Local all-candidates' debates on tap

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

Residents will have a chance to see their municipal candidates in action, at three local debates.

Concerned Citizens of King Township (CCKT) is offering back-to-back events next week.

CCKT's mandate is to keep residents informed and it's often been said that municipal governments have a more significant and direct impact on our lives than provincial and federal governments. The local King government, made up of seven elected officials, carries forward community vision and priorities in planning thriving communities in the settlement areas, hamlets and rural areas.

The municipal government also plays a key role in providing municipal services and nurturing business and employment opportunities through planning and special initiatives. In addition, King council provides leadership and direction in addressing the climate emergency and in protecting and sustaining natural features such as trees, forests, wetlands and lakes which contribute to long term health and sustainability in King Township and beyond.

For many years CCKT has organized and hosted all-candidates' meetings at election time, especially at the municipal level. CCKT seeks to engage the public in the electoral process and to help citizens get to know the candidates, their vision and priorities – in-other-words to become well-informed voters.

"In Canada we have a remarkable privilege both to run for public office and to actively participate in electing representatives to local municipal councils. We encourage all eligible voters to become informed and to exercise their right to vote," said J. Bruce Craig of CCKT.

The first event will be held Wednesday, Oct. 5 at the Trisan Centre in Schomberg for candidates in Ward 3 and Ward 4. It runs 7 to 9 p.m.

The next night (Oct. 6), candidates in Wards 1 and 2 will face off at the new Seniors Centre in King City. It also runs 7 to 9 p.m.

Editorial, Letters & Opinion

"A newspaper is the center of a community, it's one of the tent poles of the community, and that's not going to be replaced by websites and blogs."

- Michael Connelly

You can't always build a better mousetrap!

Our technology is moving at light speed and we're continually pushing boundaries and coming up with innovative solutions.

We've come so far in such a short span of time, almost exponential.

And yet, in 2022, there are many contraptions, contrivances and yes, food staples that have gone unchanged. It's been said that you just can't build a better mousetrap, noting that one simple device has stood the test of time and can't be improved.

In the case of that very mousetrap it's true. If you've purchased one recently, the old tried and true design still reigns supreme. That small piece of wood, metal spring and tiny trigger platform has remained the same for decades. Okay, there are some fancy plastic ones but nothing beats the $1 version of this item, which was first invented in 1709.

I doubt whether the cheese grater has changed much in its 200-year existence. A piece of metal with sharp, bored holes and a handle. Can't really improve on that one. Maybe there are fancy ones and even electric ones but nothing beats the simple stainless version, that you can pick up at any dollar store.

What about zip lock bags, a belt, Velcro, tape, screw drivers, a canoe, lawn mower, axe, hammer, Swiss Army knife, electric mixer, whisk, bottle opener, cast iron skillet, muffin trays, scissors (which date to 1,500 BC)? The list goes on.

Sure, the materials and colours have been updated but the basic designs, it seems, can't be improved. There's a saying: if it's not broken, don't fix it.

And that's where I'm headed, people. Thank goodness some things in this world have stayed the same, stood the test of time.

Thinking about them brings a smile to my brain.

Humans are foodies and we've turned this necessity into something marvellous. Simply consuming for nutrition is not enough. No, fellow flavour fans, our forefathers and mothers created some perfect treats for you and I.

Mark Pavilons

I hazard to guess that some things will live long into the future.

Who doesn't love a simple hotdog? Sure, you can boil them (favourite), broil them or even toss them on the BBQ. But a dog on a bun with mustard, ketchup and relish is as human as it gets. I bet if you offer a plate of them to your family right now, they'll be gone in a flash.

Hamburgers follow, but their make-up has gone through many iterations over the years. You can use different blends of meat and spices, but basically it's a beef patty. Plain and simple. Get one with grill marks, slap it on a bun with your favourite ingredients and you're good to go. No culinary expertise needed here.

Cookies! These sweet treats are the downfall of many, and there are two special people in our household who can't resist them. They're almost like kryptonite. Doesn't matter if they're chocolate chip, oatmeal, shortbread or the venerable Oreo, they are magical. Again, some recipes are slightly different but a cookie is a cookie. Just ask a certain Sesame Street character!

Donuts are right behind and sure, they come in different blends, colours, toppings, but this simple, hole-in-the-middle treat is known the world over.

Check out some of your local bakers, it means a lot to them!

Pizza has largely remained unchanged since it was first introduced in 1889, when famous Naples pizza chef Raffaele Esposito made three pizzas for Umberto I, King of Italy and his wife Queen Margherita di Savoia.

"Margherita" pizza has become an Italian mainstay ever since. Sure, you can find a multitude of North American variations, crusts and toppings galore. But nothing satisfies like a slice of pie. I can almost smell it right now.

Also, if you've ever made it at home with the family, it's an experience second to none.

There are several great pizza places in King, and I encourage you to try them all. You won't be disappointed.

Ham and cheese, pastrami on rye, club or Reuben, a sandwich is among humankind's best inventions. While many attribute the snack's invention to the Earl of Sandwich in the 1700s, it has been around a lot longer.

Without any previous knowledge, any person big or small can create a masterpiece to his or her own liking. All the ingredients are almost always available in any kitchen. Who hasn't grabbed the last piece in the loaf - always the end - put butter and cheese on it, folded it in half and ate it happily?

Don't even get me started on grilled cheese, likely the most mouth-watering, heart-warming, home-cooked treat ever. Who remembers being treated to one by mom or grandma? You're going to make one now, aren't you?

Now that our bellies are full and satisfied, there are many, many things in our world that just are. They can't be altered, switched, replaced or substituted.

Sunshine, waves crashing on the beach, a gentle breeze any time of year top my list. For some of us Boomers, a fresh cup of java, an outboard motor, smell of gasoline and sound of a muscle car are other tried and true pleasures. They remind us of who we are and where we came from. They remind us of great times.

Hats off to all engineers, designers, architects, chefs and yes, moms and grandmas. They all set the bar very high and encouraged all generations that followed to aim high.

We may not be able to build a better mousetrap, but hey, some things don't need improving.

And to those who are constantly looking at ways to make things better and more efficient, go for it!

From head to toe, our fellow humans got us covered!

Democracy in action at debates

King residents can catch a glimpse of their municipal election candidates in action, at three upcoming events.

