King's Safe Streets Start Here campaign on

Creating safer streets starts with all of us. Throughout September, residents can show their support for King Township's annual Safe Streets Start Here traffic safety campaign, as students return to classrooms and roads and sidewalks become busier. Through public education, residents of all ages can learn more about road safety, traffic calming measures, and micromobility while helping spread important safety messages across the community.

In partnership with York Regional Police, this year's campaign includes a community activation with a lens on e-bike and e-scooter safety as their popularity continues to grow among youth and adults. Recent national data found that 10 children died and 57 suffered severe injuries involving e-bikes and e-scooters in 2025, highlighting the importance of education, safe riding practices and helmet use.

Whether you're a driver, cyclist, pedestrian, e-bike rider or parent walking your child to school, there are plenty of opportunities to get involved and help make King Township's streets safer for everyone.

Residents can pick up a free Safe Streets Start Here lawn sign to display on their property throughout September.

The signs serve as a visual reminder to drive, walk and bike safely through local neighbourhoods. Signs are available while quantities last at the King Township Municipal Centre, Trisan Centre and Zancor Centre.

Featured event: Nobleton Lions Community Park grand reopening on Saturday, Sept. 12, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

As part of this year's campaign, King Township and York Regional Police will host interactive traffic safety booths at the grand reopening of Nobleton Lions Community Park, where residents can also enjoy live music, a magician, face painting, lawn games, pickleball, soccer, food trucks and free treats.

Curious about how King is making neighbourhood streets safer? Stop by the booth to meet the Township's Traffic Safety Specialist and learn how traffic calming and traffic control measures help encourage safer driving speeds and improve safety for pedestrians, cyclists and motorists.

With e-bikes and e-scooters becoming increasingly common in communities across York Region, York Regional Police will host an interactive community safety booth.

Hydrant Flushing Starts September 14

Flushing is a preventative maintenance process that improves water quality by clearing sediment buildup in water distribution system piping. The process does not affect the safety of your water.

While flushing is occurring in your area, you may experience low pressure and/or discolouration. Low-pressure will be resolved immediately after flushing is complete. To correct any water discolouration, run your cold water tap until water clarity returns.

Ontario taking next steps to build Highway 413

The Ontario government has issued a notice of procurement to design and build the east section of Highway 413 as well as the Highway 427 Extension.

The contract represents approximately one-third of the corridor, marking a key milestone in the delivery of this priority project and in the Province’s plan to reduce gridlock and drive economic growth across the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). Once awarded, the contract is expected to be the largest infrastructure procurement ever issued by the Ministry of Transportation.

“In the face of President Trump’s tariffs, we’re doubling down on our plan to build so we can get people moving and keep Ontario workers on the job,” said Prabmeet Sarkaria, Minister of Transportation. “Highway 413 will reduce travel times across the GTA while supporting more than 6,000 jobs per year during construction and contributing more than $1 billion to Ontario’s GDP.”

Following the notice of procurement, a request for proposals (RFP) will be issued later this fall for the design and construction of the east section of Highway 413 from Highway 400 to west of The Gore Road in Caledon. The RFP will also include the extension of Highway 427, from Major Mackenzie Drive north to Highway 413.

“Highway 413 will tackle gridlock and cut travel times across Vaughan and the GTA,” said Stephen Lecce, MPP for King—Vaughan. “Another step forward as we build the infrastructure to get commuters where they need to go, faster.”

The Ontario government has also awarded a contract for a construction manager for the Highway 413 central contract, including the 410 Extension. The 9.1-kilometre extension from Highway 410 to Highway 413 will connect motorists to Highway 407 ETR, Highway 401 and Highway 403, unlocking access to destinations such as Burlington, Hamilton, Brantford and Woodstock.

Highway 413 will have a total of 11 interchanges at municipal roads across the GTA, reducing travel times by as much as 30 minutes per trip compared to existing roads while accommodating up to 300,000 vehicles each day. The highway will ease congestion on 400-series highways across Toronto, Halton, Peel and York Region by keeping people and goods moving while slashing travel times across the region.

It will cut through southern Caledon and just skim past Nobleton to the south, into Vaughan.

Infrastructure Partners of Ontario, a joint venture consisting of Miller Paving, GIP, and Amico has been awarded the construction manager contract for the Highway 410 Extension.

The province awarded the detail design contract for the Highway 413 central contract, including the 410 Extension to Parsons Inc./Egis Canada Ltd. Joint Venture in June 2026.

The Program Management contract for overseeing the overall design, coordination and construction of Highway 413 was awarded to 413 Continuity Partners, a Joint Venture consisting of Aecom and WSP, in July 2026.

Ontario is investing $31 billion to build, repair and expand highways, roads and bridges across the province, including Highway 413, the Bradford Bypass and the Garden City Skyway twin bridge.

“As our government continues advancing work on Highway 413, we are delivering on our promise to fight gridlock, reduce travel times, and get Dufferin-Caledon families where they need to go, faster than ever before. Each step brings us closer to unlocking new destinations, a legacy transportation network, and shorter commutes for our residents,” said Deputy Premier Sylvia Jones, MPP for Dufferin-Caledon.

“Highway 413 is a key part of our government’s plan to tackle gridlock and keep people moving across the GTA, including here in Vaughan Woodbridge. To build the most competitive economy in the G7, we need the right infrastructure in place. Our government is taking bold action to support our growing communities, create good-paying jobs and strengthen Ontario’s economy by building the infrastructure we need for the future,” added Michael Tibollo, MPP for Vaughan-Woodbridge.

“Highway 413 represents a significant investment in Caledon’s future. As our community continues to grow, we need transportation infrastructure that keeps people moving, supports our local economy and takes pressure off our existing road network. Today’s progress brings us another step closer to delivering those critical connections, and I thank the Province for continuing to move this important project forward,” stated Caledon Mayor Annette Groves.

Editorial, Letters & Opinion

“A newspaper is not just ink and paper; it is the heartbeat of a community.”

Share your memories like a home-cooked meal!

During my pensive moments, as I contemplated my mortality, I have been hand-held by some fond memories.

I was reminded about the best memories of a person’s life, like the birth of a child, a wedding, family vacations and teaching our kids to ride a bike.

While I recall faint details when each of our children entered the world, a lot of it is a blur. Of course, my wife remembers each one, down to the last intricate detail, like it was yesterday.

Moms. God did go overboard in giving them some amazing qualities!

My hearing is fading and my memory of certain things isn’t as sharp as it once was. I can still rhyme off trivia and historic information like a Jeopardy champion.

