many turn to our King Township Food Bank for help.

For the third year, Nobleton United Church has organized a fundraiser on Canada Day to raise money to help the King Township Food Bank. To add an extra element of fun, Schomberg and Nobleton Church parishioners were asked to donate books for a book sale. All donations and funds from the book sale will be forwarded to the King Township Food Bank.

With a tent in front of Nobleton UC, even those driving by would stop and make a donation or buy some books. Rev. Evelyn McLachlan, one of the organizers, was delighted that despite Canada Day being on a weekend and many being away, the event still managed to raise over $1,700.

Thanks to our local politicians who took time out of their busy Canada Day activities to drop by including: Mayor Steve Pellegrini and MPP Stephen Lecce. MP Anna Roberts was not able to attend in person due to her battle with COVID but sent her assistants instead. Special kudos to MPP Stephen Lecce who arrived just in time to roll up his sleeves and help dismantle our tent!

Thanks to organizers Rev. McLachlan, Linda Olsen and Fran Bones for their help, to the high school volunteer Andrea, to Leona Zadoyko of King Township Foodbank and to all who supported this worthy event through donations and book purchases.

Missed the fundraiser? You can still donate by checking out the King Township Food Bank website at: www.ktfb.ca or call 905-806-1125.

Eric Lamaze's Chacco Kid retired from competition

Eric Lamaze has announced the retirement of Chacco Kid from competition.

The 16-year-old chestnut Oldenburg gelding (Chacco Blue x Come On) sustained an injury while competing in the 1.50m ATB Cup on Sunday, June 21, at the Spruce Meadows 'National' tournament in Calgary, AB.

"Chacco" was landing and turning from the double Rolex vertical when one of his hind feet clipped the front foot," explained Lamaze. "Normally, the front shoe would come off but in this case it didn't. He tried to step out of it, resulting in an injury to his check ligament. At 16 years old, it's too much to expect him to come back and jump again. Instead, we're looking forward to giving him a nice retirement in the field in Belgium where we can see him every day and enjoy reliving many memories."

Lamaze discovered Chacco Kid through Marcel Delestre, who was training the Colombian show jumping team at the time. Chacco Kid was imported from Colombia and joined Lamaze's string in the winter of 2016. The pair began showing at that year's Winter Equestrian Festival in Wellington, FL.

Partnered with Chacco Kid, Lamaze enjoyed numerous victories around the globe and represented Canada at the 2018 World Equestrian Games in Tryon, NC. For Lamaze, his most meaningful win with Chacco Kid came in the $500,000 RBC Grand Prix of Canada, presented by Rolex, during the 2019 Spruce Meadows 'National' tournament in Calgary. It was Lamaze's first competition since publicly revealing that he had been battling a brain tumour.

"My favourite memory with Chacco was winning the RBC Grand Prix when I wasn't well," recalled Lamaze. "The win was 70 percent horse and 30 percent rider. He knew he had to take care of me and seemed to rise to the occasion."

In addition to Lamaze, several riders for his Torrey Pines Stable also campaigned the horse with impressive results including Kara Chad and Beth Underhill of Canada and Nina Mallevaey of France.

"Having success with four different riders over the course of his career is

Eric Lamaze and Chacco Kid following their win in the $133,700 CANA Cup at the 2019 CSIO5* Spruce Meadows 'Masters' tournament in Calgary, AB.

Pacers draft two Canadians

By Robert Belardi

Not only did the Indiana Pacers marvel at the talent of all four Canadians available at this year's NBA Draft, the organization's front office stuck to their guts and brought a few of them on board.

With the sixth overall selection, the Pacers selected Montreal, Que. native Benedict Mathurin and then with the No. 31 overall pick, the Pacers went on to select Aurora native Andrew Nembhard.

For the fourth time in NBA Draft history, four or more Canadians were selected in a single year. With the seventh overall selection the Portland Trail Blazers took London, Ont. native Shaedon Sharpe and with the No. 32 pick, the Orlando Magic snagged Mississauga native Caleb Houstan.

Mathurin, a 6-foot-7 guard out of Arizona is coming off an incredible season. Mathurin averaged 17.7 points, 5.6 rebounds and 2.5 assists per game. He was named Pac-12 player of the year and even made the All-Pac-12 first-team at the end of the season. The highly touted wing, will surely be quite an impact player.

And the same goes for Nembhard. The 6-foot-5-point guard was named a Bob Cousy Point Guard Award finalist and helped lead the Gonzaga Bulldogs to the No. 1 ranked team in all of the NCAA last season.