These all-candidates' meetings are a great opportunity to see how those seeking office act and respond to questions. You can see just where they stand on local issues.

The municipal election is, in our opinion, the most important of all. You elect local representatives on council, people who respond to voters' wants and needs. They represent you, and work hard for you. They also live here.

It takes commitment, dedication to the community, and yes, guts, to run for office. It can be a thankless job at times. And yet, many tossed their hats into the ring, willing to serve to the best of their ability. Kudos to all.

We encourage you to take part in one or more of the upcoming all-candidates debates, hosted by CCKT and the Chamber of Commerce.

Be informed, be involved. And most importantly, vote! The future can't happen without you.

The proposed Draft Plan of Subdivision, Official Plan Amendment and Zoning By-law Amendment applications were submitted by KLM Planning Partners Inc. on behalf of the owner, Prebrick Systems (Boynton) Inc. The applications concern a property located on the east side of Highway 27 and south of King Road in the Village of Nobleton. The purpose of the Zoning By-Law Amendment application is to implement the draft plan of subdivision and establish appropriate residential zones and development provisions together with appropriate zones for storm, open area, parks, and environmentally sensitive areas.

What Are The Proposed Changes

The Planning Applications were submitted together with supporting materials to amend the King "Our King" Official Plan, the Nobleton Urban Area Zoning By-Law 2016-71 and to propose the subdivision of land to facilitate a development consisting of 429 residential lots for the purposes of supporting single detached dwellings at a density of 12.3 units per hectare. The application also proposes several Employment blocks, a Future Development block, several stormwater, park, open space and environmental buffer blocks together with several new public roads. The Development proposes to obtain access from Highway 27 with connection to existing streets, including Crestview Road, Woodhill Avenue, and Hawthorne Valley Road. Is there a heartbeat in our community or a faltering pulse?

Letter to the Editor

Generally, I agree with the editor's views but to imply King City retains a small-town atmosphere, I feel compelled to respond that it seems more like an unpardonable disaster.

The library inside is gorgeous and inviting as are the staff. I highly commend them. Always pleasant, they navigated me through COVID willingly searching for my requests.

When the library was planned residents gave input. I was told that comments were being recorded even though I suggested that this was not apparent. Most suggestions I heard appear to have been ignored especially those referencing landscaping.

As the new build was taking place, I watched confused and unbelieving as it seemed the HVAC was being located on the roof. I kept thinking it would be moved, screened or something would be done to alleviate the eyesore located above the silver King City Seniors Centre and King City Library signs. I still hoped before the grand opening something would be done.

It wasn't. The HVAC is reminiscent of a '60s strip mall where air conditioning was plopped on the roof of buildings not constructed to accommodate it.

Added eyesores are the garbage cans right outside the seniors' area. During the build when I questioned their location workers claimed the huge cans were concrete and impossible to move to the rear of the building. To add colour to their mismatched lids we have a charging station installed right by the seniors's front door, I doubt by architectural design.

After the library's grand opening, I suggested that we add a garbage bin for the refuse that was flying around from everyone's loot bags. This was done adjacent to the gigantic cans, however, my request for a bench for young mothers, children and seniors was ignored. Even more upsetting for taxpayers is the fact that the library's facade is breaking and flaking. The state of the grounds is disgraceful. Our rail fence and bermed cute country garden of the old library are a faint memory and some individuals have commented they wish they had it back.

Further, flowers in planters are dead along King Road and Keele Street and unsustainable flags are hanging in rags from ugly black poles we begged not to have.

In June when I went to vote provincially at the King City Arena I was disgusted and ashamed. To suggest a new community complex in King East will replace it does not excuse its shabby, filthy, deplorable appearance. Interestingly, despite many inquiries during countless conversations casual and formal with suggestions from residents, no one can enlighten us as to what will be done with our arena, the former Seniors' Centre, the King City Lion's Club and barn, the core of our community. Is it an unsolvable mystery, or just a dark secret?

Our new trail west of Keele, off the King Road, is delightful but anyone walking towards it along our nice new sidewalk needs to mask up, first to prevent lung congestion from traffic fumes and second, to subdue the stench of sewage that will greet them before they even get close to the pumping station in advance of the trail.

If you drive in King City your route must be planned and timed, so you don't have to turn dangerously left from the post office or other businesses into bumper-to-bumper traffic. Soon this may not be an issue as when the gargantuan Walmart warehouse opens on Jane Street and the 413 is built it could be faster to walk if we don't expire from further fumes.

The quiet charm the editor muses about may exist in Schomberg, but our main street will never be closed to traffic. It's a thoroughfare. Our town is more sleepless than sleepy as few residents can escape the noise of Highway 400, King Road traffic, nor likely the double track rail lines scheduled to be built here blowing whistles at all hours.

I suggest little sense of community remains in King City; it's held together by Hogan's Inn, the Roost Cafe and Kid's Country Children's Boutique, where many of us meet.