I know that grief and loss can wreak havoc on someone’s mental health. A friend lost his wife to cancer roughly a year ago, and he isn’t the same. It shows on his face and the tone of his voice. He’s a shadow of his former self.

And what about those who are about to lose someone or who face an impending doom?

Many people are plagued with life-altering or debilitating illnesses. Every day is a challenge and a chore. They struggle to see the sunlight through the clouds. They are in reluctant survival mode.

My cancer journey has robbed me of my best memories. Sure, I still recall certain pleasant moments, but the flavour, the zing, has been softened, lessened to a degree.

That’s because cancer is a thief, a cold-hearted killer that steals, absorbs and destroys memories.

That’s the reality of the disease. It doesn’t just invade cells, tissues and bones, but it takes over our minds, our memories, our emotions. And there’s

People always ask me how I’m feeling and comment that I look good, considering my condition. Haven’t we been told that looks are deceiving?

Life isn’t something we necessarily joke about when we reflect on it. Even during this very challenging journey, I can still crack a joke, and recall so many fond moments. I’m not only my own personal library by the gatekeeper of my family’s history.

I recall a few incidents in my teens when I mouthed off to my dad and he ran after me but couldn’t catch me. When we stopped, he smirked, knowing that had he caught me I’d have gotten a smack upside the head. The message was clear: I don’t know why that makes me smile today, but it does.

Memories serve to strengthen us, as we grab onto them with a smile. The best moments of our lives are like food, fuel in our tanks.

Fortunately, we live in a data-driven world and our smart phones hold much more than emails and texts. They hold magic, in the form of photos and videos – the best of the best.

When feeling down, we pull out our phones, scroll through our libraries and replay those special moments. Recordings of my kids’ laughter makes me chuckle. Photos of the dogs bring smiles to this old kisser. Candles being blown out remind me of the passage of time, and how our offspring bloom. I recently doused a few candles on my birthday cake.

According to Muhammad Tuhin (Why We Remember Some Moments Forever), memories are not static but dynamic. They’re not stored like books; they’re reassembled like stories.

Each time you remember something, you don’t pull it off a shelf, you recreate it. Your brain reconstructs the memory by stitching together fragments of sights, sounds, emotions, sensations. Memory is an act of imagination built on fact.

That means remembering is a remix. It’s creative, interpretive, and deeply influenced by who you are now.

Neuroscientists have found that emotionally charged experiences trigger the amygdala, a small almond-shaped structure deep in the brain. The amygdala acts like a spotlight operator, shining attention on critical details. It helps activate the hippocampus, which is crucial for encoding memory. Together, they signal the brain to sear the event into long-term storage.

In a physical sense, we are made up of skin, flesh, blood and bones. In a more poetic and psychological sense, we are made up of memories. Memories are powerful and they are influential in how we are shaped as individuals. For example, memories from our childhood can still affect our psyche and behavior as adults.

Parents tend to be the custodians of family legacies. Their memories become our first memories; the two intertwine to become our histories and identities.

Parents also tell us the stories of their parents and ancestors to help us understand where we come from and who we are. They remind us of our potential to achieve anything and be anyone. They humanize the past with stories of our ancestors written into world history. Our parents, too, laughed and cried, loved and lost.

We are the sum total of our memories, which are stories of our life. As we travel the many roads that make up the maps of our lives, we continue to make and store memories. We take pictures and videos; we tell and record stories; we write messages and emails and caption images. All this so our children can then read our maps, understand our stories and, in doing so, better understand themselves.

We become the custodians of our children’s legacy.

So, are all of my memories who I am? Of course they are. Who would I be without them?

“Life is all memory,” according to Tennessee Williams and the present goes by so quickly you can hardly catch it.

Memory is also the mother of all wisdom. Use it wisely, and don’t discount its importance.

Like kindness, memories are meant to be shared with others. It’s all part of the same fruit salad – fresh, tasty and colourful.

Don’t keep this marvellous concoction to yourself – serve it up to everyone around you!

Local projects help municipal leaders get to know agriculture

By Drew Spoelstra
President, Ontario
Federation of Agriculture

Municipal governments make decisions every day that affect Ontario farms, from roads, bridges and farmland drainage to land use planning, development and local services. That's why farmers need to know what is happening at their local governments, but we also need to build relationships with the people making those decisions and help them understand agriculture. Agriculture is a major contributor to Ontario's economy, generating almost $53 billion for Ontario's economy and supporting more than 854,000 jobs annually, but farmers make up a relatively small share of our population.

Agriculture

But running for office isn't the only way farmers can make sure agriculture is understood at the municipal level. We also need to create opportunities for councillors, municipal staff and candidates to meet farmers, visit farms and learn about the realities of running a farm business. Three local federations have taken on projects this year to do just that, including two I represent on the board of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture as a director, Niagara and Hamilton-Wentworth. Through the OFA's Revive Fund, our 51 local federations can access matching funding for projects that support agriculture and their communities.

Since the program began in 2021, OFA, local federations and project partners have invested a combined total of approximately $1.5 million in community projects. The Niagara Federation of Agriculture invited councillors and municipal planning and economic development staff onto a bus tour for a first-hand look at agriculture in the region, visiting four agricultural businesses representing dairy, swine, beef, grain production and custom farming, as well as beekeeping and pollination services. Along the way, participants also learned about agricultural landmarks and the region's farming history. One of the interesting takeaways from the day was that while many participants knew Niagara for its tender fruit industry, they didn't realize how diverse agriculture in the region actually is. They were also surprised by the size of modern farm equipment and gained a better understanding of why road safety matters when farm machinery and other vehicles share rural roads. The Middlesex Federation of Agriculture took a different approach, hosting a politician forum last winter that brought together representatives from eight agricultural organizations with local elected officials, including municipal mayors as well as provincial and federal representatives.

Farm leaders talked about what their sectors contribute to the local economy and discussed issues including access to skilled labour, the Temporary Foreign Worker Program, processing capacity, rural infrastructure and trade. I farm in Binbrook near Hamilton and my local federation in Hamilton-Wentworth will be hosting a social this fall for municipal election candidates. It will give farmers a chance to meet candidates, hear how they plan to work with the agricultural community and talk directly with them about what farm businesses and rural residents need from their municipality.

Other federations have undertaken similar projects in previous years, such as bus tours in Frontenac and Algoma in 2025, and in Lambton in 2023, or a farmers' breakfast in Arnprior in 2024. Each project is unique, but they all accomplish something important: bringing agriculture and municipal decision-makers together.