When he transferred from the Florida Gators to the Gonzaga Bulldogs, it was seemingly the perfect fit for Nembhard. In 32 games this past season, Nembhard averaged 11.8 points, 3.4 rebounds and 5.8 assists.

With these draft picks, the Pacers will now house four Canadian players on their roster.

Both Mathurin and Nembhard will join Toronto native Oshae Brissett and Dominican Republic-born guard who was raised in Montreal, Chris Duarte.

So, what comes next for the Indiana Pacers?

According to reports ahead of the 2022 NBA Draft, the Pacers were testing the trade market involving star centre Myles Turner and guard Malcolm Brogdon.

After trading versatile forward Domantas Sabonis in a six-player deal with the Sacramento Kings at the trade deadline last year, it was clear to everyone the Pacers are interested in rebuilding.

The Pacers in the deal received key pieces including point-guard Tyrese Haliburton and shooting guard Buddy Hield.

Turner, who missed the second half of the regular season due to a stress fracture in his left foot, is heading into the final year of his four-year, $80-million contract.

Brogdon, who suffered with a right-Achilles injury for most of this season, was expected to be on the move last week, as per ESPN senior NBA insider, Adrian Wojnarowski.

By selecting Nembhard, it looks more like a sure-fire decision Brogdon will be out on his way with Haliburton expected to run Rick Carlisle's offence and it might be safe to presume, Andrew Nembhard will come off the bench to run the second unit.

But then again, anything can happen. If Brogdon ends up staying, it could be a lethal backcourt, should he be able to stay healthy. Nembhard would further enhance his game and he will be able to learn from two very gifted floor-generals.

exceptional," said Lamaze. "His personality, his heart, and his carefulness allowed him to manoeuvre some of the biggest courses in the world."

Chacco Kid is owned by the Chacco Kid Group, consisting of Rick and Sara Mershad, Ludi and Carol Sollak, and Andy and Carlene Ziegler.

"It's sad to see a horse that has done so much for so many riders leave the sport this way," concluded Lamaze. "I'm very sorry for Carlene and Andy, Carol and Ludi, and Sara and Rick for this sad ending. It's the sport and we have to live with it, just like athletes have career-ending injuries in hockey and basketball and other sports. There are accidents that, even with the best care, we cannot prevent. On days like these, we should remember and celebrate this extraordinary horse and all that he accomplished."

"It has been an honour to be part of Chacco Kid's career," said Carol Sollak. "He has the biggest heart and is always happy to see everyone who walks into the barn. Chacco is a competitor and thrives on winning. He and Eric had such a successful career together and, after Eric's retirement, Chacco had the same drive to win with his new riders. I have many fond memories traveling the world to watch Eric and Chacco. I will miss seeing him in the show ring, but I will always be there with oranges and bananas and a heart full of love for him."

McGrath set to fulfill 22-year dream

By Robert Belardi

Vicky McGrath began running in the mid '90s.

She began a personal journey of her own, with a goal of managing her weight. She joined the Markham Centaurs Running and Walking Club and eventually began running marathons.

"I had actually just done my first marathon in 1998. And then, I quickly realized that marathons were probably not what I wanted to do," McGrath laughed, in an exclusive interview with the King Weekly Sentinel.

"So, I started to look at other things that included running, but weren't limited to running. So, I started to do research into triathlon, and that's how my interest in triathlon actually came about."

She came across the Ironman World Championships in her research and learned more about the "holy grail" of the competition that takes place in Kona, Hawaii.

When McGrath and her husband planned their wedding, in 1999, they decided to make it a destination wedding right in Kona. Not just for the beautiful beaches, the thrill of the volcanoes or the weather. It was about the Ironman World Championships.

"It was a wedding coordinated around watching the Ironman, as opposed to going there to get married," McGrath chuckled.

"We watched the Ironman Championships, then we got married afterwards."

Gazing upon the will of the athletes and the energy of the crowds, McGrath began envisioning what she wanted in her future. From that point onward in 1999, she had set out one goal. That was, to compete in this Ironman World Championships in Hawaii one day.

She started off small, easing her way into the swing of things. Then in 2002, she competed in her first Ironman in Wisconsin and then again in Florida in 2003.

Following the birth of her daughter, she took some time off to ramp up her training again and in 2006, she signed up for the competition right here in Canada.

But an incident during training forced McGrath and her family to take one step back. "I crashed my bike, sustained a concussion, punctured my lung, broke some ribs and was unable to complete my Ironman in 2006. Despite my pleading, the doctor wouldn't let me go. I had to defer the race to 2007, where I in Ironman Florida."