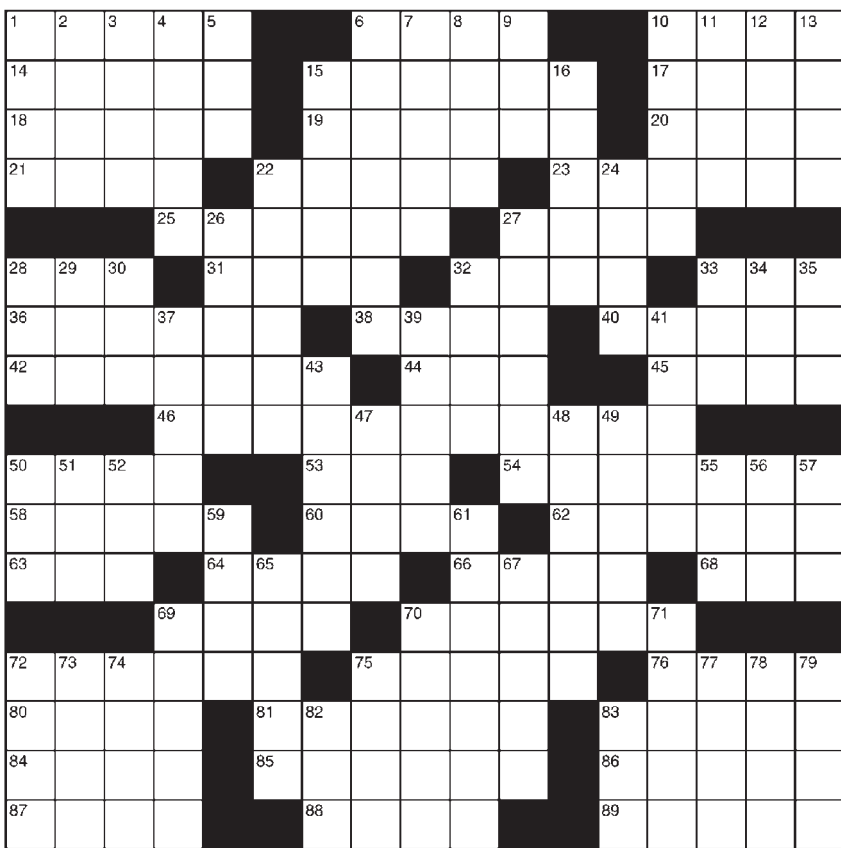

True Mr. Editor, a lot is happening in our town, much of which is disappointing. If a community our size can't be maintained how can the needs of a multimillion-dollar recreation complex be met?

Firefighters turn up the heat for breakfast

Schomberg firefighters treated the community to a great breakfast on the weekend, drawing praise from all around.

Fire Chief Jim Wall said team members arrived early at 6 a.m. to prepare for the breakfast, that ran from 8 a.m. to noon.

"The attendance and support from the community, local businesses, and immediate family members was amazing," he said. "Something like this is one of the best team builders for any organization. It builds friendships, it brings people together."

The group raised significant funds for Blue Door Shelters in East Gwillimbury.

"A tip of the hat from me, Mayor Pellegrini, and my two deputy chiefs for a job well done," Wall said.

McDonald's marks opening, donates to Food Bank

Local dignitaries were on hand last week to help the new King City McDonald's celebrate its official opening. Councillors Debbie Schaefer, Jordan Cescolini and Mayor Steve Pellegrini assisted in the ribbon cutting. Shown are Ghada Zemmo, Director of Operations; Peter Miller, Owner Operator; Rochelle Miller; Lieza Villarino, General Manager King City, Michelle Frauley of the King Chamber of Commerce, and Phil Spoto, Area Supervisor. Owners Rochelle and Peter Miller, along with Phil Spoto (photo, top right), present a $2,500 cheque to King Township Food Bank on the occasion of their King City grand opening. The Food Bank is most grateful for this spontaneous and generous donation; it will help purchase fruit and eggs for the October distribution. Network needs support in response to growing incidents

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

The rising incidents of sexual assault are ringing the alarm bells.

And groups like the Women's Support Network of York Region are looking for support for their range of services.

Ogho Ikhalo, secretary, board of directors, appeared before King council recently, noting that an estimated one in three women will experience some form of sexual assault in their lifetime. Stats Can data has been showing a steady increase in numbers of incidents, and reports in 2021 were the highest since 1996.

And it's continuing. Ikhalo noted we're only scratching the surface, since only roughly 3% are being reported as crimes.

There was a noticeable hike in calls during the pandemic and Ikhalo noted York Regional Police handled roughly 700 cases in 2021.

The agency is under-resourced and their fundraising efforts are simply not enough to address the growing needs.

The top needs at the network are the tools and resources necessary to carry out survivor/victim support. As well the group wants to ramp up their public awareness and education efforts.

The bulk of the network is made up of volunteers to keep costs down. But they do offer a 24-hour crisis line.

Mayor Steve Pellegrini noted York Region Social Services is the best ally for the network.

"You need action, you need help," the mayor observed. "We want you to find the right level and right places."

The mayor vowed to help at the regional level.

Since 1992, the Women's Support Network of York Region has been supporting survivors, raising awareness and working to eradicate sexual violence.

The Women's Support Network of York Region (WSN) is a rape crisis/sexual violence centre dedicated to providing free, confidential services for individuals who have experienced any form of sexual violence. WSN is committed to a grassroots, feminist, anti-racist and anti-oppressive framework. Their goal is to eradicate sexual violence.

They provide 24-hour crisis support, sexual violence counselling, anti-human trafficking case management, public education and outreach, support groups, workshops, advocacy and community based training.

Developers contribute millions to rec. centre

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

Local developers are contributing millions to the new Township Wide Recreation Centre.

It's a common move, facilitated by individual Municipal Capital Facility Agreements.

Details of the voluntary contributions were reviewed by Township staff.

Both Zancor Homes and Keele West Developments will be giving $1-million, which will be directed to facilities in King City.

Zancor Homes is building a 284-unit condo development in the village. Keele West is planning a 247-unit apartment building.

The contributions would be partially used for the recreation centre and additional funds would go to servicing the condo units with water and sewers.

A portion of the King City trail will be known as “Moir Trail.” Community members often submit suggestions to Township staff for naming public facilities.

Barry Moir was a long-time King City resident who made significant contributions to the community.

Moir received numerous volunteer awards from King Township over the years for his many contributions made through various roles on the King City Trail’s Committee, his efforts associated with the Oak Ridges Trail Association and his time as a member of the King City Fire Department. In addition, Mr. Moir was an ongoing supporter and volunteer at the Mackenzie Health Hospital in Richmond Hill, providing valuable services to residents of York Region.

Deck the Walls art show and sale promises a wide variety

By Kathleen Rodgers

Visiting the country is a wonderful way to spend a day. It offers the opportunity to explore quaint villages and the studios of the local artists and artisans whose artwork often reflects the landscape around them.

In King Township, this fall brings a new Art Society King event, Deck the Walls Art Show and Sale in November. Deck the Walls Art Show and Sale is celebrating its first year and will take place Saturday, Nov. 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be an Invitation Only Preview Evening before Saturday. The Art Show and Sale will include fine paintings (in acrylic, oil, and watercolour), pottery, cards, fibre arts, mixed media, etc.

This year, Deck the Walls Art Show and Sale will feature 16 artists and artisans at one location, the King Heritage and Cultural Centre including Laskay Hall. It is located at 2920 King Road, King City, Ontario. You can check out the Arts Society King (ASK) website at www.ArtsSocietyKing.ca. Then click on EVENTS then Deck the Walls Art Show and Sale 2022 to see the participating artists, their biographies and up to five photos of their artwork.