Even in rural Ontario, we can't assume everyone understands agriculture. Councillors and municipal staff come from many different backgrounds, and some may have little direct experience with farming. That's why these local connections matter. A farm tour, breakfast meeting or conversation with election candidates gives people a chance to ask questions, see how farms operate and better understand why issues like roads, drainage, land use and development matter to farm businesses. And those relationships are much easier to build before there's a contentious planning application, road project or by-law on the council agenda. The more our local decision-makers know about agriculture, the better equipped they are to consider its needs when making decisions.

New school year; practise safety in school zones

As students head back to class, CAA South Central Ontario (CAA SCO) is encouraging families to make one simple resolution this school year: help create safer school zones. New CAA research shows that school zone congestion remains a significant concern for Ontario parents. Eight in 10 parents report congestion during school drop-off and pick-up times, while 84 per cent say they have witnessed at least one dangerous driving behaviour in their child's school zone. New CAA research shows that school zone congestion remains a significant concern for Ontario parents. Eight in 10 parents report congestion during school drop-off and pick-up times, while 84 per cent say they have witnessed at least one dangerous driving behaviour in their child's school zone. The most observed behaviours include speeding, double-parking, stopping in undesignated areas, and blocking school bus drop-off zones. "Back-to-school season is exciting, but it can also be hectic," says Tracy Marshall, manager, community relations at CAA SCO. "The good news is that small changes to our daily routines can make a meaningful difference. By planning ahead, following school drop-off procedures and staying alert, we can all help make school zones safer for children, parents and school staff." According to the survey, 63 per cent of Ontario parents reported that their child's school zone was not very safe. Three of the four most frequently observed unsafe behaviours are directly related to school drop-off and pick-up activity, highlighting the need for safer habits during busy school travel periods. CAA is encouraging families to set a few 'school year resolutions' to create safer school zones as children go back to school: Give yourself a few extra minutes: We know mornings don't always go according to plan. When possible, build in a little extra time for the school run. A less rushed arrival can help reduce behaviours such as double parking, stopping in undesignated areas, or dropping children off in unsafe locations. Follow your school's drop-off routine: Every school has procedures designed to move students safely and efficiently. Following designated pick-up and drop-off practices, even when the line is long, helps improve traffic flow and creates a safer experience for children, families, and school staff. Consider a "park and walk:" If it's practical for your family, parking a short distance from the school and walking the last block can help ease congestion near entrances while giving children an opportunity to build road safety awareness. Help reduce traffic with active school travel: If possible, incorporate active school travel into your family's routine, even one or two days per week. Encouraging your kids to walk or wheel to school helps to ease traffic congestion, among other benefits. Reinforce road safety rules: Proactively chat with children about how to safely walk, bike or scooter based on their age and neighbourhood. Simple reminders like looking "left, right, left" before crossing, paying attention to adult crossing guards and staying alert around driveways and parking lots can make a big difference. CAA SCO is also asking all motorists to remember that when you're in a school zone, children are nearby. Drivers can support school zone safety with a few simple actions: Stay alert: Put away distractions and focus on the road. Children can appear unexpectedly between parked vehicles, near crossings or around school buses. Slow down: Reduce your speed and be prepared to stop. School zones require extra attention, particularly during arrival and dismissal periods. Watch for school buses and crossing guards: Always obey school bus signals and be aware of adult crossing guards, safety patrollers and students crossing the road. Not only is it illegal to pass a stopped school bus with red lights flashing and the stop arm extended, it is also incredibly dangerous.

Ontario launches Student and Family Support Offices at all school boards

The Ontario government has expanded Student and Family Support Offices to all 72 school boards across the province, giving parents and families a clear, effective way to get help regarding their child’s education and find solutions faster. Every school board has an office in place as an additional way to help families get answers on broader community concerns, navigate complex issues and receive the information and support they need.

This initiative is one more way the government is delivering on its broader plan to make school boards more accountable and focused on student success with a back-to-basics approach that strengthens student achievement and prepares them for rewarding careers. Parents can find contact information for the Student and Family Support Office on their local school board’s main webpage.

“Parents should have a clear and consistent way to raise concerns and get answers when it comes to their child’s education,” said Paul Calandra, Minister of Education. “We are strengthening accountability across our school boards and making sure families can get the support they need when they need it. Everything we are doing is focused on improving student achievement and ensuring every student has the opportunity to succeed.”

Student and Family Support Offices review concerns raised by parents to help address matters that need to be escalated following initial engagement with a child’s teacher and principal. As part of their mandate, these offices streamline the response process for families by acknowledging inquiries within two business days and aiming to provide an answer within five business days. School boards are also expected to ensure responses to parent inquiries are conducted in a clear manner that is easily understood by a parent and include relevant and accurate information that addresses the specific inquiry.

This will make the education system more responsive and accessible for families by ensuring existing resources can be directed to help students, parents and families navigate the education system and making sure their concerns are addressed. The Ministry of Education will collect information regularly from all 72 school boards to identify patterns and trends about the types of concerns parents are raising, helping to find ways to improve processes so students and families receive better support. Student and Family Support Offices have already been operating in supervised school boards, with 95 per cent of family inquiries acknowledged within two business days and nearly 90 per cent receiving a response within five business days or an estimated response date for more complex matters. The experience from these offices has helped inform the expansion of this consistent approach to all school boards across the province. These actions reflect the government’s continued focus on upholding public trust in Ontario’s publicly funded education system and are part of the government’s plan to build a strong, accountable and well-supported public education system with a back-to-basics approach that is focused on improving student outcomes. Ontario is providing historic levels of education funding in 2026-27, with an investment of $30.6 billion in Core Education Funding to focus key resources where they matter most: on student success. For the 2026-27 school year, Ontario is making changes to strengthen student achievement and deliver more consistent learning experiences across the province that prepare students for the jobs of tomorrow. Students and teachers will return to updated curriculum, new classroom resources and stronger supports, including new tools to support financial literacy and math, and clearer expectations around attendance and assessment.

Include pets in your emergency planning

Your emergency plan should include every member of the family, including the four-legged ones. Pets like Rambo – an adoptable boxer mix from Dog Tales Rescue and Sanctuary seen here visiting King City Firefighters Association Station 34 – are naturally curious and can accidentally bump into, turn on or knock over household appliances. To help prevent fires, the Office of the Fire Marshal recommends keeping pets away from: Stoves and countertops, electrical cords, fireplaces, candles, lamps and space heaters (or opt for battery-operated, flameless candles). For tips on keeping your furry friends safe in an emergency, visit king.ca/fire.