Of course, with her family concerned about her health, McGrath involved herself in smaller triathlon events. The goal had remained the same, but she refrained from fully giving it her all to protect herself from any further incidents.

McGrath is gearing for the Ironman World Championships in Kona, Hawaii on Oct. 6.

To contact McGrath for any information about her charity work, you may contact her at her business email vicky@heretohelpcare.ca.

Happy belated Canada Day! Even though it started out to be a rainy day, the sun came out and shone the rest of the day. Thank you to all who came and supported our third Food Le$$ Food Drive in support of the King Township Food Bank.

Things are getting tougher for those living near the poverty line so when we are able to help KTFB out with any kind of donation, that's a great way to celebrate the blessings of being Canadian! We were able to raise over $1,700! We had a few people drive by and then come back to check out the books and find out what we were doing. Thank you to all the volunteers. Your help is greatly appreciated!

This past Sunday we were blessed again with the worship led by Doug Reid from Lefroy. He is a Licensed Lay Worship Leader in the United Church of Canada and helps out a number of congregations.

He spoke about the disciples going into the region "two by two." The power of the Holy Spirit was with them as they preached, taught and healed. Doug told some stories about reaching out beyond your comfort zone as you share your faith. In his sermon he said "We need to get outside these four church walls to see the needs that Jesus saw. See the needs that are present today. Jesus also sent out the 72 to do these works of ministry because you don't really know what real joy is until you have put your faith and beliefs into practice. It's one thing to believe something with your head, it's another for that belief to take residence in your heart. And that only happens when you are actively practicing what you preach." Good words for all of us.

This coming Sunday, July 10, another Licensed Lay Worship Leader, Sandra Kirby from King City, will be leading worship with us. Sandra has been with us before and we always look forward to her ministry ... and who knows, she may even bless us with a special piece of music!

Schomberg is having a Seniors Lunch on Tuesday, July 12 at 11:30 a.m. at St. Mary Magdalene Church. If you do not wish to attend in person, you are still able to order your meal and it will be delivered in the afternoon so you can enjoy it for supper! Before lunch, Phyllis Vernon will present a travelogue about the natural landscape and cultural history of Belize, which is on the NE coast of Central America.

Lunch is a BBQ sausage served with baked beans, coleslaw, a roll with butter followed by a zucchini-chocolate cake and ice cream along with coffee or tea. Cost is a donation. If you would like to attend or receive a delivered lunch please call Sheila Kelly (905-939-2315).

On July 17 there is a Congregational Pot Luck Picnic at Jack and Kim Campbell's. We gather at 11 a.m. and have a hymn sing led by the Front Porch Harmony group. The church will supply hamburgers and hot dogs, lemonade and iced tea. Attendees are asked to bring something such as a dessert or salad to help make the lunch delicious and a lawn chair.

There is a pool, so feel free to bring a bathing suit and your own towel. For directions, please contact Kim at 905-939-2992. If there are any special food requirements, please bring what you need.

On July 24, Sandra Kirby returns to lead worship. On July 31, Doug Reid will return as our worship leader.

Our Zoom Coffee hour is Wednesday mornings 10 to 11 a.m. Let Nancy Hopkinson know if you want to be included in the email blast or want to join via phone. We would love to have you drop in and say hello. Her contact info is 905-859-0761 or nancy@hopkinson.ca

Hope everyone has a safe week. May you be surprised by God's blessings!

Ronald McDonald Houses provide what they can, and here is a chance for us to help them. ### St. Andrew's By Kathy Patterson

All are invited to join us this Sunday, July 10 at 10:30 a.m. for our Sunday morning worship service. Alison Agnew is with us over the summer and in addition to leading us in worship on Sundays, Alison will be providing Special Thursday Summer Worship Services at 7:30 p.m. starting this Thursday, July 7. The next date is July 21 and then August 4 and 18. These 4 special services give weekend cottagers and those who might not be able to attend on Sundays throughout the summer, opportunities to worship. Alison is attending Knox College, U of T and has been approved as a Candidate for Ministry by the Oak Ridges Presbytery! Congratulations Alison!

Last Sunday, Alison started a new series on the book of Joshua (the next leader of the Israelites after Moses). Joshua was constantly told by the Lord God to be courageous, and Joshua trusted and obeyed! Joshua 1:9 "Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid; do not be discouraged, for the Lord your God will be with you wherever you go."

If you are accustomed to worshipping with us online, please check our website at standrews-kingcity.ca. We will not be recording our summer services, but will have links to some churches who will be recording or live streaming. We invite you to worship with us when you are able. For in-person services, we encourage the use of masks for everyone's safety.