There will be a link to his/her website and social media accounts for additional artwork available. Rack cards are available around King Township including the King Heritage and Cultural Centre with information about ASK Events 2023.

This is the third in a series of eight articles which will introduce two more participating artists:

Alimatu Koney describes her art, at times, as being unique and unpredictable. One minute it can be unique items mixed to create a painting, the next an art piece of jewelry, wall rug art, wreath, etc. She is a firm believer in upcycling, reducing and reusing. She aims to inspire with her art.

Shiva Moghaddasi is new to Studio Tour King. She is a textile and pottery artist and a graduate of OCAD U Material Art & Design. As a textile artist, she designs nuno felt shawls and paints on silk fabric, creating colourful luxurious silk scarves.

As a potter, Shiva makes colourful functional and decorative ceramic pieces. Craftsmanship and attention to detail are paramount in her work. Every element of design and workmanship is considered in order to stimulate and heighten your experience with each piece. Shiva employs contemporary colour pallets and designs that reflect the subtleties of colour, which she witnesses in her surrounding environment. Check out her website: www.ShivaStudios.ca

If you are looking for a special gift this holiday season, take a drive in the country, visit the KHCC and support the artists and artisans. Some artists offer classes so it may be an opportunity to try something new! Who knows maybe one day you will be participating in a art show and sale!

The artists look forward to seeing you and sharing their work with you on this year's Deck the Walls Art Show and Sale 2022!

Society's Countryside Tour reveals local marvels

King Township Historical Society's Countryside Tour was a huge success.

Some 82 people in 43 cars took part in the tour, including two drop-ins. Of the 82 people registered, 17 were members of KTHS. Taking part in the tour was a 1950 Plymouth coup and a couple of mini coopers, one driven by Mayor Steve Pellegrini, and other belonged to a man from Sault Ste. Marie.

The tour scheduled to begin at 12:30, kicked off earlier due to a couple of very eager people who arrived closer to 12. Each car received a loot bag, that included the 50th Anniversary Countryside tour map, King Township History and Heritage map, ASK book A collection of Timeless Tales, 50th Anniversary Save the Date card, a membership form, TaLii Towel with the KTHS Celebrating 50 years logo, and a box of Made Good granola bars.

The route encompassed the entire Township and included stops at 12 historical spots. Five of the 12 spots were manned with volunteers who were familiar with the site.

Elaine Robertson, who was dressed in Edwardian costume including a black armband to honour Queen Elizabeth II who had passed away Sept. 8, was at the Eversley Church and Cemetery; Gerry Alleston was at the Kettleby Anglican Church; Mary Asselstine at the Schomberg Emmanuel Presbyterian Church, and George Burt at the Masonic Hall in Schomberg.

George said: "Thanks to KTHS we had the opportunity to meet and welcome 22 interesting and interested visitors to our historic Masonic building. Three of the male visitors had Masonic member fathers, which added to their visit."

The highlight of the tour was the Blair Burrows Mud House, where the current owner Mimi Barrow, generously gave tours inside this unique home. Murdene stationed at the site reported that between 60-70 people visited the site that day. Thanks to Richard, who reached out to the Barrows and secured it as a stop on the tour, enabling the participants a rare look inside this 1937 pise de terre (rammed earth) house.

All participants were encouraged to return to Laskay Hall at the KHCC site to enjoy some refreshments and an opportunity to win some door prizes. About 50 people returned to partake in a delicious cake from Dorio's Bakery in Kettleby and win some prizes.

Concern over students' performance in certain tests

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

International assessments are showing mixed results for Canadian students.

Despite scoring comparatively well internationally on the recent international PISA tests, results in all three disciplines – reading, math and science – have declined across the country, substantially so in some provinces, finds a new study released by the Fraser Institute, an independent, non-partisan, Canadian public policy think-tank.

Conducted every three years, the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) is the most extensive and widely accepted measure of academic proficiency among lower secondary school students around the world.

“Policy-makers and educators shouldn’t let Canada’s relatively high international ranking on the PISA tests detract from the worrying fact that scores in every province in all three disciplines are on the decline,” said Derek J. Allison, professor emeritus at the University of Western Ontario, a Fraser Institute senior fellow and author of What International Tests (PISA) Tell Us about Education in Canada.

The study finds that in the 2018 PISA assessment – the most recent for which results are available – Canada ranked comparatively high, outperforming all G7 countries in reading, and coming second among G7 countries (after Japan) in math and science.

But crucially, across all three subjects, results have declined. Over the 12 years from 2006 to 2018, Canada’s reading score dropped 7 points while all other G7 countries made gains, by as much as 9 points in the UK and 8 points in Italy. In science, Canada dropped 17 points while the USA gained 14 over the same period. In math, Canada lost 15 points over these twelve years while four G7 countries, including the UK and USA, made an average gain of 10 points.

“We should always strive to do better when it comes to education, and the fact is that scores in every Canadian province are heading in the wrong direction,” Allison said.

“The PISA tests are an opportunity for policymakers and educators to learn best practices from other more successful jurisdictions and correct course, if necessary, for the benefit of their students.”

In Ontario, 15-year-old students continue to trail Quebec students in math in the latest 2018 PISA international test results, while nationwide as well as in Ontario, results are trending down.

Score declines have been less severe in Ontario and Quebec with the Western provinces experiencing the largest score declines. The substantially larger enrolments in Ontario and Quebec, which account for 61 percent of Canadian school enrolment, cushioned the effect of the more severe score declines in other provinces on the national picture.

“Ontario students generally performed well in the latest PISA tests, with scores statistically similar to Quebec students in reading and science, but significantly lower in math, a subject in which Quebec places among the highest scoring countries around the world.”

The study finds that Ontario students experienced a drop in reading – from 533 in 2000 to 524 in 2018; in math – from 530 in 2003 to 513 in 2018; and in science – from 537 in 2006 to 519 in 2018 – all core subjects.

Conducted every three years, the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) is the most extensive and widely accepted measure of academic proficiency among lower secondary school students around the world.

WHO WILL THEY BECOME?

Debating and public speaking are skills anyone can learn, and we are really good at teaching them. For almost two decades, CDS has qualified at least one student for the World Championships each year!