King Fire assists Vaughan during storm

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

King Fire and Emergency Services crews were quick to come to the aid of neighbours to the south during the unprecedented storm last week.

Massive flooding and damage resulted from the Sept. 2 thunderstorm, submerging parts of Vaughan.

Torrential rain, winds and hail pounded areas of the GTA. This storm, which was considered a 100-year event, dropped between 50 and 100 millimeters of rain across the GTA.

City staff noted that downed trees on private property are the responsibility of the homeowner. You can reach out to a tree removal service for assistance.

The city reported that flood cleanup and repairs took place on Huntington Road, Trade Valley Drive, Highway 7 and Rutherford, after a large sink hole was reported.

The city temporary closed pathways at Jersey Creek Park, Veterans Park, Glen Shields Park, Nort Johnson District Park, Marita Payne Park and the East Don Open Space due to flooding and downed trees. Sports fields were also closed.

City crews worked around the clock to address flooding, water ponding, downed trees and branches, and other storm-related issues across the community.

KFES crews and vehicles jumped into action to help out.

According to King Mayor Steve Pellegri, the severe flooding in Vaughan generated 230 emergency calls, including 130 calls within just three hours and 10 structure fires.

“In support of our neighbouring community, King Fire and Emergency Services deployed four trucks and two chief vehicles. Our crews responded to eight incidents, including five water rescues and at least one structure fire,” he said.

“I want to thank every member of our Fire and Emergency Services team for their outstanding service and dedication during a challenging day.

In Vaughan, crews continued cleaning up downed trees and branches for several days.

King Township experienced some storm-related impacts to both its trail and road networks. Parks and Forestry staff inspected parks and trails following the storm and identified several areas where trail sections had been washed out. Affected trails have been closed to the public and crews are continuing restoration efforts.

The most significant impact to the road network occurred on 16th Sideroad between the 11th and 12th Concessions, where an existing cross culvert near 8110 16th Sideroad failed during the extreme weather event, compromising the road shoulder. Township staff identified the issue during routine road patrols and immediately implemented a temporary lane reduction and traffic control measures to ensure public safety.

Roads staff stabilized the affected area Sept. 4, while arrangements are being made to complete a permanent repair of the 8 to 10-metre-deep culvert. The site is being monitored closely.

tie on their victories in the York-Simcoe and Hamilton East-Stoney Creek by-elections.

“Ontario voters in York-Simcoe and Hamilton East-Stoney Creek elected two strong local representatives who will protect Ontario, stand up for workers and families and keep our province moving forward,” said Ford. “I want to congratulate Susan and Jeff on their victories and thank every volunteer and supporter who worked so hard to elect them.”

Lahey, a small business owner, East Gwillimbury Town Councillor and long-time community volunteer, was elected after running a campaign focused on affordability, responsible growth, improving local infrastructure and strengthening local health care.

“These results are a strong vote of confidence in our plan to protect Ontario,” said Ford. “At a time when President Trump’s tariffs are threatening our workers and economy, people want a government that will stand up for Ontario, keep costs down, build the infrastructure our growing communities need and do whatever it takes to protect our workers and jobs.”

King-Vaughan MPP Stephen Lecce offered his congratulations.

“We live in unprecedented times. Our unity and focus have never been more consequential as we fight back against Trump’s tariffs and shambolic foreign policy by building big at home,” Lecce said. “Ontario families chose stability. A decisive win for Susan, and a clear sign of confidence behind our government’s plan to protect Ontario. I look forward to working closely with Susan to keep our community safe and affordable for the families, seniors, and farmers we serve. This strong partnership is helping to build legacy projects like the new Southlake Hospital and Bradford Bypass.”

With Lahey joining the Ontario PC team at Queen’s Park, Ford and Ontario’s PCs will continue working to protect Ontario by building roads, highways, transit and hospitals, strengthening health care, lowering costs and making Ontario the most competitive place in the G7 to invest and create good-paying jobs.

Susan withdrew her paperwork to run municipally once she became the candidate provincially.

The PCs have held this riding since it was created in 2007. Long-serving MPP Julia Munro held the post before Mulroney took over in 2018. The riding covers the northern part of King Township, Bradford West Gwillimbury, East Gwillimbury and Georgina.

Global technology leader to move operations to King-Jane Business Park

One of the world’s most recognized electronics brands is coming to King Township. LG Electronics Canada (LG) will occupy nearly one million square feet across two buildings at the King-Jane Business Park, becoming one of the Township’s largest employers.

The announcement came September 3 during a groundbreaking ceremony attended by Premier Doug Ford and the Honourable Victor Fideli, Minister of Economic Development, Job Creation and Trade.

Strategically located at the intersection of King Road and Jane Street with direct access to Highway 400, the facility offers exceptional connectivity to transportation networks, labour markets and regional supply chains. As part of the King-Jane Business Park, LG will be located within the largest Zero Carbon Certified industrial development currently underway in the Greater Toronto Area, supporting both economic investment and environmental sustainability. The development is the result of more than 25 years of planning, employment land protection, infrastructure investment and environmental review.

At full build-out, the King-Jane Business Park is projected to generate approximately $4 million in additional annual property tax revenue, including $1.1 million annually for King Township, subject to MPAC assessment. This expands the non-residential tax base and reduces reliance on residential property taxes.

Of the five industrial buildings, total development charge revenue is projected to reach approximately $70.2 million. These charges will be collected as the remaining buildings move through the development and building permit stages, with full occupancy of the site expected by 2030. This helps fund growth-related infrastructure such as roads, water and wastewater systems, parks, recreation facilities, libraries, and fire protection services.

“This investment reflects the collaborative efforts of Township staff, development partners and regional stakeholders working together to support responsible growth. King Township is committed to providing a business-friendly environment that helps companies invest, create jobs, and contribute to the long-term prosperity of the community,” said King CAO Daniel Kostopoulos.

The development reflects King Township’s ongoing commitment to supporting economic growth through efficient approvals, business-friendly processes and strategic partnerships. Municipal approvals were issued on an expedited timeline to support the project’s targeted occupancy date.

LG joins a growing network of businesses investing in King Township and York Region, supported by the Township’s Economic Development team through a concierge-style service that helps companies navigate approvals, identify opportunities and connect with key resources.