Philippians 4:6,7 has become a favourite verse especially in these uncertain, anxious times: "Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." We are available to pray with you or for you, in confidence. Contact Deana Weyman, 905-833-5375 or Kathy Patterson at 905-833-0391.

All Saints Anglican Church By Patrick Gossage

Note Summer hours: Eucharist in main church with music is now at 10 a.m. – Eucharist in chapel remains at 8 a.m.

Ambassadors of God – Rev. Erin Martin's sermon last Sunday on Christ's instructions to his disciples in Luke 10:

"In Luke Jesus talks to the disciples about what they'd encounter when they went out into the world to share the good news. Jesus was preparing a congregation sized group of about 70 – All Saints at its best – to go out and be his ambassadors.

"He told them, 'I am sending you out like lambs into the midst of wolves.' God's work is never easy. Those first ambassadors didn't have the same resources that we have – there was no church, there weren't any books, there were no training schools, no seminaries. In fact, they were told to carry no purse, no bag, no sandals – just go, with only God's message to use in their ministry.

"Jesus was wanted his ambassadors to depend on faith and the Spirit. I've learned that when it comes to "doing" ministry, I build relationships with people and work with them to deepen their own relationship with God.

"Jesus instructed the disciples to find people who were open to God's message of love, and then stay with them - eat with them, become a part of their family – listen to the stories of their lives. Ministry is always about relationships. It is about our relationship with God and with each other. We can't accomplish nearly as much without those relationships in place. My whole goal in coming here is simply to love you...I believe the rest will fall into place... but my first order of business is to know and love you.

"We're all called to love each other in such a way that people will say – 'you know, they talk about this loving God of theirs, and they live like they love each other – so maybe there's something true about what they're saying. Maybe I should try to get to know this God and see for myself what that's all about.'

"Jesus is looking for ambassadors to represent him today, in our world.. He's looking for people who are ready to love others, even in hard times, to build relationships and welcome all people into the family of God; people who make those relationships signs of God's loving work in the world.

"Jesus sent out a congregation sized group of people to spread the news. We can be the next group to be sent out."

WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS.

BUT HE DOES!

Our brewmaster, Andrew Kohnen, threw away a successful career in logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

Hope you had a safe and joy-filled Canada Day. Thank you to those of you who came to support Nobleton UC's third Food Le$$ Food Drive on Canada Day.

Realizing how tough it is for so many, we are grateful for the generosity as they were able to raise over $1,700 for the King Township Food Bank. If you were unable to get there, you can always go to their website and make a donation!

Even though we were without music this past Sunday, our fearless worship leader, Doug Reid, led us in some singing a cappella and then changed one of the hymns. Doug is a Licensed Lay Worship Leader from Lefroy. He has been with us a number of times and always has a good message in his sermon with us.

This week he used the scripture from Luke's Gospel about Jesus sending the disciples out into the area, two by two, to teach, heal and preach. The stories he shared were inspiring.

He began the sermon by talking about superheroes and what their powers were. He asked the congregation what kind of superpower did they wish they had when they were children. He said that it is fun to think about because no matter who we are we want to believe there are untapped powers within us and that hopefully we might be able to use them when needed.

I liked that he said "the bottom line is that we all have untapped super powers that have been given to us by God. Powers or gifts that we need to understand and use as God has intended. In our Bible passage today (Luke 10: 1-11, 16-20), Jesus sent out 72 of his followers as an advance team to prepare the people for his ministry. And he gave them power - super power, really - to heal diseases and cast out demons and to fight Satan. He also gave them the authority to preach about the kingdom of God. And when the disciples got back, they felt like superheroes!"

Those who helped with the Food Le$$ Food Drive were all super-heroes! When you let someone in line before you ... you're a super-hero! When you offer to drive someone to an appointment ... you're a super-hero! What is your super-hero power that God has blessed you with?

This coming Sunday, July 10, another Licensed Lay Worship Leader, Sandra Kirby from King City, will be leading worship with us. Sandra has been with us before and we always look forward to her ministry ... and who knows, she may even bless us with a special piece of music!

Township curbside giveaway days

King Township has organized "Curbside Giveaway Days" on the 3rd Saturday in July, August, September and October and those dates are:

Saturday, July 23; August 20; September 17; October 22.

Starting at 7 a.m. that particular day, take any unwanted items to the curb and mark it "free" for others to pick up and to take to a good home.

Remove all leftover items by 5 p.m. on that day to help keep King Township attractive. This is a great way to recycle and clean out some of that extra stuff or to get out and find some helpful and wanted items at a bargain price - free!