At CDS, students discover the rewards of debate and public speaking: greater confidence, mental agility, and ability to articulate themselves amongst their peers. Some start in Grade 5, while others begin in Middle or Senior School. Our encouraging and supportive coaches have trained students to compete on provincial, national and global stages. CDS debaters have gone on to work in politics, business, law, social justice and film.

Wherever they land, CDS alumni pursue a life of purpose doing what they love, having enjoyed the journey along the way.

Former KCSS students inducted into Case of Distinction

By Robert Belardi

Since its inception in 2003, King City Secondary School Case of Distinction Induction Ceremony finally returned following a two-year hiatus due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The ceremony, which took place at King City Secondary School Saturday morning, honoured four KCSS alumni, who have gone on to accomplish incredible feats in their professional careers.

President of the KCSS Alumni Association, John Peddle, began the ceremony welcoming all guests into the school's front foyer where all guests gathered.

This year's inductees, were David Wilson (absent), Shawn Burt, Kevin Hastings and Terry Hoover.

Peddle stepped in to introduce Wilson, before family members took the stage to introduce the other inductees.

"I have the pleasure of inducting David Wilson. David is going in under the category of athletics and skate coaching and choreography. I didn't know all of those years watching figure skating, that it was David who was the brains behind all of the performances that I was watching on TV all of those years," Peddle said.

"He fell in love with figure skating at an early age. He attended King City for a short while. He was training at the Toronto Cricket Skating and Curling Club downtown and re-located going to school to finish high school down there."

A Nobleton native, Wilson helped many figure skaters win medals at Olympic Games. In 2019, he was nominated into the Skate Canada Hall of Fame.

After Peddle, Shawn Burt was introduced to the stand by his wife Jennifer and children Aydan and McKenna.

Burt, who lost his mother after graduating post-secondary school to cancer, sought making a difference and wanted to use his love for sports as a catalyst, to helping cancer research. A graduate of philosophy at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H., Burt went on to work with Maple Leaf Sports & entertainment, before becoming the Chief Hockey Officer at The Princess Margaret Cancer Foundation. He used his love for hockey to spearhead Road Hockey to Conquer Cancer, winning two Guinness World Records and raised over $25-million towards cancer research.

He has gone on to work at McMaster University as Director of Athletics and Recreation. In his speech, he alluded to many things that helped him on his journey. The experience at KCSS, was one of them.

"Each and every one of these individuals (teachers) showed me a passion for life-long learning and a commitment to helping others, which I think is so profound. It has guided me through my Dartmouth career and into my professional career and beyond. I am eternally grateful for the many great lessons I learned from those role models. At that time, I didn't realize it, but you get a little bit older and little bit smarter and wiser. You realize it now. It means the world to me," Burt said in his speech.

Next up to speak was Kevin Hastings, who was inducted into the Athletics category as a Professional Hockey Official.

Hastings, who played in the OHA and in the OHL with the Barrie Colts, graduated from the University of Guelph with a diploma in Horticulture. He went on to play minor-pro hockey in the Central Hockey League, and then became an OHA official.

He officiated four Memorial Cups, two Memorial Cup Finals and 12 OHL Finals. In 2018, he was awarded the Ken Bodendistel Officiating Character Award, named after his great mentor. He has been an official in the AHL since 2003, winning other awards in the process. He currently mentor's other linesman today.

Emotional in his speech, Hastings reflected on his time at KCSS.

"We came here as young kids and we left as adults. Teachers weren't teachers, they were our friends. They helped us build things outside of school. I took a lot of that," Hastings said.

"I say to people wherever I've been around the world with hockey or with school, King City was a special spot. My age group, we had a special group of guys. We get together every year. Those friendships and bonds were built here at King City Secondary. I'm grateful for this award and I just want to thank everybody for helping me along the way."

Last but not least, Terry Hoover, the final inductee took the stand. Hoover, was inducted for Entrepreneurship, Maple Syrup Aficionado. After graduating from Guelph University in 1977 from the Agricultural programme, Hoover, became a president at the Ontario Maple Syrup Producers Association and also president of Waterloo Wellington local.

He went on to win an award in 2020, as Producer of the Year at the Elmira Maple Syrup Festival. He also made appearances in the past with chef Lynn Crawford on the Food Network multiple times.

In 2020, Hoover was taken by the Corporation of the County of Perth, to be a part of their "Signature experience." Here, he learned more on how to further enhance his business. "Hoover's Maple Experience" was born.

He continuously gives back to the community along with his wife Diane. He hosts residents from nursing homes and community groups and treats them to pancake and sausage meals.

Introduced by his best friend Ron Gillies, in his speech, Hoover had everyone laughing.

"Thank you to the KCSS Distinction committee for moving forward with the application. Words cannot express how grateful I am and I truly am grateful for this. I wish all of my classmates could be here to see this. I often wondered if I would use the knowledge I gained in the school. I sometimes I thought this stuff would never be used in the real world," Hoover said.

"But who remembers the Grade 9 teachers' strike? Nine weeks, no school. Wasn't that a vacation? Fantastic. So, they bumped us all to Grade 10."

Current principal Helga Curry and Student Council President Anastasia Mouratidis went on and shared some words and Peddle concluded the ceremony.

On behalf of the King Weekly Sentinel, congratulations on this year's inductees. All profiles can be found at <https://kcssalumni.com/inductee-profiles.html>.

The St. Andrew's College campus

A SCHOOL for BOYS

At St. Andrew's College, we habitually and deliberately challenge stereotypes and believe that there are a myriad of ways in which boys can achieve the fullest expression of their most human selves. To best serve boys, educators must understand that boys' behaviour is often a reflection of the backdrop of societal perceptions of masculinity.

To that end, we are able to tap into a rich, longstanding culture in which boys are able to explore, in safety, the breadth of the human condition, and their unique place within it. In this school culture, artistry and creativity are not labelled as 'feminine,' but rather as human.

Eloquence, both written and spoken, is expected. Self-reflection and the quest for meaning is built into the fabric of the daily routine, whether through Chapel or our Advisory program.

But there is more to it than that. Boys carry a natural wariness for things that are not genuine, and become bored easily when the activity at hand does little to forward their own sense of meaning. To that end, our teachers create an authentic curriculum; help boys find purpose in life; train them to care for themselves and others; and endow them with a sense of personal commitment and integrity. These goals become more realizable in a culture that presupposes one can be much more than what can be offered by the limiting stereotypes of masculinity. <<

Caledon Kings heading to national championships

By Robert Belardi

The Caledon Kings defeated the Oakville Rangers 7-0 in the third-place game of the U14 minor provincial ball hockey championships in Kitchener-Waterloo recently.