As part of York Region, King Township benefits from a strong and diverse business ecosystem. LG will join a regional network of more than 100 corporate and third-party warehouses and distribution centres, as well as more than 4,800 information and communications technology companies. The region’s access to major transportation corridors, international markets and highly skilled talent continues to attract leading multinational companies seeking opportunities for growth and innovation.

King Township has approximately 150 acres of employment lands under development.

King Township was home to 1,556 businesses in 2025.

King Township is planning for approximately 17,700 jobs by 2051.

At full build-out, the King-Jane Business Park is projected to generate approximately $4 million in additional annual property tax revenue, including $1.1 million annually for King Township.

Across the five industrial buildings at Jane-King Business Park, total development charge collections are projected at approximately $70.2 million.

The business park is projected to increase the property’s assessed value from approximately $29.4 million to $216 million at full build-out, subject to MPAC assessment.

Province provides $16.6 million in funding to support Southlake

By Brock Weir

Nearly $17 million in Provincial dollars are coming to Southlake Health’s Newmarket campus to improve accessibility and infrastructure.

The funding was announced at Southlake’s Cancer Centre by Newmarket-Aurora MPP Dawn Gallagher Murphy, who said $3.7 million through Ontario’s Health Infrastructure Renewal Fund (HIRF) will support significant infrastructure upgrades, while the balance of $12.9 million would support ongoing hospital operations.

“Across Ontario, our government is investing more than $281 million in critical upgrades and repairs at hospitals and community health care facilities, which includes $266 million through the HIRF investment,” said Gallagher Murphy. “Our support for Southlake also extends to services that patients rely on every day. Our infrastructure is critical because without infrastructure we don’t have a building where people can come to for care. Last year, we did see more than $14.8 million in support of emergency care, expanding CT operating hours, operational funding to reduce wait times, as well as surgical recovery times. These investments, they all matter because our community is growing and our local health care system has to grow with it.

“It takes a village and Southlake has the cream of the crop when it comes to the professionals who help care for our community members. Every investment we make ultimately supports the people who walk through the doors, who are seeking urgent care, who are seeking comfort, who are seeking hope. That ... is what it’s all about: making sure that when someone in our community needs care, they can receive it close to home in a safe and modern environment.”

Dr. Paul Woods, President & CEO of Southlake Health, said the $12.9 million increase in operational funding comes at “an important time for Southlake” and the communities of northern York Region and southern Simcoe County they serve.

“As our communities continue to grow, so too does the demand for leading-edge care,” said Woods. “A new patient arrives at Southlake approximately every four-and-a-half minutes and when they do, we need to be ready. Today’s investments will help ensure that we continue to deliver the safe, timely and compassionate care every patient deserves.

“Operating funding is what allows hospitals to provide care every day. It supports the people, programs and services that patients rely on, from emergency and inpatient care to surgery, diagnostics and specialized regional programs. It also gives us greater flexibility to respond to the growing needs of some of the fastest-growing and aging communities in Ontario, while continuing to invest in quality, innovation and the patient experience. It is especially timely as we look towards the future and our vision to build a distributed health network that delivers leading-edge care even closer to home. We recognize that every public dollar comes with a responsibility to use it wisely and Southlake remains committed to responsible financial stewardship, continuously improving how we deliver care and ensuring investments are directed where they have the greatest impact that benefits patients, visitors, staff and medical staff.”

Speaking to the impact of the HIRF funding, Nathan Robinson, Southlake Health’s Director of Capital Development, said the $3.7 million will help renew critical behind-the-scenes and front-of-mind resources that support patients, staff, and physicians there every day.

“The funding will support priority infrastructure projects that includes dealing with our emergency power systems as well as our heating, cooling and air conditioning systems. These projects are important to create a safe and reliable environment for patients, families and care teams,” he said. “This ensures critical systems remain energized during a power outage, air management systems are reliable and that our infrastructure is in alignment with infection control standards.

“This funding also has a secondary benefit that sometimes isn’t considered. When critical infrastructure projects like these are funded through the HIRF program, the hospital is able to move forward with other high priority projects to improve or enhance the patient experience. This year, the capital that Southlake would have been allocating to deal with those infrastructure projects is going to be reallocated to renew the lobby of our East Building. That project is going to improve accessibility and safety for all patients and visitors that visit the hospital.

“The reality of operating a busy hospital is that the infrastructure requires constant attention and that attention is critical to ensuring clinical teams and patients can focus on what matters: high quality care.”

Positive attitude helps you face frightening reality

When Ashley Gairdner was diagnosed with breast cancer at the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, she was suddenly facing two frightening realities at once. She had never been in a hospital in her life. Now, in the midst a global pandemic, she entered one to be treated for an aggressive form of triple negative breast cancer.

Her response was simple: “I told myself to put on a brave face, pull up my socks and get through it I thought if I don’t do that, I’m just going to be in the corner crying through it.”

That positive attitude became an important part of her journey along with the unwavering support of her husband, family, friends and colleagues. Her husband, Jim, became her constant source of strength. He researched her diagnosis, listened carefully to what the doctors had to say, and helped Ashley hear what she needed to hear.

At the time of her diagnosis, Ashley had worked as an Air Canada flight attendant for more than 30 years. She had also won accolades as a competitive archer. She was accustomed to a busy life, always on the go and found it particularly difficult when treatment forced her to come to a full stop.

“I was always a workaholic. It was hard not to do things,” she recalls. The treatment left her exhausted and there were moments when the reality of what she was going through became impossible to ignore.

One of the most memorable came while she was in the shower: “I ran my hands through my hair and watched it

York Regional Police and partners launch drug overdose awareness

York Regional Police and community partners launched Your Region Cares, a month-long awareness campaign encouraging residents to learn about overdose prevention, prepare to respond, access local supports and have compassionate, judgment-free conversations about substance use and recovery.

The campaign began on International Overdose Awareness Day, August 31, and continues throughout National Recovery Awareness Month in September. It brings together York Regional Police, York Region Public Health, Paramedic Services, Addiction Services Central Ontario, The Farm Rehab Stouffville, Vitanova Foundation, CAYR Community Connections and the John Howard Society of York Region.

This year’s International Overdose Awareness Day theme, “25 Years On. Still Needed.” recognizes the continuing need for awareness, prevention, harm reduction, treatment and recovery support. Throughout September, campaign messaging will help York Region residents better understand overdoses, recognize the role naloxone can play in an emergency, find local programs and services, and support people affected by substance use without stigma.