With this win, the Kings have qualified for the national championships next year, set to take place in Newfoundland and Labrador.

The program – which has only been running for the past five years – will see their first ever age group attend the national championships.

“To accomplish this in such a short period of time, for Caledon to represent a team in the nationals, is impressive,” said head coach of the team, Gus Kourousis.

“In my opinion, there will be a little bit more hunger for kids to come out and see that there is an opportunity to get to the national level. At this age group the U14s. It doesn't happen for the U12s or the U8s. For them to continue in the program, knowing there is an opportunity, it will drive interest.”

Kourousis is no stranger to ball hockey. He has represented Team Canada in world championships in the past.

When ball hockey came to Caledon, the Bolton resident, immediately jumped on board as a coach. He wanted to give back to the game in the best way he knew how.

He slotted in immediately, behind the bench of a very talented roster. Without a whole lot of time for the coaching staff to prepare for this tournament, the Kings came into these provincial championships with a certain mind set.

“From the beginning of the tournament, we established as coaches that we wanted to make them understand they have a lot of skill on this team. But, in order to go deep into this tournament, you have to have the will to win. That was our motto at the beginning. I told them before we left, the will to win, beats the skill to win.”

In their first game of the tournament against Vaughan, the Kings came out flying. On their first shift, the boys opened the scoring. They would cruise to an easy 7-0 victory.

The same can be said against Mississauga in their second game. The Kings took care of business yet again, with another 7-0 win.

In this 14-team tournament, the winner of each division advanced to the semi-finals. With the division on the line against Etobicoke, was the toughest test yet for the Kings.

Down 2-0 in the second period, the Kings, were not simply catching a break. With 0.01 seconds left to go, a shot found its way into the back of the net to give the boy's life.

The Kings went on to win 4-3, setting up a tough semi-final bout against the host team Kitchener-Waterloo.

In the semi-finals, the boys lost a gruelling 1-0 game.

“I think the lesson. They knew, we dominated that game. But every now and then you come across a goalie that stands on his head. The message was, even though we lost our job and our mission wasn't complete,” Kourousis said.

“Their heads were down in the dressing room. I said ‘who was the better team?’ They all agreed we were. We had one more game, the bronze medal game, to prove to everyone we're a phenomenal team. The opportunity to qualify was still in front of us.”

Having qualified for the nationals for next year, Kourousis, has expressed to his team there will be Canada scouts there next year. The Kings, will have a year to prepare for the competition.

We would like to congratulate coaches Gus Kourousis, Gary Borges, Steve Da Silva and Paul Ambtman on their latest achievement.

And of course, a huge congratulations to the players, Matthew Kourousis, Evan Borges, Gianluca Da Silva, Ben Ambtman, Christian Rundo, Carson Dancy, Julio Ferri, Nathan Acocella, Joseph Ferlito, Dylan Di Cio, James Gregson, Liam Eels, Evan Martin, Rowan Hedges, Kevin Rivait, Riley Dawe and Anthony Lovisa on qualifying for the nationals next season.

The Caledon Kings qualified for the national championships next year, thanks to their third-place finish in the provincial championships in Kitchener-Waterloo recently.

York United keep playoff hopes alive with emphatic 3-0 win against Valour FC

By Robert Belardi

York United overturned an early 1-0 deficit with three unanswered goals to keep the club's playoff hopes alive with two games remaining in the Canadian Premier League campaign.

Valour FC defender Stefan Cabara stepped up to the spot and converted a 16-minute penalty to give Valour FC the lead, however York United turned the game on its head.

At the 34-minute mark, Molham Babouli rifled home his fifth goal in his seventh Canadian Premier League appearance this season to tie up the match.

And almost 20 minutes later, Australian-born forward, Luis Lawrie-Lattanzio scored his second goal of the year thanks to a beautiful through-ball by Babouli to ultimately seal the victory.

Statistically, United was the better team throughout the entirety of the match.

Holding 52 per cent possession in the process, this was York United fifth consecutive match the club has attempted 10 or more shots towards goal. As of lately, it has been an effective approach by head coach Martin Nash and his men, who have been rewarded for firing on all cylinders.

This was also York United's second consecutive game, the club conceded less than 10 fouls. A nice little streak to have, heading into two tough matches to cap off the CPL season.

Now just three points behind Valour FC and Pacific FC – who are both tied on 37 points, but Valour FC holds the final spot – United need to travel west this Saturday to take on Forge FC at Tim Hortons Field. The last time these two clubs battled it out, United defeated Forge 3-1 on August 20.

If the club earns a victory, it will set up a dramatic final day in the CPL season, when York United take on first-place Atlético Ottawa on the road next Sunday, Oct. 9.

Cougars score 15 goals this week, run over Golden Hawks and Terriers

By Robert Belardi

The Schomberg Cougars earned their third and fourth consecutive victories this past week to kick-off the new PJHL season.

The Cougars lit up the Caledon Golden Hawks 9-3 last Thursday at the Trisan Centre before thrashing the Orillia Terriers 6-3 on the road on Saturday, in front of 231 people in attendance.

With back-up netminder Vann Kulba getting the nod for Thursday night's home bout, the Cougars immediately saw a scare just 14 seconds into the game.

Golden Hawks forward Luke Camara put the Caledon team up by one and immediately lit a fire beneath the Schomberg Cougars bench.

Just over a minute later, Chris Dirracolo scored his first goal of the new year and mid-way through the frame, Patrick Polazcek gave the boys the lead.

In the second period, there was nothing to worry about for Kulba as the Cougars put up four goals on to the score sheet. Luke Miehm scored twice, Andrew Hrinco and Anthony Roberts got in on the fun. Despite Joey Furlano, capitalizing with five minutes left in the period, the Cougars walked into the third period with a commanding 6-2 lead.

With a whole lot of nothing happening in the third up until 12 minutes in, Furlano potted home his second of the game. That, inevitably, sparked the Cougars and Polazcek scored 12 seconds later, Hrinco added another and Adam Miller got in on the fun with his first of the season to cap off an emphatic victory.

On Saturday night, the Cougars victory was led by their captain Cameron Kokelj.