“Overdose and substance use affect individuals, families, workplaces and communities across York Region,” said Deputy Chief Ahmad Salhia, who also serves as Co-Chair Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police Substance Advisory Committee. “Police are one part of a broader community response. Through this campaign, we want residents to know that help is available, recovery is possible and that every person can play a role by learning how to respond with compassion and care.”

The campaign will feature educational content on social media and online, along with weekly spotlights on participating community organizations. These spotlights will outline the services available across the region, including emergency response, harm reduction, addictions counselling, peer support, treatment and recovery.

Residents can visit yrp.ca (external link) throughout the campaign for credible information, local resources and links to participating organizations. York Regional Police and its partners encourage everyone to remember, learn and act – because Your Region Cares.

If you witness someone experiencing an overdose, call 9-1-1 immediately. Naloxone is available at no cost at all York Regional Police District buildings, at participating Ontario pharmacies and at various community organizations.

fall out. That was my reality check.”

Yet, throughout her own difficult journey she wanted to contribute to something larger than herself. She took part in an ongoing drug trial, examining whether women with triple negative breast cancer might be able to receive less chemotherapy while still achieving good outcomes. In doing so she found herself following, in her own way, the footsteps of Terry Fox.

Terry began his Marathon of Hope with the belief that research could change the future for people living with cancer. His determination helped bring unprecedented public attention to cancer research and inspired millions of Canadians to believe that one person could make a difference. Ashley’s participation in drug trial research was one way she could help carry that message forward.

Her cancer journey also taught her something she had not expected: She was stronger than she thought she was. Although she has returned to work and archery, her cancer experience has changed the way she looks at life.

“You just never know what can happen.”

She has learned to slow down and enjoy life more. The woman who once measured her days by how much she could accomplish now appreciates having a calmer life and making time for the things that matter, and above all, she is grateful for the people who stood beside her. “My husband,” she says, is what she is most grateful for.

As the Terry Fox Run approaches on Sunday, September 20, she hopes her story will encourage anyone newly diagnosed with cancer to hold onto hope. Her advice is a simple and reassuring one, “You are going to be fine.”

Please join us the community Sunday, September 20 (9 a.m. to noon) at Wellesley Park (northwest corner of King Road and Keele Street). Walk, run, or cycle 2K, 5K, or 10K routes and bring the whole family. If you can’t join us, please consider donating. All donations help support cancer research and bring us closer to a future where fewer people will have to face Ashley’s journey.

Peri’s experience will guide him in council role

By Mark Pavilons
Editor

A King City man has entered what’s currently a three-man race for the Ward 5 council seat.

Gregory Peri has jumped into the ring, aiming for the seat left vacant by outgoing councillor Debbie Shaefer.

While this is his first time running for office, he’s not new to municipal government.

“I have spent over 20 years working on the administration side in recreation, community development, and now accessibility. That experience showed me just how much good local government can do when it’s genuinely connected to the people it serves. I know how budgets are built, and I know how decisions at Town Hall impact the community,” he said.

Ultimately, the biggest reason he’s running is his family.

“My wife and I are raising our two daughters right here in King City. Every single decision council makes about our parks, roads, development, and community safety is going to shape the world they grow up in. I want to be at that table, not just as someone with the right résumé, but as a dad who is deeply invested in getting it right for every family.”

King Municipal

What draws him to this role is the chance to bridge a gap that often leaves residents feeling frustrated.

“From the inside, I know how municipal government operates. I know how a great idea moves through staff reports, budget cycles, and council motions before it actually becomes something you can see and use. From the outside, as a resident, I also know what it feels like to wonder, ‘Why is this project taking so long?’ or ‘Who do I even call to fix this?’”

After two decades of navigating that system, he wants to bring that fluency directly to the community.

“I do not want to translate for residents from a distance. I want to work right alongside them so the process feels less like a closed door and more like an open conversation.”

The success of council, he said, comes down to trust. When council respects the professionalism of staff and gives them the clear direction and space they need to do their jobs well, great ideas actually get built instead of stalling out.

“On the flip side, when staff work collaboratively with council on the Strategic Plan, those priorities do not just sit in a binder on a shelf. They show up in the projects breaking ground and the services residents notice every single day. That open communication is the difference between an idle plan and a thriving community, and it’s a culture I fully intend to support and carry forward.”

He’s “energized” about getting out and helping people.

“Being out in the community, whether I am chatting with folks at the front door, meeting residents over coffee, or attending local events, is not a chore attached to the job. It is the job.”

King Township is not just one big blank canvas, and Ward 5 is a “beautiful mix of vibrant residential neighbourhoods, deeply rooted rural farming communities and the growing King City core. Every pocket of our ward has its own unique history and character. The late nights, the early mornings, and the committee meetings are all part of the commitment, and I am completely ready for that rhythm.”

Peri is already up on current issues. He’s reviewed the current Strategic Plan and the Term of Council Community Report, which are fantastic foundations to build on.

“My focus centers on three main pillars, viewed through a lens of fiscal responsibility, and shaped directly by ongoing conversations with residents across the ward:

“Recreation and Community Spaces: We need to expand recreational opportunities across King Township while recognizing the distinct needs of each community. Our facilities and programming must reflect our local heritage and serve the practical daily needs of modern families.

“Lived Accessibility: Becoming a fully Age Friendly Community is vital so our seniors can age in place with dignity and independence. As an Accessibility Advisor, I know the gap between passing a policy on paper and a resident feeling the difference. I will ensure our infrastructure and community programmes are truly inclusive in practice.

“Smart, Balanced Growth: Looking toward the Official Plan review for 2051, growth requires strict infrastructure alignment. Whether addressing density or infill proposals, our roads, water services, and public spaces must keep pace with new projects to protect the long term character of our town.

“These conversations make clear that Ward 5 faces diverse challenges. Serving our residents properly requires total transparency and giving everyone an active voice in municipal decisions.”

Peri’s roots in this community run deep – he attended King City Secondary School, and his family has called King home for over a decade.

“Professionally, I bring more than 20 years of hands-on municipal experience across many areas. Currently, I serve as an Accessibility Advisor, working directly with residents and community organizations to make our public spaces more inclusive. I also sit on King Township’s Accessibility Advisory Committee.

“Because of that role, the perspective I will bring to council is not theoretical. It is grounded in direct, everyday conversations with neighbours who tell me exactly what is working and what needs fixing. I am running because I want to make sure the next chapter for Ward 5 is written by, and for, the people who live it.”

Peri is hosting a community meet-and-greet on Tuesday, Sept. 22, at Laskay Hall, with two drop-in times: 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Please drop by, grab a warm drink, and let’s talk about the future of our ward!