The Cougars forward scored three goals and added two assists, tallying five points on the night and currently leads the league in scoring with 12 points thus far on the year.

“The last five goals were goal for him, assist for him, goal for him, assist for him, goal for him assist for him. He was in on five of the six goals, he's a very good hockey player,” head coach Stan Kondrotas said.

In both match-ups, the Cougars put forth north of 40 shots on goal in consecutive games and Kondrotas alluded to their team motto that might explain the reason for that.

“Our team motto is work before skill. The one thing I don't want my team to be is outworked. Whether they're winning by a lot or losing by a lot. You got to bring it every shift. We got enough extra players, if they're not going to work hard enough, then the others are going to work hard enough to be in.”

The Cougars will make a big trip north this Sunday to take on the Huntsville Otters on the road and look for their fifth-straight win of the season. Puck drop is at 2:30 p.m.

ing, the female part of the flower. Many flowers have more than one of these minute leaflike growths and they are fused together. This fusion is called the pistil from pistillum the Latin name for pestle a small handheld kitchen tool for grinding. Carpel or pistil this growth holds the reproduction organs of the plant. Those being the style or stalk where pollen lands and the stigma on the outside of the style. This is where incoming pollen is held and checked out to see if it's the right pollen to fertilize the plant. If so it's then the flower's close by ovary holding the plants tiny eggs takes it in so as to fertilize these eggs.

Perhaps the second most noticeable part of a flower after its petals is its male part called stamens, from the Latin staminis for thread. Each stamen on its thready but strong stem is topped by a featherlike growth called an anther from anthos Greek for flower that makes and holds the plant's own pollen which is then carried away by visiting insects such as bees in their search for the sweet sugar rich liquid called nectar that plants produce to attract them.

Horticulture

By John Arnott

I am trying not to make this note sound like botany 101 yet give novice gardeners some help in understanding botanical terms they may come across in reading horticultural articles. So here I go. Angiosperm (from the Greek angeion + sperma) is a word that often appears in such articles and just translates to plant that produces flowers and seeds.

Looking inside a flower are several words that can baffle the reader - they certainly did me! In the centre of the flower is the carpel or carpels from the Greek karpou for fruit seed and cover-

All Saints Anglican Church

By Patrick Gossage

Last Sunday, Welcome Home Sunday, had a special meaning as we greeted a family of four refugees who have been living in Lebanon since fleeing Iraq in 2014. They are the relatives of a parishioner from King City, Ziyad Butris: Laila Hendi, his sister and her husband George Al-Khayyat, Iden Al-Khayyat, his son and Mirna Al-Kayyat, his daughter.

All Saints is the sponsor of record for the family, and they were warmly welcomed at the service and at lunch, where they provided some remarkable food.

To See as Jesus Sees us - a sermon by Rev. Erin Martin on Christ's story of the rich man and Lazarus in Luke 16:

"Jesus's parable tells us of a rich man who feasted sumptuously every day in stark contrast to Lazarus, a poor man who was covered in sores and who starved every day, languishing near the rich man's gate. He just wanted someone to see him and throw him some crumbs. In the story, both men die, and Lazarus is carried by angels to be with Abraham, while the rich man ends up in Hades. The rich man calls out to Abraham to send Lazarus to him with something to quench his thirst. He was told no, and told that the chasm separating Lazarus from the rich man was fixed and no one can cross it.

"It's a grim story. The parable is about wealth and Jesus had much to say about wealth, and it wasn't that wealth in itself is bad, but wealth that steals our attention from our neighbours is. The pursuit of material comforts, or power blinds us to human need, human suffering, human dignity and human worth and can lead to a kind of moral apathy and THAT is the danger, a very real danger in our world.

"In life, that rich man didn't ever really SEE Lazarus the way Jesus calls us to. Jesus calls us to see each other and build relationships, to see in each other human beings worthy of dignity, love, and respect.

"We are called to a radical way of seeing. It is the kind of bold courageous, and sacrificial seeing that scares us to death - precisely because it asks so much of us.

"Even after death, the rich man refused to see Lazarus. Abraham told him that the chasm between them was too big to cross.

"What chasms have we built, that stop us from really seeing the people of this world who are in need, who are struggling, who need our help. I What will it take for us to see others the way Jesus has called us to see. To see the truth that hurts, to see that we have sometimes feasted when others have starved, to see that we have lived in ways that have harmed our planet, to see the plight of refugees and those subjected to racialized violence, to see our 2SLGBTQ+ siblings and their desire to be safe and included.

"The good news is that Jesus is always helping us cross over the chasm. It is his way of love, the way of sacrifice, the way of losing our lives in order to gain them.

"I pray that we will go from here and focus our eyes on those in our community who are vulnerable, in pain, and in need. I pray that we see them, hear them, know them and respond to them. I pray that we will be committed to not only making this a safe place for all people, but also a place where we're nourished and resourced to care for others and uphold their dignity and value. May we always be blessed to see as Jesus sees."

Enjoy the journey
I'll take care of the rest.

Easier payment options to access transit in GTA

The Ontario government is making it easier and more convenient to take transit across the Greater Toronto and Hamilton Area (GTHA) by giving riders more ways to pay. Since August, customers have tapped on more than 100,000 times using credit cards on GO, MiWay, Brampton and Oakville Transit.

“Improving the PRESTO fare payment system by allowing riders to simply tap on with their credit cards is yet another example of how our government is bettering the transit experience, respecting taxpayers’ money and helping people get to where they need to go,” said Stan Cho, Associate Minister of Transportation. “Our government is making transit an appealing, convenient and simpler option for people across the Greater Golden Horseshoe.”

Ontario began increasing payment options beyond the PRESTO card in 2021 when it launched payment by credit and debit card as a pilot on UP Express. In August 2022, the province extended the option to pay by credit card, including those cards on a smartphone or smartwatch, to the entire GO Transit network, as well as the Brampton, Mississauga and Oakville transit systems. In 2023, the province will further expand new payment options to more transit agencies across the GTHA, including payment by debit.

“Reaching this milestone so quickly after launch demonstrates the high demand for more contactless payment options across the GO network and local transit systems,” said Caroline Mulrone, Minister of Transportation. “As a next step, our government will work towards expanding the tap-on credit card payment option across the 905, making it easier and more convenient for commuters in the GTHA to get to work, school, and more.”