York Region Reports First Human Case of West Nile virus in 2026

York Region Public Health has confirmed an individual in the City of Vaughan has tested positive for West Nile virus (WNV), marking York Region’s first human case in 2026. West Nile virus spreads to people through the bite of an infected mosquito.

Most people who get West Nile virus do not feel sick. Some people may develop flu-like symptoms such as fever, headache, body aches, tiredness or muscle weakness. In rare cases, West Nile virus can be life threatening and can cause inflammation of the brain (encephalitis), particularly in older adults and people with a weakened immune system. Residents who experience any of these symptoms are advised to seek medical attention.

Mosquitoes carrying West Nile virus have been found in most municipalities across York Region this summer. Human cases of West Nile virus are not unusual and York Region typically has a few cases reported each year around this time. Residents are encouraged to take simple steps to protect themselves from mosquito bites.

To protect yourself from mosquito bites, York Region Public Health encourages everyone to use a Health Canada approved insect repellent containing DEET or icaridin and follow the label directions; wear long sleeves, long pants and light-coloured clothing when outdoors (e.g., gardening, walking, hiking); remove standing water around your home such as water in buckets, flowerpots, toys, bird baths and pool covers.

York Region monitors mosquitoes each summer and takes steps to help reduce mosquito populations across the Region, including larviciding using provincially/federally approved pesticides.

Football fans can fill their plate from an all-you-can-view buffet

By Jim Stewart

For North American football fans, September offers an exquisite three-course meal.

The appetizer has been served all summer with the CFL putting on its traditional brand of entertainment with numerous last minute victories telecast. CFL fans were revved up throughout the Labour Day Weekend with three classic showdowns to enjoy on TSN.

The Roughriders hosted their much-hated Prairie adversaries – the Winnipeg Blue Bombers – in Regina at Mosaic in what turned out to be another Labour Day Classic. The latest installment resulted in a Riders’ edge-of-your-seat 32-26 OT victory. It featured all that is great about the CFL including a last second game-tying TD and conversion by the Blue Bombers to push the game into overtime. The two squads renew their long history of hostilities at Princess Auto Stadium in Winnipeg on Saturday for another edition of The Banjo Bowl.

The Hamilton Tiger Cats’ playoff hopes took a beating when they hosted their historical rival – the Toronto Argonauts – on Labour Day on Monday afternoon and dropped a 37-22 decision to the Boatmen.

The Battle of Alberta – matching the surprising, first-place Edmonton Elks visiting the last-place Stampeders in Calgary – closed out TSN’s Labour Day Monday doubleheader. The Elks eked out a 38-28 come-from-behind win. The Elks outscored Calgary 24-3 in the fourth quarter to steal the win on the road.

Those three games, plus the Alouettes’ comeback 37-30 win over the Lions in Montreal on Friday night, gave fans of three-down football a full slate of Labour Day Weekend games to set up the path of their favorite team to the 113th Grey Cup on Sunday, November 15 at McMahon Stadium in Calgary.

For fans of four-down football who have been embracing the CFL as a placeholder until their favorite NFL teams take to the turf, this month serves as the entrée – a variety of dishes to choose from on the viewing menu.

Opening Day for the NFL was Wednesday, September 9 when the Seattle Seahawks hosted the New England Patriots and the LA Rams hosted the San Francisco 49ers in this season’s first installment of Thursday Night Football. Sunday, September 13 features a buffet of Week 1 matchups with thirteen games on the schedule.

Saskatchewan Roughrider mascot Gainer the Gopher, seen here amping up a sold-out crowd at an Argos-Riders game in Halifax--had much to cheer about after his club held off the Blue Bombers 32-26 in the Labour Day Classic at Mosaic Stadium on Sunday.

Prominent among those opening games will be Game 1 for the star-crossed Buffalo Bills. The Western New York franchise is still looking for its first Super Bowl championship after so many close calls, but hope springs eternal in The Queen City and for local fans of the Bills. Buffalo’s first game of the new season is in Houston at Reliant Stadium at 1 PM on September 13 on CBS. The Bills will roll into Game 2 of their schedule just four days later when they host the Detroit Lions at brand new Highmark Stadium on Thursday, September 17 commencing at 8:15 PM on Prime Video.

For the truly-obsessed football fan, a rich dessert of U.S. College games kicked off and will culminate in multiple Bowl games in December and January. Local universities began their OUA seasons last weekend with the York Lions edging the Carleton Ravens 35-34 in Toronto before getting decimated 78-7 by the perennially-powerful Western Mustangs on Labour Day Weekend. Ouch. The Lions’ cross-town rivals, the University of Toronto Blues absorbed a couple of beatings at the hands of Queen’s 28-12 on August 30 and Ottawa 44-3 on September 5.

There’s plenty of pigskin action to go around and the energized atmosphere of secondary school football serves as a nice espresso after a three-course meal.

The Villanova College Knights will be competing in the GTA Varsity Football AA Division this Fall and provide free entertainment in September and October at their King City campus at Keele St. and 15th Sideroad. Three Knights have signed letters of intent with OUA football teams in the last two years. Jerry Giovannone (2024) committed to the University of Toronto Varsity Blues, Tennyson Tobin (2024) committed to the Western University Mustangs, and Max Vialykh-Patti (2025) committed to the McMaster University Marauders. “V is for Victory and V is for Villanova,” indeed.

Bon appetit, football fans.

Annual Memorial Golf Tournament raises $20,000 while honouring fallen officers

A day dedicated to remembrance, community, and giving back has resulted in a significant impact for local charities and police families.

York Regional Police Association’s 36th Annual Memorial Golf Tournament, held June 10 at Pheasant Run Golf Club, brought together 156 golfers and raised $20,000 in support of two deserving causes. Proceeds included $15,000 for Community Living Central York and $5,000 for the Association’s Benevolent Fund.

For more than three decades, the Memorial Golf Tournament has been much more than a day on the golf course. It is a cherished tradition that honours the memory of officers who made the ultimate sacrifice in the line of duty while strengthening the Association’s longstanding commitment to supporting those in need.

“We are incredibly grateful for the continued generosity of our sponsors, participants, volunteers, and supporters,” said Sean Briard, President of the York Regional Police Association. “This tournament not only honours the memory of our fallen officers, but also reflects the values of service, compassion, and community that are central to our profession. The funds raised will have a direct and positive impact on individuals and families across York Region and within our policing community.”