The Ontario government is aligning the PRESTO system with best-in-class transit practices from jurisdictions across the world – delivering convenience to riders so that people can get from point A to point B more easily.

Metrolinx through PRESTO is providing new payment methods on GO Transit and select municipal transit systems by offering contactless payment – tapping on with a credit card, including those cards on a smartphone or smartwatch.

The Ontario government made local transit free for riders connecting to and from GO Transit on municipal transit systems with GO Transit and increased PRESTO discounts for youth and post-secondary students to 40 per cent off the full adult fare.

The PRESTO contactless payment pilot launched officially on UP Express in 2021, offering the option to pay with credit cards for UP customers, which was later expanded to include debit cards.

“As part of Premier Ford’s commitment to improving customer service for Ontarians, our government is making it easier and more convenient for people to access public transit. Whether you’re getting to work, school, or home, this advancement in our contactless payment system will make it more seamless for thousands of commuters in Mississauga and the GTA who use public transit every day,” said Mississauga East-Cooksville MPP Kaleed Rasheed

“After a successful launch of our pay with credit option across the GO network and select local systems, including Brampton Transit, our government is now laser-focused on getting the rest of the 905 on board and integrating debit payment beyond UP Express. Under the leadership of Premier Ford, the future of Ontario transit is bright,” added Brampton East MPP Hardeep Grewal.

“We are thrilled to see that our customers are adopting these new credit card and digital credit options to pay their fare on GO Transit and the first three local transit agencies. With a tap of their credit card, or the credit card on their smart watch or mobile phone, customers now have even more choice and convenience when choosing public transit,” said Phil Verster of Metrolinx.

Be wrapped up in music for an evening

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

A King family is opening their doors to offer residents some soul-soothing entertainment.

Michele Mele is presenting a concert Oct. 6 that celebrates music, and just how fortunate we are to have art and music in our lives.

Visitors can expect to forget about their worries and be entertained with new original music presented by young successful Toronto musicians, in an intimate setting. The hosts are offering a beverage and light snack as well as a short opening act to ease into the featured artist Cynthia Tauro.

Tauro continues to infuse a swirling breath of fresh air into today's pop-jazz scene, multi-talented Schomberg-based artist Cynthia Tauro is "Right Here" with the release of her new single and video.

As a song, "Right Here" illustrates how love slowly releases when it's left unreciprocated. It adds to her well-regarded repertoire of soulful, sensitive, and intimate songwriting combined with evocative and immersive vocals over an intrinsic love of Latin and complex jazz harmonies.

First known as a composer, musician, multi-instrumentalist and performing artist with a signature, soulful spin within the jazz-pop and world fusion realm, Tauro released her first album Moments (2019) to critical acclaim.

Cynthia has taken a year hiatus from playing, to compose and collaborate with various singers, songwriters and musicians. She will be recording a new album soon.

Her mom Michele is working on a few new projects including an interview series with prominent artists/scientists/astro-physicists connecting love, art and the universe.

Michele is an accomplished artist. The unique and eclectic sound of Mele's music has something for all artistic tastes, from smoothly flowing jazz riffs and bossa nova beats to pop-rock rhythms and electronic accents.

Please join them Thursday, Oct. 6, at 7:30 p.m. They are located at 15785 Concession Rd 8, Schomberg.

708 OBITUARIES

Jane Anne Crombie

May 26, 1947 – September 22, 2022

With heavy hearts we share the news of the passing of Jane Crombie on September 22, 2022 at Toronto General Hospital, surrounded by her family.

Daughter of William and Margaret Foreman (deceased), Jane will be missed by her brothers William Foreman (Janice), Rob Foreman and John Foreman (Helen). Left to carry on her legacy and incredible strength are her three children, Jordan (Jodi), Andrea Griepsma (Michael) and Michael (Stephanie), and her grandchildren who were the light of her world - Ava, Colton, Mitchell and baby Crombie on the way! Family was everything to Jane and she leaves behind many cousins, nieces and nephews whom she adored.

A loving mother, devoted daughter, sister, career nurse, volunteer and friend, Jane cared deeply for all those around her. Jane transformed her passion for helping others into a career, graduating from St. Joseph's School of Nursing on May 14, 1969. She started her career in nursing at The Hospital for Sick Children and went on to work at a number of Toronto hospitals.

After moving to Tottenham in 1984 as a place for her family to grow, Jane took a position as a Pharmacy Technician. This was followed by a return to school in 2000 to refresh her nursing skills, ultimately graduating with honors. This enabled Jane to take a nursing position within her beloved community, serving her neighbors and friends at the Simcoe Manor. Here she remained until 2012, where she retired as Nurse Manager, a position she cherished and considered a privilege.

Despite being born and raised in the city, Jane loved the small town of Tottenham. She spent her post retirement years tending to her large gardens at her house on The Boulevard and giving back to her community by volunteering her time at the Our Town Food Bank.

A very special thanks to Jane's cousin, Shelley Murray, whose support and friendship, especially over the last two years, will never ever be forgotten and cannot be repaid.

Visitation took place on Tuesday, September 27, 2022 from 4pm - 7pm at Rod Abrams Funeral Home, 1666 Tottenham Rd, Tottenham, ON, 905-936-3477. A final goodbye to Jane took place on Wednesday, September 28 at 10:30am at St. James Church at 2118 Adjala-Tecumseth Townline, Colgan. Reception followed at A Taste of Freedom, 24 Mill Street West, Tottenham.

Donations in Jane's memory can be made to the Our Town Food Bank or the Yonge Street Mission.

Beloved by her six grandchildren, James, Thomas & Matthew Jennison; Kelly Bulmer; Daniel & Caraline Buglyo. Bernice is predeceased by her parents Andrew Jackson & Edna Jackson (Dibble) and 5 of her 6 siblings, Doris, Jean, John, Gordon & Barbara and survived by her brother Roy.

Bernice was a 10 year volunteer driver for the Cancer Society, a member of the Nobleton Lioness Club and the Nobleton Women's Institute. She was an avid supporter of the Lions Walk for Dog Guides. The community of Nobleton honoured the Tasca Family for all their community services by dedicating the Tasca Community Park in 2016.

Funeral arrangements are on the Egan Funeral Home website. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Alzheimer's Society of Ontario, 1-800-879-4226 or the Lions Foundation of Canada Dog Guides.