The tournament’s primary charitable beneficiary, Community Living Central York, supports more than 1,000 individuals with diverse abilities across York Region through housing, employment services, day and evening programs, and respite care. The organization’s work helps individuals build independence, connections, and opportunities within their communities.

“Community Living Central York is incredibly grateful to the York Regional Police Association, tournament participants, sponsors, volunteers, and everyone who helped make this year’s Memorial Golf Tournament such a success,” said Andrew Fagan, CEO, Community Living Central York. “Your ongoing support continues to create meaningful opportunities for supported individuals and helps ensure they can build connections, participate in our community, and pursue greater independence. More than a donation, this support represents a commitment to inclusion, belonging, and creating a stronger community for everyone. On behalf of the individuals, families, and staff at CLCY, thank you for making such a meaningful impact each year.”

Funds raised for the Benevolent Fund will provide critical financial assistance to Association members and their families during times of hardship caused by illness, injury, or death.

The Association extends its sincere appreciation to the many sponsors whose support made the event possible, including SurNet Ellen Peterman Insurance, Harry Black, and Zare Paralegal Services. Their support, along with the dedication of volunteers and participants, helped make the tournament another success.

Cheryl Stenson's message this past Sunday contrasted two scriptures, "eye for an eye" from the Old Testament and "turn the other cheek" from Jesus in the New Testament. The hand used implied different things. Turning the other cheek exhibits restraint and forced a slap that was a challenge to an equal rather than a rebuke or reprimand. Turning the other cheek implied moving in a new direction. Jesus challenged the status quo by advocating for peace, widows, children and the poor. We should all follow his example.

St. Andrew's Church

Welcome to St. Andrew's at 13190 Keele St. Please note that our morning worship is at 10:30 a.m., now that we're back to "fall times."

Our Pastor, Alison Agnew spoke on the importance of Shabbat, another kind gift from God: the rest, a cessation of work and busyness (juggling balls), especially appropriate when we hit fall with school, work, busy calendars and groups starting up.

We had our last summer "All Together Sunday" with our Partnership Church, The Well (King City) and their two other campuses Vaughan and Bolton. We celebrated our renos over the summer and the churches are all looking forward to the fall. Afterwards there was delicious pizza on the patio and in the park.

We are looking forward to A Women's Gathering put on by Oak Ridges Presbytery at St. Andrew's, King City. Christine Samuels has been asked to lead "Gather in Grace for Every Season" on Saturday, September 19 from 9:30 a.m. to noon. So ladies, mark your calendars and get a ticket from Pastor Alison to reserve your spot. ($5). The money will go to support youth in York Region - www.360kids.ca. All Saints Anglican Church
By Kit Woods

There is something special about coming home.

Throughout the summer months, our 10:30 a.m. congregation has enjoyed worshipping together in the chapel at All Saints. The smaller space has given our summer services a quieter and more intimate feeling. This has been a lovely change of pace during a season when many of us are travelling, spending time at cottages, or enjoying a slower rhythm of life.

But as summer begins to give way to fall, it is time for us to make our way back into the main church.

On Sunday, September 13, our 10:30 a.m. service will return to our beautiful main worship space. (Our 8:30 a.m. service will continue, as always, in the chapel.) There is something wonderful about filling that larger space again, hearing familiar voices, singing together, and watching our church come alive as people return from their summer adventures.

And then, on Sunday, September 20 at 10:30 a.m., we will celebrate "Welcome Home Sunday!"

This will be a joyful morning of worship, music, food, and fellowship. Our service will be accompanied by the lively sounds of a Dixieland band, and afterward we will gather for a potluck meal, sharing food, conversation, laughter, and perhaps a few stories about where the summer has taken us.

But "Welcome Home" is also our opportunity to say to our neighbours and to those who may be looking for a spiritual home.

OBITUARIES - FOREVER IN OUR Hearts

KAY NOREEN BROOKS (née Campbell)

We mourn the loss and celebrate the life of Kay Noreen Brooks (née Campbell) who died peacefully on Tuesday, September 1, 2026, at Margaret Bahen Hospice in Newmarket, Ontario. Kay was born September 15, 1940 to Archibald and Minnie Campbell (née Bottomley) in Kinghorn, Ontario.

Throughout her life, Kay valued and imparted to her family a high and noble work ethic. She worked a variety of jobs ranging from driving her dad's tractor on the farm as a child; to waitressing as a teen; to administrative work at the Department of Transportation in her twenties; and to volunteering as a driver for the Catholic Children's Aid Society. In midlife, Kay attended night school in college to attain a degree in Human Resources Professions in 1996. She worked her way up to become Human Resources Manager and Executive Assistant to the Vice-President and President of adidas Canada, where she remained until her retirement—after twenty-five years of long, often ten-hour days.

Kay's passions included gardening, playing hockey and baseball, the Leafs, the daily Toronto Star, and to the horror of her neighbours, adopting every cat that arrived in her King City backyard. She loved animals, flowers, and the natural green environs of King Township. Above all else, Kay valued kindness, local community engagement, and compassion for those in need. Her potato salad was world class.

She is survived by her husband of sixty-four years, John (Jack) Arthur Brooks, her son, John David Brooks, her daughter, Noreen Ann Robbins, and her granddaughter, Madeline Brooks Robbins. She will also be missed by her daughter-in-law, Sandra Gayle Alves and her son-in-law, David Andrew Robbins.

A Celebration of Life will be held at The Meadows of Aurora in the Muskoka Room on Saturday, October 10, 2026, at 2pm. Park Tower, 460 William Graham Drive, L4G 1X5.

The family requests donations be made in memory of Kay to Margaret Bahen Hospice in lieu of flowers or gifts. Donations: <https://www.myhospice.ca/support-my-hospice/>

Education is a key to moving out of poverty especially in developing nations. Among the keys to success is the ability to come to school rested and equipped with the necessary learning materials. The Toronto-based charity "Sleeping Children Around the World" which the Club supports, works with partner agencies in Africa and Asia to supply "bed kits" to needy children so they can be successful in school. A sample bed kit, depending on the country, could consist of a sleeping mat, blanket, mosquito netting, clothing, hygiene items and school supplies. Contents are purchased locally in the countries receiving the bedkits at much lower prices than here so the $40 CDN cost buys what would cost several times as much if purchased in Canada. For more information, please visit its website, www.scaw.org

To learn more about how the Nobleton Lions engage with both the local community and the wider Lions International worldwide community, please visit our website which can be accessed by Googling "www.Nobleton Lions Club" You may also follow us on Instagram at nobleton.lions.club
